RITES FOR GOOD TO BE MARKED BY SIMPLICITY

Business of Government Will Be Suspended as Capital Mourns.

MORNING SESSION OF SENATE SUSPENDED

Hoover and Officials to Attend Services Today at White House.

SPECIAL TRAIN WILL BEAR BODY TO IOWA

Full Military Honors Are Planned for Funeral of Cabinet Member.

In respect to the late Secretary of War, James W. Good, the Senate will not convene until 1 o'clock today.

All Federal and District Government offices, as well as the Public Library and all its branches, also will be closed until 1 p. m.

The public schools will not be closed.

In the presence of President Hoover and a notable gathering of high Government officials final tribute and homage will be paid to James W. Good, Secretary of War, at 11 o'clock this morning during brief and simple obsequies in the east room of the White House, where the Nation has honored many distinguished sons.

Though the services will be as restricted as possible, full military honors will be extended to the dead War Secretary. The guard of honor, which took its station shortly after his death, will remain with the body until it is placed in the Secretary's native soil.

With a flag draped across the casket, the body will be brought on a cassion to the White House at 9 o'clock from Walter Reed Hospital, where Secretary Good was taken a week ago for an acute appendicitis operation and where he fought valiantly against the dreaded blood poisoning which finally sapped the last fiber of his life.

The casket will be placed at the south end of the east room amid a profusion of flowers and ferns. Directly behind will be chairs for members of the bereaved family, the President and Mrs. Hoover, Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann; Chief Justice Taft and his associates of the Supreme Court, members of the Cabinet and of the diplomatic corps, Speaker Longworth and representatives of the Senate and the House and ranking Army, Navy and Marine officers.

Services to Be Simple.

In deference to the wish of Secretary Good's family and friends that the services be conducted with the utmost quiet and dignity, photographers will be prohibited from making pictures within the White House Grounds, and everything will be as free from ostentation as possible.

The Rev. Joseph R. Sizoo, pastor of the New York Presbyterian Church, where Secretary Good worshiped, will conduct the brief services, and two hymns will be sung by soloists from that church.

Afterward the invited guests, who will consist only of public officials, members of the Diplomatic Corps and personal friends, will be permitted to pas sthe casket. From noon to 1 o'clock, employes of the War Department will be given opportunity to pay their respects. The public will not be admitted.

Escorted by Military Units.

After the ceremonies in the White House, the remains will be taken to the Union Station and placed aboard a special train for Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for burial in the family plot. Besides Mrs. Good and her two sons, James W., jr., and Robert Edmund, the Secretary's body will be accompanied to Cedar Rapids by Secretary of the Navy Adams, representing the administration; Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, personal representative of President Hoover; Mr. and Mrs. James Coombs, the latter the sister of Mr. Good; Mrs. John Fletcher, sister of Mrs. Good; Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa; Representative Cyrenus Cole, of Iowa; Senator Deneen, of Illinois; Acting Secretary Patrick J. Hurley, of the War Department; F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War; Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of the Army staff; Maj. George C. Beach, of the Medical Corps; Capt. George J. Forster, aid to Mrs. Good, and a guard of honor consisting of fourteen infantrymen.

From the White House to the Union Station the body will be escorted by cavalry and artillery units from Fort Myer, and a detachment from the Washington area. The cortege is expected to arrive at the station about 2 o'clock and the journey to Iowa will be started shortly afterward.

Owing to the lack of sufficient accommodations it was decided not to allow the body to lie in state at the

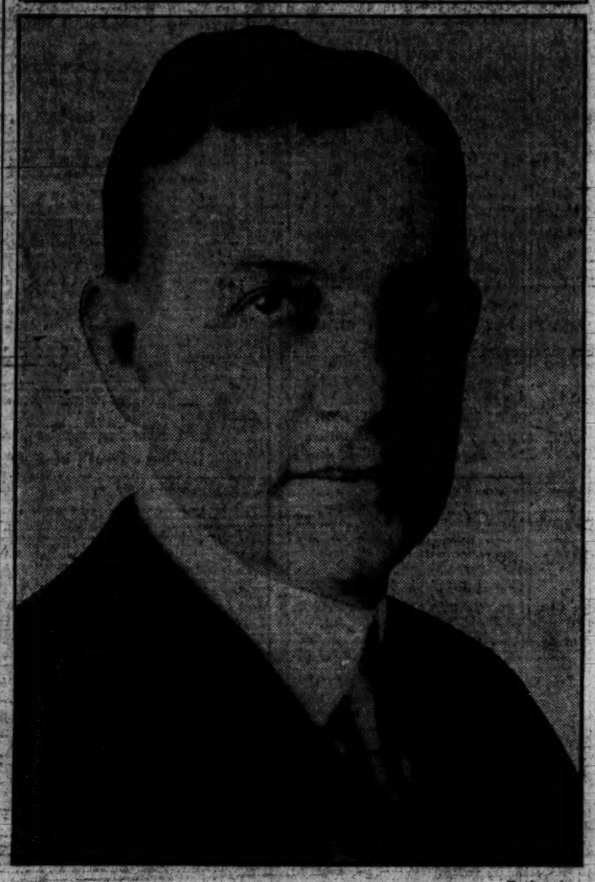
INDICTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE



Bachrach.

REPRESENTATIVE EDWARD E. DENISON, of Illinois, indicted yesterday for violation of the prohibition act.

EIGHT ARE EXPELLED IN ILLINOIS RUM ROW

OTHER STUDENTS OUSTED

Urbana, Ill., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Eight University of Illinois students were expelled today at a meeting of the university council of administration, and Gamma Eta Gamma, legal fraternity involved in last week's campus liquor scandal, was ordered to show cause why it should not be disbanded.

Eight members of the fraternity were among those ordered expelled.

The wholesale expulsions were said to be the most drastic disciplinary action ever taken by the council. Among the charges against the students were drinking, possession and sale of liquor, and violation of the university no-car rule.

Wilton J. Sherman, of Crown Point, Ind., senior in the law school, who was fined $500 after pleading guilty to possessing liquor found in the Gamma Eta Gamma house in a sheriff's raid early Sunday morning, was one of those expelled on liquor charges. Other members of the fraternity who were dismissed on similar charges were A. J. Withers, of Hibbing, Minn.; E. E. Langbons, of Marion, Ill.; A. Butwell, of Cicero, Ill.; R. R. Hughes, of Burlington, Iowa; J. P. McMillan, of Carthage, Ill.; Charles Binkert, of Quincy, Ill., and Robert J. Hartley, of Toulon, Ill.

Robert Webb, of Geneva, Ill., a senior, was expelled for buying and transporting the liquor that was found in the possession of B. W. Hoare, sophomore from Golconda, Ill., whose revelations after his arrest Saturday night led to the Gamma Eta Gamma raid.

No disciplinary action was taken against Hoare.

Eight students were dismissed until January 6 for violating the no-car rule to drive to a football game at Evanston, Ill., a week ago. Three others were dismissed indefinitely for repeated violations of the no-car rule.

ADJOURNMENT SEEN AS EARLY PROSPECT

"Young Guard" Is Unlikely to Find Enough Votes to Block Motion.

NEW SIGNS OF STRIFE

[Associated Press.]

In the face of the determined but leaderless "Young Guard" Republican regulars, the Senate was preparing last night to try again for an adjournment of the special session on Friday and there seemed to be enough votes in sight to assure the the week's recess before the regular meeting in December.

The adjournment resolution very likely will be offered today, perhaps from the Democratic side. The "Young Guard," which claims the support of President Hoover, is prepared to stand against it, but polls yesterday indicated sufficient support to allow the weary tariff debaters a week's rest.

Chairman Huston of the Republican national committee consulted with some "Young Guard" members at the Capitol yesterday, presumably to encourage their adjournment opposition.

Convinced that the tariff measure can not be passed before the December meeting, Senator Walsh, of Montana, the acting Democratic leader, deplored as "nonsense" the quibbling over political advantage in the week's recess and said he was ready to move the adjournment if necessary.

While the "Young Guard" Republicans, who disclaimed any individual leadership, were seeking yesterday to stiffen their forces against the threat of adjournment, new signs of Republican strife in the Senate, which might carry the party split into the regular session, were seen in an impending row over committee assignments.

It developed that both the "Young Guard" and the Western Republican independents, who have bolted the Hoover farm relief and tariff programs, have suggested candidates for the important finance committee.

HOUSE MEMBER IS INDICTED ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Denison and Former Aid Under Accusation of Rum Possession.

TRUE BILL IS RESULT OF LEAKING SUITCASE

Bag and Trunk Alleged by Dry Agents to Have Held Whisky.

DEFENDANTS INSIST COUNTS ARE MISTAKE

Luggage Not His, Illinois Representative Says; to Come Here Soon.

To the list of dry-voting members of Congress who have been accused of violating the prohibition law was added yesterday the name of Representative Edward Everett Denison (Republican), of Illinois.

Representative Denison and John Layne, his former secretary, were jointly indicted by the local grand jury on a charge of possession of liquor.

The action of the grand jury followed a report by prohibition agents that they found a leaking suitcase at Union Station and later a trunk containing eighteen bottles of Scotch whisky and six bottles of Dillboy's gin in Representative Denison's office in the House Office Building.

Report Is Delayed.

The leaking suitcase was seized at an express office here on January 18 last, and the trunk on the following night. No report of the seizures was made to United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, however, until November 6. When it was received, Rover immediately went into action.

Neither Denison nor Layne had made bond yesterday, but Rover declared that he would expedite them of the indictment and ask them to surrender immediately.

Over the long-distance telephone from his home in Marion, Ill., Representative Denison declared that he was "surprised" and insisted that a mistake had been made.

Secretary Makes Denial.

Layne, his former secretary, made a vehement denial. He said he had not been Denison's secretary for nine years, that he did not accompany Denison on the latter's trip to Panama, and that the records would show he was not out of Washington in January.

According to Miss Lucille Lee, Denison's present secretary, the Illinois representative made the trip to Panama last winter with his nephew, Charles Lane, of St. Louis.

In his explanation over the long distance telephone, Representative Denison said:

"When the prohibition agents came to my office and inquired about a trunk, I permitted them to inspect it. I found that the trunk was not mine, that it belonged to some one else and that the express company had made a mistake in directing a trunk to me that I did not own. I explained it fully to the agents and I am very much surprised that an indictment has been returned."

Handbag Ownership Denied.

Another mistake, Denison said, had been made with regard to a handbag. His nephew, Lane, he said, had a bag, but the wrong one had been sent to him.

Denison wired District Attorney Rover last night from Marion, Ohio, that he will motor to Washington next Sunday and will report and furnish bond at that time. The indicted Representative requested that service of process be withheld until he arrives here. He asked for an early trial.

Rover said he would gladly comply with the request that service of process be withheld.

Layne, Denison's former secretary, is now in the counsel general's office of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

"I flatly deny any connection with the case," he said. "The first I heard of it was when I saw the newspapers. I am going to investigate the indictment. It is a case of mistaken identity."

Prohibition agents are said to have reported to the United States attorney and to the grand jury that the grip was found in the express company's office, after officials of the company had notified the prohibition unit that they suspected it contained whisky because it was leaking and because of the odor.

Bag Is Confiscated.

Agents, who responded to the call, are said to have found the bag to contain whisky, to have confiscated it and to have learned that another parcel, a trunk, bearing the same tag had been delivered to No. 411 House Office Building. Both parcels are said to have been shipped from New York and to have been consigned to Layne at No. 411 House Office Building, care of Representative E. E. Denison.

The agents, after making various inquiries as to the best means of ob-

BABSON FLAYS CONGRESS FOR BUSINESS ILLS

Statistician Avers That Lawmakers Fiddle Like Nero.

LEGISLATORS URGED TO QUIT AND GO HOME

NEED OF POLITICAL MORATORIUM CITED

Hoover Can Find Markets for Goods Abroad if Given Powers, He Says.

By ROGER W. BABSON.

New York, Nov. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—It is generally agreed that the need of the hour is restoration of confidence, but it is useless to pretend that there is no just reason for the lack of confidence that exists today.

The reason which frankly stands out to be the most important is the action of Congress during these critical times.

Certainly the business men of Rome had no more on Nero when he was fiddling during that great panic of 2,000 years ago than the business men of America have on our Congress, which is fiddling so hopelessly today. This especially applies to the Senate.

Here, while the stock market has crashed and business is declining, these men, without any regard for the Nation or their constituents, are thinking only of themselves and their own political fortunes. Moreover, this does not apply to any one part of one group. Republicans and Democrats, old guard and "freshmen," conservatives and radicals, young and old, are just playing politics with the idea of putting their opponents in a hole.

Urges Congress to Adjourn.

In behalf of the business men of America, I appeal to Congress to adjourn on the tariff and stay adjourned until business confidence is revived. President Hoover and his associates are earnestly striving to restore confidence while Congress is selfishly undermining it. The restoration of confidence depends on Congress adjourning and giving President Hoover a free hand to develop the work which he has in mind.

In my talks with representatives I am astonished at their lack of vision as to constructive methods of keeping business good. President Hoover sees straight and is correctly diagnosing the situation when he makes a special appeal for export trade. In developing export trade, it does not mean necessarily the increasing of our imports. This is simply the swapping of jackknives.

President Hoover visualizes the hundreds of millions of able-bodied people in Europe, China and Latin America, which could consume double our production, without the necessity of any harmful imports.

Export Market Available.

This could be accomplished by raising the standard of living of these millions of people. These countries have just as great natural resources as has the United States and their available supply of labor exceeds even our supply. The difficulty is that their standard of living has not been raised to a point to enable them to produce or consume to a scale on which they can freely purchase our goods.

The average man of Main street in the United States is buying about all he can afford to buy. If we can keep these purchasers during the next few years up to the present level it is perhaps all we can expect to do, but our opportunities for exporting are tremendous.

Moreover, in connection with these exports, we would be giving further employment to our own people and thus increase their purchasing power correspondingly.

Congress Called "Blind."

President Hoover sees this. Congress is blind to it. They are now at loggerheads with one another. This conflict over the tariff, international affairs and similar programs has caused a deadlock which is doing business a tremendous amount of harm. The solution of the problem is through exports, and President Hoover knows it.

In the panic of 1907 the clearing house of New York declared a moratorium on credits, and this moratorium was followed by similar moratoriums declared by the clearing houses of other large cities. This credit moratorium suspended payments until confidence was restored and business got going again as usual. In the panic of 1914 the Stock Exchange declared a moratorium and adjourned in July for practically the balance of the year.

RAIL WORK TO GO ON, HOOVER IS PROMISED IN CONFERENCE HERE

Money at Lower Rates Assured as Result of Parley Too.

PRESIDENT'S IDEAS GET FULL SUPPORT

Train Men to Consider Expanding Present Projects.

U. S. RESERVE BOARD GIVES REASSURANCE

Funds in Plenty Available for Legitimate Uses, Bankers Say.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

Assurance that projected railway construction and improvements will be carried out without regard to the Wall street collapse and that money will be available at lower rates throughout the country came from President Hoover's first conference yesterday in his program to keep the wheels of commerce turning.

It was withal an epochal day at the White House, reminiscent in many ways of the first days of the war in 1917 when dollar-a-year men poured in and out of the place. The point that Hoover sought to get over first to the Nation's leading railway executives, and then to the bankers who act as advisers to the Federal Reserve Board, was that it is for them to take the lead in dealing with a purely psychological situation and for purely selfish reasons if nothing else.

The only danger in the present situation, as the administration has seen it, lies in the ordinary tendency of the business man to stop in his tracks to see what the other fellow plans to do. There has been a disturbance in Wall street. The administration believes that it should be confined there because it does not reflect any unsoundness or instability in the business of the Nation at large. But the tendency of the business man, when a thing like this happens, is not to take on new stocks, not to make projected improvements, to stop, indeed, until he sees how the wind is going to blow. It is that psychological effect with which the President is seeking to deal.

Rail Executives Confer.

First he had the railway executives, members of the American Railway Association, en route now to Chicago for their annual meeting.

They conferred for an hour or more and then the White House issued the statement that not only had they given assurance that there would be no curtailment of their construction and improvement plans, but that they would look around and see if there is not some other work that can be done.

Here is the White House statement on their meeting:

"The railway presidents were unanimous in their determination to cooperate in the maintenance of employment and business progress. It was stated that the railways which they represented would proceed with full programs of construction and betterments without any reference to recent stock exchange fluctuations; that they would canvass the situation as to further possibilities of expansion, and that among these particular railways it appeared that the total volume of such construction work already indicated an increase during the next six months over the similar period of last year.

To Be Meeting Theme.

"It was agreed that the whole question should be taken up at the meeting of the railway executives convening in Chicago next Friday, with a view to securing cooperation of all railways in the United States to such program. At that time steps will be taken to canvass the railways to determine the exact amount of construction and betterments which can

Harris Will Demand Increase in Dry Fund

Mellon Informs Senate That Prohibition Cases Are Decreasing.

The Senate was informed yesterday by Secretary Mellon of a decreased volume of dry law cases under the increased prohibition staff and Senator Harris (Democrat), Georgia, was preparing last night to demand another boost in he funds for prohibition enforcement at the next session of Congress.

Coincidentally, the Georgia dry leader suggested that President Hoover's law enforcement commission make a report of its studies early next session, even though it be a preliminary one.

The Mellon report disclosed that although 532 additional prohibition and customs agents had been employed since March 4, under an increased appropriation of more than $2,000,000 made available last session, the volume of enforcement work was somewhat less in the seven months since April 1 than during a similar period last year.

The slackening was attributed by Ames M. Doran, prohibition administrator, to an improved quality of work

TEXAS MOB LYNCHES SANTA CLAUS BANDIT

1,000 WATCH VICTIM DIE

Eastland, Tex., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Furious over his attempted jail break yesterday in which he dangerously wounded Deputy Sheriff Tom Jones, a mob of 200 men tonight lynched Marshall Ratliff, "Santa Claus bandit," of the Cisco Bank robbery in 1927.

Ratliff was hanged from a telephone pole cable after the jailer had been captured and his keys taken. The bandit's naked body was strung up by a new grass rope, as nearly 1,000 people looked on. Ratliff was naked when the mob took him from the jail.

On the first attempt to hang Ratliff, who was here pending a sanity hearing which had delayed temporarily his death in the electric chair, the rope broke and the mob waited for about fifteen minutes while a new grass rope was obtained. The rope was put around his neck and a score or more men hauled against it.

Some one in the crowd yelled: "Maybe he wants to talk." The hangmen eased their pressure and Ratliff was lowered to the ground a second time.

"Do you wan' to talk?" they asked him.

"Yes," the doomed man gasped, pulling the rope free. "I've got something I want to say."

Again they waited, while Ratliff stood looking into the faces about him. He mumbled something, unintelligible.

"Hell," some one shouted, "he doesn't want to talk. String him up, and make a good job of it this time."

The words "string him up," echoed from a hundred men, and again the hangmen bent their weight to the stout rope. This time he was left dangling in the air until dead.

About a thousand people gathered around the jail tonight, but the lynching party consisted of only about 150 or 200 men. The leaders

JUDGE TO SEEK BAIL IN TYPIST'S KILLING

Indicted Texas Jurist Plans Temporary Insanity Plea at His Hearing.

RUM CRAZED, IS DEFENSE

Austin, Tex., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Indicted here today on a charge of murder for stabbing to death Miss Lehita Highsmith, young stenographer at the State capitol, John W. Brady, 59, prominent attorney, indicated through counsel that he would seek to obtain his release from jail on bond pending trial.

Henry Brooks, youthful district attorney, announced that he would oppose all efforts to obtain bail and prepared to combat the expected application of defense attorneys for a writ of habeas corpus.

The district attorney requested District Judge J. D. Moore to order press censorship of the habeas corpus hearing in the event that the application is made.

A precedent for such action recently was set at Lubbock, Tex., where the court placed a ban on publication of testimony at a habeas corpus hearing on the ground that such publication might interfere with selection of a jury, thus causing needless expense to the State.

Brady has been in jail since November 9, when he stabbed the girl to death in front of her apartment here. His attorneys declare Brady was "crazed with liquor" at the time and Brady asserts he has no recollection of the killing.

Brady, former judge of the court of civil appeals, one time assistant attorney general of Texas and former county attorney here, conferred in his cell this afternoon with his attorneys regarding steps to be taken to obtain bond.

A. G. E. Highsmith, of Baytown, Tex., father of the dead girl, has engaged special counsel to assist in the prosecution. Brady is represented by his brother, Will Brady, of Ventura, Calif., and several well-known Texas lawyers who have come

Dealer Gets Autographed 'Mosaic' Drawn by Hoover

Designs Were Traced as President Listened to Visitor.

New York, Nov. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Thomas F. Madigan, autograph dealer of this city, has in his possession a unique autograph of President Hoover. The President, no doubt, little suspected that when he gave this particular one it would soon find its way into the hands of a dealer. But it has, and the price on this slip of paper containing the signature of the President is a fair portion of President Hoover's yearly salary.

Some time ago a visitor to the White House, whose name was not disclosed, watched President Hoover draw an extraordinary mosaic of triangles, circles, parallelograms and other engineering patterns as he listened to the visitor.

Fascinated by the President's design, the visitor asked that it be given

Long Bar and Brass Rail in Heart of City Are Uncovered.

Outwitting the doorman of an alleged "barrom" on the top floor of the building at 1510 H street northwest, Sergt. Oscar L. Letterman and the members of his vice squad late yesterday afternoon raided one of the most elaborately equipped dispensaries ever uncovered here and seized a list that is said to contain the names of many of the city's financial and business leaders.

A 50-foot mahogany bar with a shiny brass rail and all the usual trimmings of an old-fashioned bar were discovered by the raiders. They took the names of fifteen men they found in the place, though none was taken to the stationhouse. One man, Patrick Jeremiah Ahearn, 26 years old, was arrested. He was charged with be undertaken over the forthcoming year and during the next six months.

"The railway executives felt that it was desirable that similar conferences should be called in other industrial groups, and that some method of coordination of their different activities should be developed."

Those attending the conference were Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, Richard H. Aishton, president, American Railway Association; W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania; J. J. Bernet, of the Chesapeake & Ohio; P. E. Crowley, of the New York Central Lines; Agnew T. Dice, of the Philadelphia & Reading; Fairfax Harrison, of the Southern; L. F. Loree, of the Delaware & Hudson; Jeremiah Milbank, of the Southern; J. J. Pelley, of New York, New Haven & Hartford; Fred W. Sargent, Chicago & Northwestern; Hale Holden, chairman of the executive committee of the Southern Pacific, and Julius Barnes, chairman of the board, United States Chamber of Commerce, and William Butterworth, president of the chamber.

Barnes at Meetings.

Barnes also attended the bankers' meeting in the afternoon. He is a close personal friend of Hoover's and is largely credited in fact with having finally prevailed upon him to become a Republican back in 1920 when there was talk in both parties of nominating him for the Presidency, a decision that eventually led to Hoover's attaining the office. It is considered rather fitting that he should be with Hoover in his trying time just now.

The meeting of the Federal Reserve Board advisory council made up of bankers from each of the twelve member districts also lasted more than an hour and was attended also by Secretary Mellon. At its conclusion a statement was issued by Roy A. Young, governor of the board. It follows:

"At a meeting of the Federal Advisory Council, the members of which represent the twelve Federal Reserve banking districts in the United States, with the President, the general situation was reviewed, and each member of the council reported that business and banking throughout his district are in a sound condition, and the prospects were that money will be available at lower rates."

Money Said Available.

Whether the reference to lower money rates foreshadows a lowering of the rediscount rates remains to be seen. Undoubtedly this will be done if deemed necessary to relieve the credit situation.

The main point that the statement wanted to get over, however, is that there is plenty of money available for any legitimate work or expansion of business, or, in brief, to keep the wheels of business moving.

It is doubtful if any serious discussion was given at the conference with the railway executives of railway consolidations. The Interstate Commerce Commission expects to have a formula of consolidation ready, perhaps next month, but then there will be the question of fitting it to practical conditions.

New Agency Needed.

The indications are that the discussion at this conference dealt far more with the country's business outlook, the expected forthcoming boom in Europe, and the question of whether the rail officials were justified in the face of the outlook in going ahead with their construction and improvement programs. They agreed, according to the White House statement, that they were.

Incidentally, there was the suggestion at this conference that there should be an agency of some kind set up to coordinate the activiites of the various branches of industry that Hoover is calling into his program, an agency that would serve as a clearing house of ideas.

There will be no conferences today because of the funeral services for Secretary of War Good.

Tomororw comes a group of the Nation's outstanding business men, an impressive list of names which it is believed will add to the reassuring note that the President is trying to sound.

Foremost among these, it is generally believed, will be Owen D. Young.

Walsh Issues Statement.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, issued a statement pointing to the fact that this man, an outstanding Democrat, will head the "rescue contingent."

"Those persons who are looking around for a reason for the recent stock-market crash," he said, "would do well to remember former President Coolidge's bullish statement more than a year ago which Senator Glass denounced at the time, and also the defiance of the Reserve Board by Charles L. Mitchell, head of the National City Bank, which brought not a word from the White House to back up the board or to rebuke the recalcitrant official of the National City Bank."

"Now that the crash has come," the senator continued, "leading business men of the country are summoned to Washington to help the administration out of a predicament into which it has fallen. And the rescue contingent—according to the press which got its information at the White House—is headed by Owen Young, an eminent Democrat, and among its members, John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee, despite the carefully cultivated belief that the Democratic party is bent on ruining the business of the country and is unequal to the task of directing the financial affairs of the Government."

The senator may be a little too optimistic about Raskob. It is doubtful if he will be invited.

slipped into a side door of the jail and attempted to get authorities to give them the bandit.

When refused, the men overpowered Jailer Gilbert and took his keys. Then they made their way upstairs to Ratliff's cell.

It was not ascertained immediately whether Ratliff had removed his clothes or whether they were torn from him. He was dragged down the stairs and down the street about 200 yards to the business section of Eastland.

The plan had at first been to take him to the public square, but the crowd, apparently impatient, decided to stop at the cable, as it appeared strong enough to hold the body.

While the man was still hanging, his body exposed to a cold wind, Judge Clyde L. Garrett was seen by a newspaperman.

"They've got Ratliff" the judge was asked.

"Yes," Judge Garrett replied, "I guess the county will have to bury him."

Ratliff's head was bandaged, the result of his attempted escape yesterday.

CUBA INVESTIGATOR BARES $27,000 FEE

(Associated Press.)

Investigating a recent disturbance among Cuban sugar producers over possible intervention by the United States in Cuban affairs as the result of charges made against the administration of President Machado, the Senate lobby committee was told yesterday by John H. Carroll, Washington attorney, that he had been paid $27,000 to ascertain the facts about the Machado government.

Carroll, who gave his age as "71 years old plus," and said he was "just an old worn-out man," testified he had been employed seven months ago by H. C. Lakin, president of the Cuba Co. of New York, but had been prevented by illness from visiting Cuba.

The white-haired witness, who complained frequently of being tired, said he planned to leave for Cuba Sunday, and promised Senator Borah, of Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee, to give him a copy of the report he expects to make to Lakin on the situation in Cuba.

Acted as Lobby Advisor.

Carroll also said he had been paid $10,000 by Lakin to act as advisor in an effort by the Cuban producers to obtain a lower duty on sugar in the pending tariff bill. He asserted he had not "spoken to a single member of Congress about sugar."

At the conclusion of his testimony Carroll was told by Chairman Caraway, of the lobby committee, that it had been a "delight" to have a witness who was so frank. The chairman added that Carroll's testimony had been "quite a contrast" to that by some of the witnesses who have appeared.

Other witnesses yesterday were W. R. Cathcart, chemist of the Corn Products Refining Co. of New York; J. C. Holton, Mississippi commissioner of agriculture, and Edwin P. Shattuck, representative of the Domestic Sugar Producers Association.

Bankers to Go on Stand.

The committee plans to question today Fred I. Kent, a director of the Bankers Trust Co. of New York, concerning his recent statement that the action of the Senate tariff coalition was partially responsible for the stock market disturbance; and Gordon S. Rentschler, of the National City Bank of New York, in regard to the bank's sugar holdings in Cuba.

Carroll said he had been employed as counselor to the Cuban Embassy in Washington for several years at an annual salary of $4,800 and was a personal friend of President Machado, who, he added, "is one of the finest men I ever knew."

"I am trying and intend to try in every way I can to sustain the Machado government," he asserted, but said later that if charges made against Machado were found to be true, he would report to Lakin to that effect.

Dry Agent Sentenced For Shooting in Raid

Mansfield, Ohio, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Edward C. McGaw, State prohibition officer, was sentenced to from one to twenty years in Ohio Penitentiary today by Common Pleas Judge J. W. Galbraith. He was convicted last Friday of shooting with intent to wound Frank Pillegi, 36, Mansfield restaurant operator, during a raid last spring.

After passing sentence Judge Galbraith allowed the defense 30 days in which to carry an appeal to the Richland County Court of Appeals. McGaw was convicted of shooting Pillegi after making an alleged "liquor buy" at the latter's restaurant. The agent, in claiming self-defense, said Pillegi attempted to hit him.

Pilot Who Found Lost Plane Is Given $10,000

Los Angeles, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—George K. Rice, western air express pilot who located the lost Transcontinental Air Transport plane City of San Francisco, which crashed into Mount Taylor, New Mexico, with a loss of eight lives, today received a $10,000 reward. The money will be divided equally between Rice, his copilot, A. W. Bieber, and Chris Johnson, steward on Rice's plane.

The City of San Francisco struck the mountain during a snowstorm last September 8. Search was started as soon as the plane failed to arrive at its destination. For several days planes toured the vicinity where the ship had been seen last, but without success. Rice, piloting a regular passenger liner, went off his course to Mount Taylor and found the lost ship. The Transcontinental Air Transport offered the reward.

Miss Highsmith and Brady had been friendly for several years and he was instrumental in obtaining a position for her as stenographer for the supreme court commission of appeals.

In the only statement he has made, the lawyer said that prior to the killing he attended a drinking party which followed a football game here, and remembered nothing thereafter other than "a difficulty with several persons."

The grand jury heard about 30 witnesses during a four-day session before returning the indictment.

In other words, the Stock Exchange actually closed down for several months in the interest of the country.

Today our banking situation is sound and no money moratorium is needed. Today the Stock Exchange is quietly settling down and it is unnecessary to close it.

Political Situation Bad.

Our political situation, however, is in a very bad condition. Manufacturers are being upset by tariff legislation; foreign trade is being held up by international bickering, while other events are going on in Washington which are very detrimental to general business. The great need of the hour is to have Congress adjourn and stop its bickering.

Let Congress pass one bill giving necessary powers to President Hoover, as did the Democratic Congress of 1914, and then adjourn.

A political moratorium with a united Congress behind President Hoover would do more good to business than anything else. Moreover, when these representatives and senators got back to Main street they would see a side of American business which they don't see in Washington.

There are times when our representatives and senators are needed at Washington, but today they are most needed at home.

possession and with maintaining a nuisance.

Situated in the heart of the city's financial and industrial district, the alleged barroom catered only to the "best people." Bankers, industrialists and leading professional men are said to have made up the clientele.

There was even a congressional tinge to the place. One man, who appeared to have imbibed too freely, is said to have made the statement that he was "a member of a congressional committee."

Acting on repeated complaints from the owner of the premises, Sergt. Letterman yesterday decided to investigate the situation. He sent Detective J. A. Mostyn ahead of the others and the detective outwitted the doorman, who peeked through a hole in a heavy door.

"Buddy, I don't know you, but your face is familiar to me," the doorman told Mostyn. "Sure it is. I'm a regular customer," the other told him. Not content with that, the doorman called a customer. "Yep, he's O. K." the customer told the doorman.

The door was opened and the other detectives, who had been up against the wall and out of sight, rushed in. About seven pints of alleged liquor were found, but the police version of its authenticity was positive.

Following his arraignment at the First Precinct Ahearn was admitted to bail.

Dew Drop Inn, on Eighteenth street between L and M streets northwest, was visited by the Letterman squad yesterday also. The raiders searched the place thoroughly, but found nothing.

In two other raids, one on F street southwest, near First street, and the other at Fourth and I streets northwest, quantities of liquor were seized. In the southwest raid, 200 dancers were interrupted and asked to vacate while the police searched for liquor. Philip Roach, colored, was arrested when almost six gallons of stuff was found.

In the raid at Fourth and I streets the squad found 8 gallons of liquor and arrested Troy Mack, colored, 57, and Earl Mack, colored, 26.

MATSUDAIRA DENIES DISSENSION RUMORS

FRIENDLY CONTACT CITED

London, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Notwithstanding some press reports from Japan of dissension in preconference naval disarmament conversations, Tsuneo Matsudaira, Japanese Ambassador to Great Britain, today told an Associated Press correspondent that "there is nothing to such intimations."

"I am not at all pessimistic over the outcome of preliminary conversations which I am holding with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, Gen. Dawes and the Italian and French Ambassadors," he said. "I conferred with Gen Dawes and Mr. McDonald yesterday and everything was most friendly. I expect things to continue so.

"There are many things to be discussed before the conference meets in January and we are trying to come to an understanding regarding the agenda so that there will be no misunderstandings later. Of course, we may not all have the same opinions, but that does not especially mean dissension."

Nippon Embassy Is Busy.

The Japanese Embassy here is most busy preparing for the reception of delegates, who will be among the most important statesmen and naval officers of Japan. In addition to Ambassador Matsudaira, the delegation will include former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki, Naval Minister Admiral Hyo Takarabe and Vice Admiral K. Nomura, chief of the naval staff. It was understood that Count Kabayama, head of the Japanese steel industry and close to the imperial family, might also be with them.

The Japanese Ambassador said he expected the conference to last "less than two months," but that this must be uncertain until the questions on the agenda are settled.

Meanwhile selection of the meeting place for the conference is still undecided. The foreign office has been suggested along with other buildings and there also has been the suggestion that the conference meet in two sections in two separate buildings to facilitate the work.

The Japanese delegation with its secretaries and clerks will number about 50 persons.

Besides finding rooms for these in a hotel, the embassy has taken a nearby house for use by the technical staff as offices.

Paris, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Count Manzoni, Italian Ambassador, had a long conference today with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, which was semiofficially said to have been "of general character, but dealing especially with the forthcoming naval disarmament conference in London."

This was interpreted in political circles as tantamount to announcement that preliminary negotiations between Italy and France had been effectively opened.

HOLLAND CHAPTER WINS FARM PRIZE

TRIO OF BOYS HONORED

Richmond, Va., Nov. 18 (A.P.).—Holland Chapter, Future Farmers of Virginia, received the Philadelphia Farm Journal's $500 cash prize awarded to the best Future Farmers' chapter in the United States, W. S. Newman, State supervisor of vocational agriculture, State Department of Education, was notified in a telegram received tonight from Kansas City, Mo.

Announcement that the Virginia chapter had been selected as first among several hundred chapters located in 30 States and that three Virginia boys were among 26 from the entire United States to be given the F. F. A. fourth degree was made tonight at the annual convention of Future Farmers at Kansas City.

Presentation of the prize was made at a banquet to Wilton Davidson, last year's president of Holland Chapter, by Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde. Prizes were awarded by the Farm Journal on the basis of 1928-29 records.

Three Virginians Named.

The three Virginians to receive the fourth degree were T. F. Kidd, jr., of Rural Retreat; R. B. Storey, jr., of Courtland, and Edward Burford, of Amherst.

In the chapter contest, each of the 30 States was allowed to submit records of three outstanding units and Holland was selected from the list of 90 reviewed by the contest board. The chapters at Amherst and Lincoln, Va., were nominated in the contest along with the Holland group by the Future Farmers of Virginia.

Activities of the Holland Chapter, which gave it the prize-winning record, were supervised by J. J. Gwaltney, teacher of agriculture at Holland High School. H. V. White is the school principal.

The chapter practice program embraced production of 134 acres of land, the care of 800 head of poultry and 120 hogs, the supervisor stated. Ninety-six members completed their supervised practice work and profits earned totaled $4,800, he said.

Shrubs Are Planted.

Members of the chapter were responsible for the planting of shrubs and other activities which have made the school ground of Holland High School one of the most attractive in the State, he asserted. Several bushels of certified cotton seed were ginned by chapter members for the use of farmers in the community and themselves. Poultry feed and mineral mixtures for hogs were purchased, mixed and sold throughout the community.

The chapter sponsored and conducted a poultry and seed show and district judging contest last December and displayed a Future Farmers exhibit at the Four County Fair, Suffolk, to win first prize.

The program also included a week's camp at Ocean View in 1928, a father and son banquet and a visit to the truck experiment station and fertilizer factories in Norfolk.

Savings Are Recorded.

Records of members of the chapter show that the average investment per member in savings and farming was $150, while 90 per cent of the membership had invested money in life insurance.

In the competition for individual honors, Virginia had the distinction of having the fourth degree conferred on all three youths placed in nomination. Only 26 of the 106 future farmers presented for the degree were adjudged qualified by the organization's board.

T. F. Kidd, jr., of Rural Retreat, one of the trio on whom the national degree was conferred, was graduated from the high school there after a four-year course in vocational agriculture. He represented Virginia on the live-stock judging team at Kansas City in 1928 and was the State's first delegate to the national congress of Future Farmers of America.

Manages Father's Farm.

During his high school career he earned $1,871 from project work and since graduation has managed his father's farm of 210 acres. Kidd received the third degree from the Virginia branch of the Future Farmers in 1928.

SEVEN MEN CHOSEN FOR M'MANUS JURY

Lawyers Speed Procedure in Trial for Murder of Rothstein.

PRISONER AIDS COUNSEL

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Seven jurors had been selected to hear the trial of George A. McManus for the killing of his gambler associate, Arnold Rothstein, when the second day's session was adjourned late today. Six of the jurors were picked at today's session, the other had been selected yesterday.

After a slow start defense and State counsel moved swiftly in the last few moments of the morning, the last three talesmen examined being seated in the box. Three others had been selected during the first two hours, then there was a relapse into the old lethargy, and when two hours of the afternoon session had passed and no further jurors had been selected court was adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The seven jurors selected are:

Herman T. Sherman, a middle-aged sales manager.

Eugene A. Riker, young salesman.

William E. Belknap, elderly insurance man.

Alfred Somborn, real estate man.

Joseph F. Callahan, middle-aged contractor.

George W. Oliver, a public accountant.

William A. Stephenson, an elderly business man.

Sherman is the foreman.

McManus himself passed judgment on three jurors today, indicating to his attorney that he did not favor them. They were apparently on the verge of being accepted; one Oscar E. Stevens, a banker, had said he regarded gamblers as "not useful members of society."

Eleven more of the defense attorney's thirty peremptory challenges were used today, leaving only six in selecting the next five jurors. The State again was more sparing and at the end of the day still had half of its quota of thirty left. The State has indicated it will attempt to prove that the motive for the killing originated at a gambling party in which Rothstein lost heavily, refused to pay and so was shot in the stomach. McManus is accused of firing the shot.

White House. However, to allow employes of the War Department and others who have been intimately associated with the late War Secretary to pay their last respects, an hour has been set aside immediately following the services for them to view the remains in the east room.

Capital Is in Mourning.

Since the death of the Cabinet member the Capital has been in mourning. Secretary Stimson of the State Department yesterday issued a proclamation at the behest of President Hoover, closing all executive departments in the city until 1 o'clock this afternoon, and ordering all flags on public buildings throughout the country displayed at half mast until Friday.

At the same time Gen. Summerall commanded that all flags be flown at half mast and that all officers wear military mourning around the left sleeve of the uniform coat and overcoat and on the saber. He also ordered that a gun be fired at half hour intervals at all military posts today commencing one hour after reveille until retreat is sounded, after which a salute of nineteen guns will be fired, and all national and regimental colors and standards to be draped in mourning for a period of one month from yesterday

The other nine Cabinet members assembled with President Hoover yesterday for their regular meeting, but the gathering was adjourned immediately out of respect to their late colleague.

Hoover Issues Statement.

In an official statement on the death of his Cabinet member and personal friend, President Hoover said:

"The passing of Secretary Good removes a devoted public official. For most of his mature life he served the Nation, earning the highest esteem for his abilities, his fine integrity and his courageous spirit. But the first thought of those who knew and loved him are not of his public service. It is for his loyal and self-effacing friendship that thousands remember him; and that affectionate association is now broken."

As head of the War Department, Secretary Good was eligible for burial in Arlington National Cemetery, but for sentimental reasons, and in compliance with her husband's wishes, Mrs. Good selected the family plot back in the "home town" for the interment.

Had Wide Acquaintance Here.

Although Secretary Good had been at death's door for several days and attending physicians had announced death was inevitable more than 24 hours prior to his passing, his ending came as a shock to the Capital. He was one of the best-liked men in public life, and because of his long residence in Washington as a representative in Congress from Iowa, he had an unusually wide acquaintance. He had served as a member of the House of Representatives for twelve years, from 1909 to 1921, and rose to the important position of chairman of the House appropriations committee. In that capacity he learned much about the needs of the War Department, and this experience qualified him for the Cabinet position which he was filling so well. Besides the familiarity with the War Department, Mr. Good also was of great assistance to President Hoover as a counselor in matters dealing with legislation particularly Government financial affairs. His appointment to the Cabinet, however, was in recognition of his activities as "preconvention Western manager" of the Hoover campaign, which led to the nomination of Hoover as the Republican presidential candidate at the Kansas City convention last year.

During the campaign, he was also in charge of the Western headquarters of the Republicans at Chicago and was a leader in the task of winning the Middle Western districts to the Republican standard.

Stricken Week Ago.

Mr. Good was stricken a week ago last night. He called his fellow Cabinet officer, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior Department, an eminent physician, and Lieut. Comdr. Joel T. Boone, President Hoover's personal physician, to his assistance, and they immediately rushed him to Walter Reed Hospital, where the acute appendicitis operation was performed by Col. William I. Keller, Army surgeon and commander of the hospital. Because of the abnormal location of the appendix, the operation proved difficult, and the patient was under anesthetics for nearly an hour. The infected condition of the appendix was another difficulty encountered. A general sepsis was discovered, and, despite all efforts made by the physicians, the poisoning spread steadily.

Since last Friday night, when the physicians held a consultation and later announced that everything known to medical science had been done, Secretary Good's fight seemed almost futile. However, the patient never once gave up, although he apparently knew he was fighting against overwhelming odds. So valiant was the dying man's fight that he lived exactly 24 hours after his physicians had announced death was inevitable. He continued to be conscious all day Monday, and a short time before he fell into the final coma, Mr. Good mumbled something about knowing how ill he was to the two physicians standing at his bedside.

Then with a final rally from sheer determination he flashed his feverish eyes and said:

"I am going to get well. I have never lost a fight yet and I am not going to lose this one."

His determined mind, however, could not avail against the fever which wracked his body, and he sank back on the pillows after the brave display of courage and relapsed into unconsciousness again, never to rally. Later, when it was apparent that he was breathing his last, Mrs. Good and the two sons were summoned into the room, to see him last alive. All stood in silence, and soon afterward every one left the room except Mrs. Good and the nurse.

Hoover Kept Close Watch.

President Hoover, who had kept almost constant watch since his War Secretary was stricken, was immediately notified and a few minutes afterward he and Mrs. Hoover hurried to the hospital to comfort the bereaved widow and sons. During this visit they offered the east room at the White House for the services, which Mrs. Good accepted.

The services for Mr. Good will be the first funeral held in the east room since the summer of 1924, when Henry C. Wallace, then Secretary of Agriculture, died. Just a few weeks prior to his obsequies, services were held in this famous room for Calvin Coolidge, jr., the younger son of President Coolidge, who, like Secretary Good, died from a septic poisoning. Previously during the same year, services for Mrs. Work, wife of Hubert Work, then Secretary of Interior, were held in the room.

The members of President Hoover's Cabinet will act as honorary pallbearers at the services today. The active pallbearers will be from the military ranks.

Senate Delegation Named.

Vice President Curtis yesterday named the following senators to represent the Senate at the services:

Senators Deneen (Republican), Illinois; Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi; Dale (Republican), Vermont; McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee; Gillett (Republican), Massachusetts; Glass (Democrat), Virginia, and Brookhart (Republican), Iowa.

New Names Mentioned For War Secretaryship

(Associated Press.)

Several new names entered yesterday into the conjecture as to who will be named to the vacant post of Secretary of War, but in some official circles the talk still centered on Patrick J. Hurley, of Oklahoma, now acting secretary.

Some talk was heard that Representative John Q. Tilson, of Connecticut, Republican leader in the House, and high in Republican party councils during the last campaign, might be tendered the post.

Another name around which some wholly unofficial speculation revolved was that of Walter H. Newton, now administrative assistant to the President.

PARK MEDAL GIVEN STEPHEN T. MATHER

HONOR VIRGINIA WOMAN

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Award of the Cornelius Amory Pugsley gold medal for outstanding public service in National, State, county and municipal parks to Stephen T. Mather, of Darien, Conn., former director of the National Park Service, was announced today by the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society. The same medal in silver was awarded by the society to Duncan McDuffie, of San Francisco.

McDuffie is chairman of California State Parks Council. The award to him is for having "greatly advanced the cause of scenic conservation."

The bronze award went to Mrs. Beatrice Ward Nelson, of Charlottesville, Va., former secretary of the National Conference on State Parks, as one who "coordinated their increase and development."

Mather received the gold medal because of his achievement in establishing the National Farm Service in the United States Department of the Interior, and his fifteen years' work there. He is credited with having brought the national parks to a high standard in the development of facilities for public comfort and recreation during his service.

The medal was established by Chester Dewitt Pugsley in honor of his father, Cornelius A. Pugsley, member of the Westchester County Park Commission and president of the Westchester County National Bank of Peekskill, in recognition of the elder Pugsley's interest in parks.

SENATE CUTS RATES ON COTTON TEXTILES

Proposals Slashed After Report of Committee Is Denounced.

ONE ROLL CALL IS TAKEN

(Associated Press.)

After listening to denunciation of the finance committee's recommendations for higher cotton textile rates by coalition opponents of the tariff bill, the Senate yesterday generally slashed the proposed increased duties to the level of existing law.

Only a few increases were allowed to stand and these were cut down to the rates provided in the House bill. Senators Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, and Blaine (Republican independent), Wisconsin, led opposition to the cotton schedule recommended.

The former exclaimed it "reeked with corruption," and added that if the coalition leaders intended to vote for higher levies, they could count him out of that group so long as the measure remained before the Senate.

Labor Conditions Attacked.

He attacked particularly labor conditions in the South and New England manufacturers for what he said was their transfer of operations to the South to obtain cheaper labor and longer working hours.

Blaine contended higher tariffs would not benefit the textile industry of New England and the South and blamed lack of "efficiency, economy, decency and humanity" in operations as the cause of whatever depression exists today.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts, said increased duties would help some branches of the industry, and he would vote for these particular rates. He maintained, however, that other branches were prosperous and needed no additional protection.

Cotton Cloths Increase Approved.

The most important increase approved before the Senate entered upon its fourth night session on the bill under an agreement to meet at 1 o'clock this afternoon to permit senators to attend Secretary Good's funeral would affect plain cotton cloths by providing a minimum rate of fifty-five one-hundredths of 1 cent per average number of yarn counts per pound.

House increases approved carried rates of 16 per cent on printed, dyed or colored cloths containing yarns averaging net more than number 90 and, in addition, for each number thirty-five one-hundredths of 1 per cent. The present law provides a duty of 15 per cent and an additional five-sixteenths of 1 per cent for each number, while the finance committee proposed 20 per cent and an additional thirty-five one-hundredths of 1 per cent.

The House rate of 47½ per cent on these cloths containing yarns over number 90 was approved in place of the committee's 51½ per cent and the present duty of 40 per cent.

One Roll Call Vote Taken.

The only roll call vote was 50 to 26 against an amendment to levy rates of 10 per cent on permanent finished organdies and cloths printed by the relief method, and 25 per cent on cloths woven with printed warp yarn or thread, all in addition to the cloth rates themselves.

The present duty of 25 per cent on tire fabric was restored as proposed by the committee, thus eliminating House increases. A proposal to increase by 10 per cent the duty on unbleached woven-figured cloth failed.

On motion of Senator George (Democrat), Georgia, proposed increases by the committee and House on tapestries and other jacquard-figured upholstery cloths were rejected and the present 45 per cent duty restored.

Cotton Blanket Rate Eliminated.

George also succeeded in having eliminated a proposed minimum rate of 16½ cents a pound on cotton blankets. He contended this was equivalent to an ad valorem on blankets of only 35 per cent.

During the cotton argument, Chairman Smoot, of the finance committee, described as "absurd" figures read into the record recently by Senator Norris showing that the tariffs on products manufactured in Pensylvania, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New York would cost consumers over $5,400,000,000.

In the long run, the Utah senator argued, protective tariffs do not increase consumers' costs by the amount of the duty, but lower them as a result of expansion of domestic industries.

Farm Duties Hit.

Using the same method of arithmetic, Smoot said, the duties on farm products in the pending bill would cost the consumers in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska and Kansas $2,146,654,000.

Norris said Smoot had assumed the "erroneous" impression that farm duties were as effective as those on industrial products and challenged the administration forces to submit a remedy.

"Why hasn't President Hoover submitted a plan that will take care of the farmers' surplus?" he asked.

He warned that if the Republican leaders "continue to prevent legislation" to aid the farmer, the time would come when the farmer would "help to tear down the citadel of protection."

List of Rates Approved.

Cotton rates approved yesterday by the Senate, compared where feasible with House and existing duties, follow:

Commodity—	Senate. Pct.	House. Pct.	Present. Pct.
Printed cloths with yarns averaging not over No. 90	16	16	15
Same, over 90	47½	47½	40
Tire fabric	25	10 to 41½	25
Tapestries	45	55	45

SNOWSTORM GRIPS REGION OF ROCKIES

Freezing Temperatures Also Reported From States in That Section.

AIR MAIL INTERRUPTED

Denver, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—A snowstorm and freezing temperatures gripped the Rocky Mountain region today. Snow was reported in Montana, Wyoming and Colorado, with the storm, which today centered around Cheyenne, Wyo., headed toward New Mexico.

Three inches of snow had fallen in Cheyenne and no cessation was predicted by the Weather Bureau until some time tomorrow. Four inches of snow fell at Lander on top of a nine-inch fall which was still on the ground.

Helena, Mont., suffered numerous minor casualties with a two-inch snow, when steep hills in the city became virtual toboggan slides for automobiles and pedestrians. Many automobiles crashed against stone walls at the bottom of the hills.

Western Colorado and Nebraska escaped the snow, but lower temperatures were reported. There was a little snow in western Kansas and a heavy fall in eastern Colorado.

Telephone and telegraph facilities were only slightly hampered by the storm. Bus lines continued in operation, but the highways in some places in Wyoming and Colorado were rapidly approaching an impassable condition. Air mail service was halted. Train service was about normal.

The storm today had little effect on the beet crops since digging was suspended during the last storm and had not been resumed.

Denver was experiencing the stormiest first half of November since 1922 when precipitation was an inch and a half above normal, thus far this month, precipitation is only about half an inch above normal.

ADJOURNMENT SEEN FOR SENATE FRIDAY

which frames the revenue and tariff legislation.

La Follette Is Candidate.

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, is the candidate of the Western independents, who are now without any representative on this committee. Robert M. La Follette, sr., served on it during his long Senate career.

The "Young Guard" represented to the Western independents that they were willing to join them in support of Senator Thomas, of Idaho, for the post, but this has been rejected.

Senator Nye, of North Dakota, a member of the independents, is on the Republican committee on committees and he gave notice today that if La Follette were not placed on the finance committee, succeeding the vacancy to be caused by the resignation of Senator Edge, of New Jersey, he would carry the matter to the floor.

There was speculation tonight whether the Democrats would side with the Western independents in this situation as in the tariff contest. If Democratic support develops it may presage a coalition in action in the forthcoming session as opposed to the administration.

Wheeler Chides "Turks."

Chided by Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, for calling off their dinner Monday night, the "Young Guard" spoke back in the Senate yesterday through Senator Allen, of Kansas, who was to have been the host. He insisted the dinner was called off because of the imminent death of Secretary Good.

Referring to reports that the "Young Guard" intended to overthrow the "Old Guard" leadership, Wheeler said, "I am afraid that they are going to lose their nerve."

"I would like to see them get rid of their leaders, probably for the good of the country," Wheeler continued, "although from the standpoint of a Democrat I would like to see those men remain in power."

Replying, Senator Allen explained: "We have been getting together occasionally to see if we might do anything to hurry the work of the Senate. We have spent two or three months listening to oratory until we know the oratorical attainments of every senator and we decided there was nothing new to learn so we determined that if there was anything we could do to push forward the serious purpose for which we were called together we would do it."

DRY FUND INCREASE WILL BE DEMANDED

due to a policy of concentration on investigations.

"I haven't believed" Harris said, "that the appropriations were sufficient to make a serious effort toward inforcement. I want an increased appropriation and I asked for the facts in order to show that more money could be used."

He added that there was no need for a delay of several years by the President's commission in making a report, suggesting that it need not be a final one.

Harris said that in one prohibition district only $15,000 additional had been allotted, but that the amount of work done this year was more than double that of last year.

The Mellon report disclosed that of the total additional fund appropriated, $1,391,536 went to the prohibition service, and $707,860 to the customs service.

In the seven months since April 1, 37,190 persons were arrested by Federal prohibition officers as compared with 43,218 in a similar period in 1928. Arrests by State offcers assisted by Federal agents totaled 7,509 this year and 7,066 last, while arrests by State officials on information furnished by Federal officers amounted to 882 this year and 1,324 last.

Prosecutions recommended for Federal court in the seven months this year totaled 38,995 as compared with 40,296 last.

Wool Growers Demand 37 Per Cent Tariff Rate

San Angelo, Tex., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The executive committee of the National Wool Growers Association today voted to "most earnestly urge" Congress to place a tariff of 37 cents on all imports of wool and mohair, "together with such adequate tariffs on wastes and rags as will not nullify such basic rates on wool and mohair as Congress may enact."

Members of the committee represent thirteen wool producing States.

LECTURER SPEAKS AT ROTARY MEETING

Alexandria Club Hears Talk by H. C. White on Topic of Electricity.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Service, the motto of the Rotary Club, and faith were stressed by Harry C. White, author and lecturer, in an address before the Alexandria Rotary yesterday in the George Mason Hotel.

A description of the dinner given at Dearborn, Mich., recently in honor of Thomas A. Edison in connection with the golden jubilee of electric light was given by the speaker, who also read the short talk made on that occasion by Edison.

The speaker was introduced by Marshall Shuman, chairman of the entertainment committee for the week. Henry T. Moncure led the singing, and Dr. S. Nelson Gray presided.

An inquest into the death of Raymond Grover, former Alexandria policeman, who died at the Alexandria Hospital Monday, was held yesterday by Dr. T. Marshall Jones, city coroner, whose verdict was that Grover died from the effects of blood poisoning brought about by a gunshot wound from a rifle fired by Michael Caetto.

Caetto, who has been in hiding since the shooting November 11, was surrendered yesterday to Sheriff Eppa Kirby, of Fairfax County, by Attorney T. Brooke Howard, of this city, who is understood to have been retained as counsel by Caetto. The latter, it is understood, will be charged with murder by the Fairfax County authorities.

Caetto, it is said, has been anxious to give himself up ever since the shooting of Grover, but postponed his surrender in order to attend to some personal affairs. It is understood he has expressed himself as willing to tell all the facts in connection with the shooting when he is brought to trial.

Robert Skelton, colored, charged with the fatal shooting of Vera Carter, colored, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary in corporation court yesterday, Judge William P. Woolls presiding. Carter entered a plea of guilty to felonious assault. At a previous trial the jury was unable to agree.

In the appeal case of Caesar Gaddis, colored, who had been given three months and fined $250 and costs in police court on a charge of transportation of liquor, the jury found him guilty and assessed a fine of $50 and costs with one month in jail.

Policeman Charles Suthard was arrested on Monday evening by Sergt. Everly, Policemen E. Suthard and Quartermouse on the 400 block of South Henry street, and yesterday morning in police court forfeited $14 on a charge of being drunk. Capt. W. W. Campbell, chief of police, stated Suthard has been dismissed from the police force.

More than 100 members of the Shrine Club of Alexandria plan to attend a business meeting of Acca Temple in Richmond Friday night. Some of the party will make the trip in their own automobiles, while others will use a bus which will start from in front of the George Mason Hotel at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon.

ROMANCE PAVILION AND FRENCH ARTIST

Robert La Montagne Saint-Hubert, who painted the frescos in the Salle Lafayette at the University of Virginia, and the Romance pavilion on the campus which houses the memorial to Lafayette. The Salle Lafayette is to be dedicated today.

SALLEE LAFAYETTE RITES TO BE TODAY

Charlottesville Will Aid University Entertain Noted Guests.

PROGRAM IS ANNOUNCED

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 19.—The University of Virginia and the city of Charlottesville will join tomorrow in a cordial welcome to the distinguished guests who come to attend the ceremonies incident to the dedication of the Salle LaFayette, a room in the Romance pavilion at the University of Virginia. On the occasion of this celebration, President Edwin Anderson Alderman, of the University of Virginia, and Paul Goodloe McIntire, of this city, will be decorated with the order of the French Legion of Honor by Ambassador Paul Claudel.

The Salle LaFayette has been decorated with a series of fresco paintings and furnished in antique French style. The frescoes and paintings came to the university as a result of the liberality of Ormond G. Smith publisher and president of the French Institute of America. Smith is a graduate of Harvard University, to which he contributed many gifts. His attention was attracted to the plan for decorating the Romance pavilion, and particularly the Salle LaFayette, by Lawrence Lee, an alumnus of the University of Virginia and a young poet of marked distinction. Smith commissioned Robert La Montagne Saint Hubert to paint a series of frescoes commemorating the friendship of Thomas Jefferson and the Marquis de LaFayette.

Charlottesville is cooperating with the University in arranging the celebration of the event and in the reception of the French Ambassador and his party.

Ambassador Claudel is expected to arrive tomorrow on an early train from Washington and will be met at Union Station and officially welcomed by Hollis Rinehart, representing Gov Byrd, and Mayor J. Y. Brown. With the governor's representative and the mayor will be President and Mrs. Edwin A. Alderman, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Goodloe McIntire, Ormond G. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ormond Gould, Mr. and Mrs. Saint Hubert and other members of the official party and representatives of various civic organizations in the city.

After the official greeting, the party will proceed to Monticello. The first stop will be at the grave of Thomas Jefferson, where the Ambassador and Mrs. Smith will salute the last resting place of the great statesman.

The party will then proceed to Monticello. Shortly after noon the party is to leave Monticello and proceed to President Alderman's residence, where they are to be entertained at luncheon.

At about 2 o'clock the official group will proceed to the McConnell statue, where Ambassador Claudel will salute McConnell as a soldier of France. From there the party will go to the rotunda, where the Cross of the Legion of Honor will be conferred upon President Alderman and McIntire. Ambassador Claudel will make his official address. The group will then pass down the lawn between two lines formed by the Monticello Guard in Colonial uniform.

The official party will enter the Romance pavilion and ascend to the Salle Lafayette. Friends of Spain, Italy and Latin-America will be grouped in the doorways of the various rooms dedicated to those countries.

A brief history of the origin and development of the Salle Lafayette and a description of the symbolism of the frescoes will be given by F. Stringfellow Barr, professor in the School of History of the university. St. Hubert will then formally notify Smith, the donor, that the decoration of the room is complete, after which he will unveil a fresco portrait of Smith. The room and its contents will thereupon be formally offered to the university and accepted from Smith by President Alderman.

In addition to the official party participating in the ceremony, other guests invited by the university include the Cav. Antonio Cattasavi, royal Italian consul in Baltimore; Dr. Gil Borges, assistant director of the Pan-American Union, and Jose Maria Torres-Peralta, of the staff of La Prensa.

Fifty-one subordinate granges and seven Pomona or regional granges are expected to be represented at the convention, Dr. Meade Ferguson of Richmond has announced.

The complete program, which will include an address by Commissioner G. W. Kolner of the State Department of Agriculture, will be drawn up at a meeting of the grange executive committee early next month.

J. R. Horsley, of Appomattox, is master of the Virginia organization.

to him and added a further request for President Hoover to autograph the piece of memoranda paper. The President acceded, instead of throwing his goemetrical designs into the wastepaper basket at the end of the interview.

Impressed with the value of the autograph, the visitor soon disposed of it to a dealer and the slip of paper finally reached Madigan. The last price paid for it, although not disclosed, was said to be "substantial."

"This is one of the most unusual presidential autographs I have ever seen," said Madigan. "In 25 years of collecting I have bought and sold thousands, but never have I seen anything like this. It is unique and certainly it will be preserved. Collectors don't allow such things to get away."

Although President Hoover's habit of making such designs while listening is well known, Madigan asserted he believes that this is the only one with the autograph.

Countless visitors to the White House have observed President Hoover sketching on the memoranda pad he keeps close at hand on his desk, and the President's habit of doing this has been frequently described in published accounts of his actions. But no person before, it is believed by Madigan, realized that such drawings might have a high sentimental and commercial value.

According to the collector, President Hoover seemed mildly amazed by the request for this one. As the visitor described it, the President smiled and affixed his signature without any hesitation.

INDICTMENT FACED BY HOUSE MEMBER

taining a warrant and learning that none could be had because of the fact that the House office building is a part of the Capitol, are said to have made a call on Denison at his office, and to have found the trunk there. Denison is said to have admitted that the trunk was his, but to have denied that it contained liquor and to have assered that it was filled with dishes which he had purchased in Panama for his relatives.

In answer to requests of the agents to open the trunk Denison is said to have told them that the keys were at his home and that if they would return he would have them on hand. Accordingly, the agents are said to have told the grand jury that they retired, leaving one of their number to watch the trunk.

Screw Driver Used.

Returning at 8 o'clock that night, the agents are said to have found difficulty in opening the trunk with the key tendered by the representative. Questioning him further, they are alleged to have declared, that he told them to take the trunk out. This they are reported having refused to do, but instead obtained a screw driver and a pair of pliers and opened it.

Representative Denison has always been a strong supporter of the law which he now stands accused of breaking. The records show that he has voted for every piece of prohibition legislation that has come up in the House since he has been there, including the eighteenth amendment itself and the drastic Jones "five-and-ten" law.

It also was recalled yesterday that Denison was one of those who last spring defended the local policeman who killed Ottmer Fleming, 21-year-old rumrunner, during a chase in Anacostia.

Warrant Not Needed, Claim.

Denison contended that the policeman did not need a warrant to use force in trying to capture the fleeing rumrunner, who was using a smoke screen. Several other members, including two prominent drys, called the shooting of Fleming "plain murder."

Denison was born in Marion, Ill., and was graduated from three schools of higher learning—Baylor University, at Waco, Tex.; Yale University Law School and Columbia University Law School.

He practiced law at Marion until he was elected to the Sixty-fourth Congress. He has been reelected to every Congress since then.

On February 21, 1917, Denison voted for the so-called "bone dry" amendment prohibiting the shipment of liquor by mail into dry States. On May 23, 1918, he voted for the wartime prohibition act, and in that same year he voted for the eighteenth, or prohibition amendment.

Voted for Volstead Act.

On July 22, 1919, he voted for the Volstead act, and on October 27 of that same year he voted to override President Wilson's veto of it. Last February he voted for the Jones act.

MAN GOES ON TRIAL FOR BURNING YOUTH

Defendant Relates Story of Fight on Night West Virginia Lad Died.

CLAIMS MEMORY LOST

Ocilla, Ga., Nov 19 (A.P.).—Testimony that Harry K Sligh, charged with slaying Harry Loving Huntington, W Va. hitch hiker, had planned to burn a Negro in his home to collect life insurance and Sligh's story of being attacked by a youth in his home the night it was burned, were related at his trial in Irwin Superior Court today.

Sligh is charged with slaying Loving, a 19-year-old youth, and burning his body in his farm home near here in September, 1926, in a plot to collect life insurance of nearly $90,000. Aubrey C and James Hoover, also of Huntington, and Loving's companions on their hitch hike to Florida, were indicted with Sligh in connection with the youth's death.

The trial moved swiftly today, with the State calling witnesses rapidly after the first hour of the session had been devoted to selection of a jury.

D G. Pryor, jr., publisher of the Fitzgerald Herald, told of Sligh coming to him about ten days before his arrest on the murder charge last May and asking "what would be the attitude of the press, if it was discovered he had killed a man in self-defense who was burned."

Told Attack Story.

Pryor said Sligh told him the story of an attack made on him in his home the night it burned and of trying to locate relatives of Harry Loving.

The witness said Sligh told him he was preparing to remodel his home and had removed his furniture and had taken his family to Lulu, and on the return trip from Lulu "three young men stopped him and asked if one of them might ride."

"Sligh said he replied, 'Yes,' if he would drive," Pryor said, and that one of the men said, "'You go, Harry, and we'll meet you in Tifton.'"

Fight Is Alleged.

Sligh said he took the youth to his home and he remained over night, Pryor testified, and the following day went to Ocilla.

"The following night as Sligh sat reading," Pryor said he related, "he lost consciousness and awakened to find the young man who had spent the previous night standing before him. The young man pointed a pistol at him and demanded his diamond ring."

Pryor said Sligh told him he "grappled with the youth" and they fell across a bed and suddenly he became aware the lamp had been upset and had set fire to the house. Sligh said he fled the room and fell out the door where two men whom he'd seen the day before in Ocilla met him and took him in a car.

Claims Memory Lost.

Sligh claimed that he remembered nothing further until arrested in California, Pryor testified.

Pryor said Sligh told him while in jail on the arson charge of which he was acquitted he recalled that the youth whom he had picked up along the road had told him his name was Harry Loving and his home was in Huntington, W. Va. After being released from jail, Pryor testified, Sligh said he wrote to the chief of police at Huntington to trace the youth's relatives to tell them what happened to him.

J. J. Dawson, another witness called by the State, testified that while he was employed by Sligh in November, 1925, the Irwin County farmer had told him plans for burning a Negro in his home to collect his insurance.

Planned to Burn Negro.

Dawson said he and Sligh were tearing the roof from the defendant's home, when "Sligh told me not to tear off any more of the roof, as he was not mean enough to do what he had planned to do, which was to burn a Negro named Lamar."

The witness said Sligh told him he planned to have the Negro's teeth fixed like his own so a dentist could identify him and collect the insurance. Sligh also showed him handcuffs he intended to put on the Negro, Dawson testified, and that he planned to chloroform him, then after burning the house he would drive away in his automobile "stay four or five years and say he had lost his memory."

Defense attorneys objected to Dawson's testimony, but the court overruled them.

$50,000 First Asked by Montgomery Bank for Site.

COUNTY OFFERS $38,000

Following a conference between the valuation subcommittee of the Montgomery County Courthouse building committee and directors of the Farmers Banking & Trust committee of Rockville yesterday it was announced that a tentative agreement had been reached on the price of the bank property.

The bank site is wanted by the county for the erection of the modern courthouse and jail which has been authorized by the State Legislature. The entire block west of the present courthouse at Rockville is needed for the new building. All of the property on the block has been purchased, with the exception of the bank site.

At a meeting of the bank directors held last week the price of the bank site was placed at $50,000. This decision was presented to the Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday by Berry Clark, clerk to the county commissioners. The commissioners offered $38,000 for the site.

The valuation committee then conferred with the board of directors and a compromise agreement was reached. The exact price agreed upon was not made public yesterday. Final agreement is expected within 24 hours, according to Berry Clark.

The bank directors must put the compromise price up to their stockholders for agreement, and the valuation committee must confer with the county commissioners, but the agreement is believed practically certain.

Members of the valuation subcommittee are Berry Clark, Preston B. Ray, clerk of the circuit court; Lacy Shaw, vice president of the board of county commissioners, and Robert G Hilton, chairman of the Democratic State central committee for Montgomery County and president of the bank.

"The use of Copper, Brass and Bronze materials in home construction has always seemed to me a wise investment"
ARTHUR W. LOASBY

WHEN you build a home, you make an investment — an investment against the future. And, like all investments, this one is good only so long as it does not depreciate. That is why bankers, like Arthur W. Loasby, advise you to build for permanency, with Copper, Brass and Bronze.

Brass or Copper pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures are permanent. They cannot rust. In sky scraper or home they give maintenance-free service for the life of the structure.

Paying the slightly higher initial cost for these rustproof materials is always good business. When you build, or buy, be sure to specify them.

The Building Service Department of the COPPER & BRASS RESEARCH ASSOCIATION, 25 Broadway, New York, will be glad to advise you without charge about the uses and proper application of these metals.

COMMUNITY GROUP RENAMES OFFICIALS

Dr. Close Will Continue as Head of Organization in Prince Georges.

HOSPITAL PLAN OUTLINED

Dr. C. P. Close, of College Park, yesterday was reelected president of the Prince Georges County Community Council at the annual meeting of that organization held in Trinity Hall, Upper Marlboro. Miss Ethel M. Regan, county home demonstration agent, was reelected secretary and Mrs. Joseph Blanford was reelected vice president.

The council voted favorably upon a resolution introduced by W. R. Beattie, president of the Decatur Heights Citizens Association, representing the Prince Georges County Federated Citizens Associations, which provides for a joint committee, one member to be provided from each of the major county organizations, to work out a plan for the establishment of a county hospital.

Beattie told the council that the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad carries an average of three persons daily to Washington hospitals and that the State provides an annual fund of $5,000 a year for hospitalization of indigent patients. He suggested that this money might just as well be used in the county hospital as to be paid to Washington institutions. He said that several residents of the county had offered tracts of land for the site of the hospital.

Dr. William S. Keister, county health officer, declared that no better work could be undertaken by the civic organizations of the county than the promotion of a modern hospital for the county. He suggested that the committee be allowed to completely work out its plans without being subjected to the embarrassment of having member organizations recommend sites for the institution.

Judge J. H. Shepherd reported on the County Police Court; W. F. Mulligan reported on the interfederated societies; Miss Ethel M. Regan on county home demonstration work; P. E. Clark reported on the county agricultural demonstration work, and District Forester W J. Quick reported on forsetry work in the county. Pupils of the Marlboro High School, under the direction of Miss Maude Gibbons, presented a musical program.

Following luncheon, Richard S. Tennyson, director of activities, Playground Department of the District of Columbia, addressed the council on "Community Plays and Entertainment." Dr. H. J. Patterson, of the University of Maryland, spoke on "European Agriculture." Miss Frances MacKinnon, specialist in nutrition of the American Red Cross, spoke on nutrition and junior work in the schools.

W. C. Nason, assistant agricultural economist of the Department of Agriculture, spoke on "The County Library on Wheels." He sketched a plan for one central library which will be connected with a number of smaller distribution centers by automobile.

The Prince Georges County Commissioners yesterday directed that the bond issue totaling $207,000 to be used for the county school building program be advertised for sale to the highest bidder, bids to be received December 10.

The funds realized from the sale of the bonds, which were authorized by the 1929 session of the General Assembly but have been held from the market because of the unstable condition of the bond market, will be used in a program of new buildings and additions to present schools.

School buildings to be financed are as follows: Decatur Heights School, $50,000, of which the board has $15,000 on hand from previous appropriations; Bradbury Heights Junior High School, $50,000; Riverdale School, an addition of four rooms, $33,000; Hyattsville Elementary School addition, $18,000; Cheverly School addition, $13,000; Mount Rainier High School addition, $90,000, of which $40,000 is in the county treasury; Mitchellville colored school and Holly Grove colored school, each $4,000.

The question of transportation of high school pupils without cost to the pupils was postponed until the next meeting of the commissioners.

George W. Waters, jr., president of the board of county commissioners, attended the meeting yesterday This has been the first meeting his physical condition has permitted his attending for several months.

Man Is Killed by Shot From Companion's Gun

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Nov. 19.—While hunting in Chesterfield County yesterday afternoon, John Edward Kennedy, jr., 36, of Hopewell, was accidentally killed when a load of shot from the gun of a companion, also of Hopewell, with whom he was hunting, struck him in the back of the head.

The victim's companion had aimed at a covey of birds and just as he pulled the trigger of his gun, Kennedy stepped from behind a clump of bushes directly in front of the weapon. Practically the full load of shot entered the victim's head and he died almost instantly. Coroner Pretlow, after hearing the circumstances of the shooting, deemed an inquest unnecessary.

Virginia Promises Huge Turkey Crop

Shenandoah Valley Boasts Largest Output in Its History.

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., Nov. 19.—The greatest turkey crop in the history of the Shenandoah Valley is gobbling its way to the chopping block for Thanksgiving Day. The 1929 turkey crop is more than 10 per cent greater than last year's big crop, a survey made by poultrymen shows. A better quality of turkey meat for this year's Thanksgiving is shown by the poultrymen's survey. Corn-fattened, with the grain split by old-time hominy beaters—a new process—the turkey meat this year will be of finer texture than ever known, the report shows.

Only a few sections of the Shenandoah Valley show a decrease in the turkey crop over last year's birds Thanksgiving turkeys given Presidents within the last quarter of a century have come from Virginia, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

President Hoover will have a half dozen turkeys offered him from Virginia for his 1929 Thanksgiving dinner. Madison County, where President Hoover has his "summer White House," will lead the 100 Virginia counties in the offer.

Playground Accident Kills Girl, 12, Instantly

Special to The Washington Post.

Bedford, Va., Nov. 19.—Rudolph Craig, 12-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Craig, was killed yesterday at Luck School, near Montvale, when a piece of playground equipment rolled over her body, breaking her neck. Death was instantaneous.

A beam about 12 feet in length and 10 inches in diameter was fastened by means of a bolt to a stump, and used as a merry-go-round. Unknown to the children, the bolt had been removed and the weight of their bodies rolled the beam from the stump, catching the litle girl underneath. It is reported that there had been some contention between the boys and the girls as who should play on the merry-go-round and that the bolt had been taken out by the schoolboys. Funeral services will be conducted at the Walnut Grove Church this afternoon.

WOOLEN MILL HEAD SENTENCED IN THEFT

Arthur G. Jones Pleads Guilty and Is Given Term of Two Years.

NOW HAS 3 TO SERVE

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 19.—While a third venire was being summoned early tonight from which to complete a jury to try Arthur G. Jones, former president and general manager of the Arthur G. Jones Woolen Mills Corporation on charges of larceny of funds aggregating $12,000, Jones, by counsel, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary by Judge Philip Williams in corporation court.

Jones was convicted a month ago on embezzling charges and given a year by the jury. He was released tonight on $15,000 bail, to begin serving his three-year sentence the last day of the November term of court. Nine indictments were returned against Jones by two grand juries since last July, charging embezzlement and larceny of funds.

Max Krol, former vice president, treasurer and selling agent, was likewise indicted, and is listed as a fugitive.

Another indictment stands against T. A. Copeland, president of the Chicago Wool Co., charged jointly with Jones and Krol with secret conspiracy to obtain title to the corporation's property, and also for selling the company cheap wool at exorbitant prices. Jones, native of Janesville, Wis., came here five years ago from Fairmont, W. Va., and with Krol acquired the Winchester Woolen Mills, Inc., and organized the company bearing Jones' name, inducing large numbers of women, including some widows with slender savings, to invest, along with many men of the community. The company plant is now being operated by Federal court receivers in behalf of the stockholders' protective committee.

THE BREAKDOWN.

With the pennant of the double-cross flying at its masthead, the coalition-controlled Senate is about to go on the rocks and vote to end the extra session. The sooner the better. Nothing can now be gained by prolonging the pitiful demonstration of impotency, party treachery and demagogy which has been coming day by day from the so-called upper body.

The adjournment resolution will be an S O S call from a ship in distress, rudderless and unseaworthy. The latest barnacle to fasten itself upon the sinking hulk has been the junta of Young Turks, or freshmen-Republicans, who became infected with the germ of party disloyalty by their association with the turncoats who betrayed President Hoover and their party and formed the coalition.

The freshman bloc, born as a result of a broken pledge to vote for last week's adjournment resolution, has accomplished only one purpose. It has added a note of comedy to the proceedings. Wresting control in their own minds, the novices conceived the brilliant idea of ousting Senator Watson, the Republican leader, and passing the tariff bill by voting to substitute the present tariff for all unexamined schedules. It was all so charmingly simple, this short-cut method!

This new attempt at leadership was not a flash in the pan, for it has been hardly a flicker. The bloc began to disintegrate before it started. In contrast to the quack remedy proposed by the novices one may well recall the method proposed by Senator Watson in his speech in the Senate on October 31, when he said:

> If men will sit down about a table and contemplate a situation in all its aspects and have the will to do the things which ought to be done a reasonable way can always be found to do them.
> There is not a senator from the Northwest who deliberately would ruin an American institution or pull down a factory and turn its laboring people adrift. Nobody wants to do that. Therefore it is the sane and sensible thing for men to reason out what are the just rates to be imposed in a measure of this kind and then proceed to pass the bill.

This common-sense advice would seem strangely out of place if repeated in the Senate at the present stage of the confusion. Since the coalition has had control the whole program of tariff legislation has taken the form of a political hodgepodge, with no single senator having any serious idea that the rates voted into the bill would ever mean anything. The wreckage which now confronts the wind-up of the extra session is partly the outgrowth of the general conviction that the 1929 tariff bill is dead and that no vote on rates would mean anything, anyhow.

The farmers will be in a puzzled state of mind when they ask for an accounting and contrast campaign promises with broken pledges and lack of performance. It is not difficult to surmise the sort of excuses that will be offered by the renegades.

"Speak not of pledges or relief," they will say; "see how we rescued you from the bottomless pit which was being dug for you by the wicked lobbyists and Eastern industrialists."

Maybe this excuse will be acceptable and maybe not. Perhaps the farmers themselves will dig a few bottomless pits.

The American people will sympathize with President Hoover's predicament, brought about by disloyalty and treachery in the ranks of his own party. But the people will know where to place the blame for the 1929 tariff wreck.

TO FEND OFF HARD TIMES.

The President's conferences, looking toward the general stimulation of industrial activity, are under way. Yesterday morning, a group of railway executives met at the White House to consider a program that will give thousands work and keep mills and shops humming all winter. Yesterday afternoon, the Federal Reserve advisory council conferred with the President. Tomorrow heads of important industries are scheduled to confer; and on Friday agricultural leaders and representatives of the building industries will have their day.

The project of forcing the draft under the boilers of industry should have good effect. In times such as these, when purchasing power has been curtailed, the tendency on the part of industry in general is to adjust production to a lessened demand. A manufacturer of shoes, scanning the indices by which he is accustomed to scale his output, determines to decrease production 1,000 pairs a day, and lays off a certain number of employes. The purchasing power of these is forthwith destroyed, and the fact that their regular income has been taken away is reflected in the income of the butcher, the baker and the groceryman. When hard times come a situation not dissimilar to that involved in the "house that Jack built" is precipitated. Distress is disseminated in ever-widening circles.

But there is work that must be done and that can conveniently be done during periods of depression. Public works have always to be built. Capital improvements can be provided for at any time. If there exists a will to carry on and funds for that purpose can be made available, there is no reason why enough temporary employment can not be provided to sustain the purchasing power of the Nation and fend off widespread depression. Such a program is now in the making at the White House conferences this week.

The idea of artificially stimulating activity is not new. A year ago this month, Gov. Brewster, of Maine, made the suggestion, in the name of President-elect Hoover, who was then in South America, to the conference of governors in session in New Orleans, that a $3,000,000,000 Nation-wide construction reserve fund be established to be released in times of overproduction and unemployment. It was proposed that public authorities store up a reserve for construction purposes equal to two years' normal expenditure on improvements. The fund was to be released only when indices indicated the need, and the money would flow to the contractor, to the laborer, to the material man, to the factory, to the factory employe, to the merchant and to the farmer. The suggestion was made in connection with unemployment, because unemployment at that time was under discussion in the Senate and elsewhere. But the plan is just as practicable in connection with a securities depression, and should be even more practicable with industry providing new jobs and working on its own improvements than if the State governments were to assume this function through the medium of a $3,000,000,000 construction reserve fund.

The United States has been outstandingly successful in solving the economic and social problems that beset organized society. It would be a sad commentary, indeed, were the Nation forced to admit defeat in fending off what may be an incipient depression. In the keeping of those conferring with the President this week is the prosperity and industrial stability of the Nation. The public has faith in their ability to keep the wheels of industry spinning.

LOCAL COURT CONGESTION.

Senator Blease's resolution looking toward creation of a second grand jury in the District has been found superfluous, inasmuch as an additional grand jury can be called whenever it becomes necessary. But it has focused public attention on the delay in courts of the District from other sources. The United States attorney's office finds its greatest difficulty, not in securing grand jury indictments, but in getting cases tried. In this respect there is urgent need for improvement of the judicial branch of the District government.

The Police Court is incapable of handling the cases brought before it. A statement from Charles Murray, assistant United States attorney, shows that 400 cases are pending for jury trials, and that the court is two years behind its schedule. The situation becomes more hopeless every day, for the court is constantly getting farther behind. The number of judges has not been increased since 1925, while the number of cases has almost doubled.

The Federal Constitution provides that "in all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial," yet in the Nation's Capital a man must wait two years or more before he can have a jury trial for a petty offense. Persons who are unable to furnish bail must stay in jail for months, even though they may be innocent of the charge. When the courts do get around to try such cases, the witnesses have often disappeared and the arresting officers may have forgotten the facts on which prosecution is based. There can be no justice to either the accused or to society under these conditions.

Such a flagrant case of injustice through governmental neglect should not escape the attention of the National Commission on Law Enforcement. There is no occasion, however, for depending upon the commission for relief. Congress should give the courts prompt relief, so that they can bring their dockets up to date without delay.

UNIFYING PENSION AGENCIES.

Representative Williamson, of South Dakota, is drafting a bill for introduction at the coming session to bring about consolidation of all Federal pension and compensation agencies. As chairman of the House committee on executive departments, Mr. Williamson has conferred with President Hoover on the subject, and it may be assumed that the administration is favorable. Reorganization of executive departments and coordination of their work has been one of the chief aims of the President. Last spring he appointed a board to study the proposed consolidation of compensation agencies. Since the report of the board is now in his hands he may be expected to deal with the matter in his message to Congress.

The bill being drafted will call for consolidation of the Veterans' Bureau, the Bureau of Pensions, the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, and probably the United States Employes Compensation Commission. In the interest of economy and equal treatment for veterans of all wars this should be done. At present the Veterans' Bureau is an independent institution devoted to the welfare of soldiers of the World War. The Pension Bureau is a part of the Interior Department and handles compensation for veterans of previous wars. The National Soldiers' Home is an independent institution, and likewise is the Employes Compensation Commission, which deals with civilian employes of the Government. The whole problem of compensation could be more equitably and economically handled through a single agency.

It has been suggested that a new Department of Compensation be created with a seat in the Cabinet. There is every reason why a central compensation agency should be established, but no reason why that agency should be represented in the Cabinet. If those who are sponsoring this legislation insist on adding a member to the Cabinet, it will jeopardize the whole program of coordination.

The Nation becomes more generous to its veterans after each war. There is considerable dissatisfaction among the soldiers of the Spanish-American and Civil wars because of the liberality of Congress toward veterans of the World War. Inequalities will always exist until the bureaus administering relief are brought under unified control. If Congress accepts the consolidation plan, the way will be prepared for adoption of a single compensation policy which will apply to all the Nation's defenders. This should not prove difficult because the Civil War veterans are rapidly disappearing, and the claims upon the Government as a result of the war with Spain are insignificant compared with those arising from the World War. The saving which would result from consolidation of hospital and other facilities—estimated at $10,000,000—would no doubt defray the expense of more liberal treatment to the older veterans.

There is much to be said in favor of adopting a permanent policy toward veterans of all wars. The haphazard method of adopting a new policy following each war promotes neither economy nor satisfaction among the beneficiaries. While the country is at peace and the subject can be considered dispassionately a permanent policy should be worked out and a single bureau set up to administer it.

The Interstate Commerce Commission recommends modification of railroad rates on jackasses in carload lots from and between points in Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, New Mexico, Iowa, South Dakota Louisiana and Colorado. Keep 'em in the backward States!

Representative Sol Bloom suggests a secret ballot in Congress on his proposal to legalize light wine and beer. Why not close the doors and pass the bottle?

Chicago schools have had to close down for two months. No! The teachers have not all been murdered. The city is merely out of funds.

MONTICELLO—AND $2

From the Providence Journal.

Profitable study of a fine specimen of architectural art may be briefly engaged in by any one who has one of the new style two-dollar bills. As a whole that bit of money is as attractive, artistically, as any of the other denominations. On the front, for the benefit of those who have not noticed the details, one may call attention to the excellent portrait of Thomas Jefferson. But it is the pictorial embellishment of the back of the note that is a particular source of admiration, for it consists of a fine engraving of Monticello, the historic home of Jefferson.

In contemplating this bit of art, a privilege which is practically free to any citizen, a bit of history should be given for the benefit of those who do not happen to be informed. It is not a matter of common knowledge, although it has been published from time to time, that Monticello is literally the most eminent "homemade home" in the country. Jefferson, who was an amateur architect of great skill, designed the house himself. He chose the site and personally directed the labor of leveling off the top of a small mountain. This was done in 1768, and it provided an ideal plateau of about 120,000 square feet commanding a fine view. One is impressed with the comprehensive meaning of the term "homemade" in regard to the mansion by the recorded fact that all the lumber and brick and even the nails used in the construction were made or prepared on the place.

Jefferson was an inventive genius as well as a clever architect. It is said that there were no beds in the house. Instead, there were sleeping contrivances of couch-like character, some of which could be raised to the ceiling in the daytime. The house is full of all sorts of odd bits of mechanism. Over the main entrance is a double-faced clock, on which the time may be read within as well as from without. The dining room doors are opened and closed by a concealed device which operates in a manner very similar to that which controls trolley-car doors today. Metal window frames are considered modern, but Jefferson installed them in the basement of Monticello. There are a dozen other unique features most surprising in view of their ancient standing.

Monticello is a two-faced residence. The back is just the same as the front, with the same type of portico, pillars and steps. It is also a strangely illusive residence, a three-story building masquerading as a one-story affair. The first and second stories are disguised as one by long windows. The third is concealed behind the roof line, an example of the "set back" principle in architecture in which Mr. Jefferson beat the designers of modern office buildings by 150 years.

But the most amazing fact of all is one of finance. We read that with slave labor and the general low costs of the period, Monticello was built at a cost of about $5,000. Read this again, $5,000, and then look at the picture on the back of the two-dollar bill—and weep.

Somewhat Disfigured, But Still in the Game.

WANDERING BOTTLES.

The latest issue of the Hydrographic Bulletin carries brief descriptions of the wanderings of seventeen bottles recovered in July, August, September and October of this year. The veteran of them all, says the New York Sun, dropped from the American steamship Olen in 1925, was picked up off the Shetland Islands four and a half years later after a drift calculated as 9,000 miles. None of the other bottles grouped with it was in the water as long or traveled as far. There are marked differences in mileage between bottles which were in the water for approximately the same period. Of two bottles that drifted for five months, one traveled 1,600 miles, the other half as far. Of a pair that were afloat for four months, one covered 200 miles, the other 500 miles.

Scientists will put one factor against another and make something out of the conflicting testimony of the deep. Romanticists will regret that bottles with messages of so restricted a nature clutter the seven seas.

COMRADESHIP.

I do not ask a friend to be Clever, or rich, or wise;
The man who shares his life with me
Comes with a better prize.

What matters wealth if one be cold,
Or fame if one be vain?
Better than glory or than gold
Is sympathy for pain.

Better an understanding mind
Than reason's pride austere.
Give me the eyes that tears can blind
And lips that seldom sneer.

With cheers for brilliance and for worth
This world forever rings.
But comradeship through grief and mirth
From gentler sources springs.

Will a Man Give Up Liberty to Earn Money to Buy His Liberty Again?

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is addressed to the discouraged, the unhappy and the miserable.

When the last strip of land was opened to settlers in Oklahoma men in buggies and wagons, on horses and afoot lined up and waited for the starter's gun to begin their rush.

When the signal was given all rushed forward at top speed, each man intent on reaching some superior bit of land miles ahead. Those who had neither vehicles nor horses were counted unfortunate, for they had no hope of reaching the distant prize land in time to claim a share.

But they were not unfortunate. They could not keep pace with the leaders, but they had not come to run a race. They had come to get land. And when the multitude of racers had disappeared in a cloud of dust those who were afoot had only to step across the line and quietly stake out the farms they desired.

People frequently are discouraged and miserable because they are fooled by the example of their neighbors. They think of life as a mad race for prizes.

You are discouraged because you can't keep pace with well-equipped contenders whose eyes are fixed on distant goals, but the winning of distant goals is not your business. You have been tricked by appearances and have lost sight of the truth.

Why do people race for distant prizes? Solely because they hope to exchange the prizes for happiness. Then why interest yourself in the prizes if you can get happiness without them?

Happiness is the ultimate goal—the pearl of great price for which men struggle and scheme and barter—and yet you could have happiness tomorrow if you would strive for it alone as you now strive for the things that are supposed to bring happiness.

You are miserable because you require yourself to be miserable. You awake feeling cheerful and hopeful, ready for a day of happiness, and then you remember your failures and handicaps and say to yourself, "Nobody can be happy in my condition. I'm unfortunate. There will be no happiness for me until I succeed."

You are refusing to gather and eat the fruit that grows within your reach and your only excuse is that other men are toiling in the sun to get money with which to buy fruit.

The King of Spain is happy and healthy, his physician says, because he has no regular habits and takes life as it comes.

It is foolish to follow a routine—even a money-getting routine—merely because the crowd does. Your business is living, not getting. You needn't race because others do.

To take the happiness near at hand, enjoying each hour as it comes, is more sensible than to race for distant prizes that are useful only because they may be exchanged for happiness.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Hildegarde Johnson Insists That the Public Likes Fresh Music Better Than the Warmed-Over Variety.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Wow! Just what is Nelson Bell trying to get over "to the public"—or is it "on the public"—in his recent attack on musicians?

As one of the hundreds of local music lovers, I'd like to express my opinion. I know, from more than personal assurance, that the efforts of the musicians, as presented from an orchestra pit, are much more appreciated than those presented in the so-called "canned" features.

Quoting Mr. Bell's statement of the musician's past: "The musician's plight would have been less ominous if he had not so persistently emphasized his dominant position during the days when he was a factor that the theater manager could not afford to ignore or affront. He demanded his pound of flesh then—and usually got it." His plight has, apparently, not been ominous, because he is still in demand and, judging from the current run of "canned" music features, he will be, even more so, in the future. It is true that "he demanded his pound of flesh then," but, you see, he got it, as witnesseth his present appearances. What's more, mark my words, he'll continue to get it.

The writer questions this author's judgment of good music. He says, "I have heard some very poor 'canned' music, but in the same theater I have heard some very poor music that was not 'canned.'" As the gentlemen of color say, "Why bring that up?" It doesn't strengthen his argument and, certainly, he cites no examples to back up this statement. It seems to me that this article "beats around the bush" and was written merely to fill up space.

It's quite all right to "fill up space," but why pick on the musicians? We appreciate their good work. More of it.

HILDEGARDE M. JOHNSON.

Good Humor and Raillery All Right in Congress, But "Calling Names," and Vulgar Wise Cracks Are Offensive.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: With reference to the wild jacks in interlude permit me to deprecate the unlimited use of brick-bat sarcasm and dirty-neck repartee in Congress.

Not that unadulterated dignity is to be desired. Far from it. A little nonsense now and then is never more delightful than when it sparkles to alleviate the strain of long-drawn-out debate.

Even a judicious manipulation of the bludgeon and the slapstick may now and then be properly enjoyable when forensic strife waxes furious and hot. But the tendency to overwork wisecracks is tiresome.

One of the most valuable assets of a public leader is a sense of humor. The smile of good cheer wins confidence in the halls of legislation, and in the open field where votes are wanted it is well to keep in a good humor. But as a rule the grand old men of legislation cut out the rough stuff under the dome. And at the same time there can be no question that the rapier thrusts of irony, bestowed in a genial give and take of congressional argument contribute a welcome fillip to the gayety of the nation without making the judicious grieve.

WASHINGTON ELM.

"Grandchild seedling" of the famous Washington elm that stood at Cambridge, Mass., will have a place on the memorial highway from the Nation's capital to Mount Vernon, the American Tree Association announces. The offer is made by Mrs. James H. Dorsey, of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Maryland, so that plans can be made for placing it in 1932 at the time of the big celebration in honor of Washington's birthday. The gift has been accepted by those having the building of the memorial highway.

The "grandchild seedling" offered by Mrs. Dorsey has a long history and is listed in the "Hall of Fame" of the American Tree Association. There are two at the tomb at Mount Vernon and another is in the ground of the governor's house at Annapolis, where the then Governor Warfield placed a bronze tablet on it.

Nearly forty years ago an uncle of Mrs. Dorsey brought from Cambridge a handful of seeds he had scooped through the iron fence around the tree. On planting them in his Maryland garden some of them grew. One went to the governor's mansion yard at Annapolis and the rest to Mount Vernon. The Annapolis one is a beautiful thing, and there are two still growing at Mount Vernon in front of the tomb. The fourth, another uncle's yard, is flourishing and productive.

Three years ago Mrs. Dorsey took it to her home in Baltimore with quite a bundle of the little trees that were springing up around the roots of this particular "child" of the old "Washington Elm" which had fallen three or four years before. Mrs. Dorsey has nursed and cared for these little "grandchildren," with the result that she has three or four very healthy little youngsters. Two have grown so rapidly that they are now nearly fifteen feet tall.

One has been given to Valley Forge and is planted in front of the memorial church. One went to Washington College, at Chestertown, on the Eastern Shore of Maryland named for Washington with his expressed consent, and visited by him, when he received an honorary degree. Another is thriving beautifully in the grounds of the Daughters of the American Revolution Memorial Convention Hall in Washington.

MANY DEFENDANTS AT FAIRFAX COURT

C. E. Bean Is Given Jail Sentence and Fined in Liquor Case.

DONATE FIREMEN HOUSE

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna 64.

Opening the second day of the November term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court, Judge Howard W. Smith fined Charles E. Bean $50 and costs and one month in jail on a conviction for transportation and possession of liquor. A charge of driving while drunk against him was dismissed.

The charge of assault against James Cooper was dismissed at the cost of the defendant on a motion of Commonwealth Attorney Wilson Farr.

Clarence Allison was found guilty on a charge of stealing a truck from H. H. Ankers at Merrifield. Allison had been indicted for grand jury larceny, but the jury only found him guilty of petit larceny, as the value of the goods, in their opinion, did not exceed $50. He was fined $50 and costs and given ten days in jail. The other indictment for alleged stealing of meat on November 10 and the two charges against Elburn Collins, which grew out of this same case, was continued to the January term of court by Judge Smith.

The following civil cases were disposed of by the court yesterday: Edwin H. Ginnelley, Ida Cross, Elizabeth H. Boyce and Mable Bachley recovered judgment against F. G. Carper and R. V. Carper for $1,002.09 and costs of the suit, attorneys fees and interest until paid on several notes.

The General Auto Truck Co. received judgment for $975.74 with costs and interest until paid from James G. Dunn in a suit on a conditional bill of sale of an auto truck.

J. E. Dyer & Co. sued Roy Parsons for $300 on an open account. Attorneys in the case had Gilbert H. Shaw, who was indebted to Parsons for a like amount, substituted for Parsons in this suit, and a judgment of $300 and costs and interest until paid was rendered in favor of Dyer & Co.

The Doyle Printing Service received judgment for $415.75 with interest and costs on an open account for work performed for the Capital equipment & Oil Co. when they did not appear in court in reply to the case.

Charles King Sons & Co., Inc., were awarded judgment for $1,434 against J. D. Dunn on five notes held by them, also interest until paid, court costs and attorneys' fees.

Fannie Tompkins was awarded judgment against Harry Baumgarten for $5,000 on a note made by Baumgarten in February, 1922. She also was awarded attorneys' fees, court costs and 6 per cent interest until the note is paid.

Sue Thompson was appointed a committee of Edward Thompson when she furnished bond and was qualified before the court.

Suits for divorce were filed yesterday by H. B. Scott against Mainia Scott, Margaret Utta against Daniel C. Utta, Walter Hunter against Elemora Hunter, Cora G. Dove against Warrenton G. Dove.

Miss Edith Thompson, Fairfax County supervisor of the white schools, has filed a report of the sixth grade classification test which was held September 22 of this year. The standard for the first month of the sixth grade for this test is 77%. The average made by schools taking the test in this county were as follows: Andrew Chpael, 47; Annandale, 42; Baileys, 48; Burke, 62; Cameron, 42; Centerville, 44; Chesterbrook, 66, Clifton, 65; Colchester, 67; Dranesville, 50; Fairview, 63; Fairfax, 55; Falls Church, 71; Floris, 62; Forestville, 54; Franconia, 42; Herndon, 66; Jefferson, 60; Lee Jackson, 70; Lebanon, 68; Legato, 43; Lincolnia, 54; Lorton, 74; McLean, 58; Navy, 25; Oak Grove, 48; Oakton, 48; Pohick, 61; Potters Hill, 77; Snowden, 60; Springfield, 50; Vale, 52; Vienna, 58; Wakefield, 34.

Miss Thompson states that Fairfax County can hardly be proud of this record. A different form of the same test will be given in the spring.

The agricultural committee of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce will hold a committee meeting in the chamber's office at Fairfax tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. At this time the question of offering rewards to persons giving information which will lead to the arrest of chicken thieves will be taken up.

The Fairfax Volunteer Fire Department are planning to erect their new fire siren on the steel tower donated by the Cherrydale Fire Department on a lot at the rear of John Rust's office. The department has not been able to locate a lot on which to build a new fire house, and until a suitable place is found Allan Williams and John Sisson have offered to house the engine for the winter months in their shop on the Lee highway near the corner of the Jackson highway.

The Annandale School and Community League will hold their meeting tonight in the schoolhouse. Dr. R. E. Faegans, new county health doctor, will address the gathering. Miss Elma Besley and a large committee will have charge of the social features.

Members of the Southern Methodist Church at McLean will meet at the home of Mrs. Clifford Stoy, at Fairfax Station. Mrs. R. E. Harlen, of Washington, will conduct a class on the new study book for the year, "Roads to the City of God."

Injured Shoulder Of Lindbergh Knits

Colonel, Treating Hurt Lightly, Objects to News Publicity.

New York, Nov. 19 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—Carrying his right arm in a silken sling and wearing a soft shirt open at the throat and innocent of a tie, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today drove to New York from the Englewood, N. J., home of his father-in-law, Dwight W. Morrow, and attended a number of business conferences.

He made light of the incident on Sunday in which he is said to have reached for a book or some other object at the Morrow home and thrown out of place the same shoulder which he dislocated in his pre-nuptial crackup at Mexico City with Anne Morrow and originally had injured in an emergency parachute jump.

Lindbergh was considerably annoyed by the attention paid his mishap by the newspapers, insisting that it was a private matter of no importance and should have been treated as such. Dr. Walter Phillips, of Englewood, who was called to the Morrow home, gave the flier an anesthetic to force relaxation of his muscles and then reset the shoulder, said during the day that X-ray photographs showed the bones were back in their proper position and not fractured.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

REFORM of the congressional frank, which now costs the Postoffice and the Government Printing Office many millions yearly, may not be so far distant if Senator Caraway, of Arkansas, wins many supporters to the theory he laid down in the lobby investigating committee.

In effect, Mr. Caraway thinks there is no difference in morals between buying a vote or bribing a public official and spending money to influence public opinion with the object of changing legislation.

It would appear to apply to the Antisaloon League, the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the United States Chamber of Commerce and the Free Trade League if there is one.

"You are trying to buy legislation," said Senator Caraway to Royal D. Mead, representative of the Hawaiian sugar interests. "It is just the same as bribery."

"Oh, no," said Mr. Mead, aghast.

THE very next day Mr. Caraway was just as outraged by what E. P. Shattuck, who was working against raising the tariff on sugar, admitted on the stand. In fact, he made it clear over the radio after making both sides of the sugar fight highly uncomfortable that his object was to make lobbying hateful to the American people.

So far the investigating committee, under Caraway's chairmanship, has not uncovered any instance of where the vote of a senator or member of the House was changed by this form of lobbying or any other. But until Mr. Caraway's blast at Mr. Mead it had been assumed that the committee was stalking influences which might be classed as corrupt.

* * * *

WASHINGTON is all cluttered up with representatives of organizations in various lines of industry, not to mention reform and antireform organizations. There are a few old-time lobbyists left—the fellows who either get what they want or pretend to their clients that they do by direct influence on Capitol Hill. But for the most part the new type of lobbyist prevails. He works in two ways. He lays the arguments on his side before the proper committees, and he gets them over as best he can in private conversations with senators and members.

Of late, however, the chief medium has been publicity. Every possible news development is used as a peg on which to hang a statement from some official of the organization, and this statement invariably contains some argument attempting to convince newspaper readers that what their side is trying for is economically or morally sound.

BUT if it is wrong to spend the money of a private organization to get its case before the public, hoping that this will cause the creation of a public opinion which will force action on Capitol Hill, these gentlemen inquire, why is it not equally wrong for a senator to spend the Government's money, on printing and postage, to circulate not only his own speeches on one side or the other, but all sorts of arguments made by outsiders and inserted in the Congressional Record by that senator?

And how about the Democratic national committee, these lobbyists further inquire, which is spending a lot of money raised by John J. Raskob to circulate interviews and statements made by Senator Caraway and others in the hope of influencing public opinion not to change the minds of senators and representatives, but to get a new variety of senators and representatives elected in their place?

Meanwhile most of these press agents and publicity counsel seem to be headed for a hard time at Mr. Caraway's hands.

HUTCHINS BECOMES HEAD OF CHICAGO U.

Galaxy of Educators Sees Investiture of Youthful President.

FATHER RECEIVES HONOR

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Robert Maynard Hutchins was inducted into the presidency of the University of Chicago today.

At a ceremony dignified by the presence of a galaxy of eminent educators, Dr. Hutchins, at the age of 30, became the head of one of America's greatest institutions of learning.

The investiture was proclaimed in the new Gothic Chapel of the university by Harold H. Swift, president of the board of trustees.

"We ask from you courage and vision, united with enthusiasm for scholarship," he told the president-elect. "We ask for zeal in the search for truth and that our standards be held high. We ask for inspiration of our young men and young women. We ask for broad human sympathy, high perspective on the values of human life and helpfulness in the problems of our civilization."

The young son of Yale, second from his alma mater to head the University of Chicago, told of his vision of the destinies of the institution. Around him were gathered 112 presidents of American colleges and universities, some 2,000 distinguished guests in all, representing institutions of learning at home and abroad.

Tall and boyish, but serious of mien, President Hutchins acknowledged the acclamation of his audience. Most of the 300 professors surrounding him seemed old enough to be his father, as indeed, one was.

Dr. William James Hutchins, president of Berea College, in the Kentucky mountains, had come to honor his own son and to receive the honorary degree of doctor of laws from the university. The same degree was conferred also upon Martin L. Myerson, member and former president of the board of trustees, and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, and president of Leland Stanford Junior University, was to have received the honor. Because of the death of Secretary Good, Secreatry Wilbur was unable to be present, but his prepared address was read.

Dr. Hutchins made clear that undergraduate and graduate schools were to continue and that, if possible, restrictions upon the student were to be lifted. He pledged himself to make the financial rewards of the teachers more attractive.

ARKANSAS YOUTH, 18, FARM TITLE WINNER

Lad Is Held Nation's Star Agriculturist and Gets Check for $1,000.

SIX OTHERS TAKE PRIZES

Kansas City, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—An 18-year-old youth from the hills of Arkansas, Caridon Patton, of near Wooster, who mixes education with agriculture, tonight was crowned the "star farmer of America," and given a prize of $1,000.

The ceremony took place in the arena of the American Royal Live Stock show. Patton, a modest, drawling lad, was chosen from 26 previously selected members of the "Future Farmers of America," an organization of vocational agriculture students functioning in 20 States. The 26 youths were named as outstanding members of the club from their respective sections.

Six other boys, named the "star" farmers of their States, were given prizes of $100 each. They included Boyd Waite, Winfield, Kans.; Oscar Schieni, Salisbury, Mo.; Ronald Ford, Helena, Okla.; Bryce Tucker, Denison, Iowa; Alvin Reimer, Beatrice, Nebr., and Don Godsey, Yuma, Col.

Paper Donates Prize.

The $1,000 prize was given by the Weekly Kansas City Star.

Sam H. Thompson, Chicago, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; O. E. Huff, Salina, Kans., president of the National Farmers Union, and L. T. Tabor, Columbus, Ohio, president of the National Grange, named the 26 youths from whom the winners were selected.

Caridon, the national champion, has earned more than $2,500 from farm operations in the last three years. He has reinvested more than $1,700 in farm holdings.

This year he leased his father's 80-acre farm with an option to buy it. In 1927 he put in 823 hours of farm labor. In 1928 his labors totaled 1,559 hours, and in 1929 they totaled 1,741 hours.

His grades during four years of high school averaged "A." He was winner of the American athletic scholarship in 1928, and at present is a freshman in the Arkansas State Teachers College at Conway.

J. C. Swift, president of the American Royal Livestock Show, read an address prepared by Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, who was unable to be present. The Secretary declared the possibilities of the "future farmers" were immeasurable.

"The 'pick-up' method of learning to farm goes hand in hand with inefficiency," he said. "The complex conditions under which farming now is conducted requires special training, good practices and the utilization of the discoveries of science and modern machinery."

North Carolinian Named Chief.

Kansas City, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Wade Turner, Lillington, N. C., today was elected president of the Future Farmers of America at the annual election at the American royal live stock show here.

Other officers elected are Paul Zillman, Salisbury, Mo., student secretary; Charles Pinkney, Webster, N. Y., first vice president; Harry Wellhousen, Twin Falls, Idaho, second vice president; Gray Miley, Plant City, Fla., third vice president; and Boyd Waite, Winfield, Kans., fourth vice president.

Dr. C. H. Lane, Washington, was reelected national adviser and Henry C. Groseclose, Blacksburg, Va., was reelected executive secretary-treasurer.

15,000 Employes Is Aim Of Celanese Company

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Nov. 19.—Expansions that will ultimately mean the employment of 15,000 people at the plant of the Celanese Corporation of America are in contemplation, it was announced by Dr. Camille Dreyfus, president, who with other officials and stockholders from this country and England, were on a trip of inspection here.

It is expected that the plant will employ 4,000 persons within the next few months, with indications that 5,000 will be on the pay roll by March, 1931. There are 3,200 persons now employed at Amcelle. Fifteen thousand employes is the ultimate aim, Dr. Dreyfus said, which would equal the number of the Derby, England, plant.

K. of C. to Hear Deputies.

Lynchburg, Va., Nov. 19 (Special).—Samuel L. Kelley, of Richmond, State deputy, and Clayton W. Noel, of Roanoke, district deputy, will make addresses before Holy Cross Council, Knights of Columbus, here Wednesday night.

Man Who Charged Robbery Arrested

Holdup Account Given by Farm Employe Stirs Officers' Doubts.

Leesburg, Va., Nov. 19.—M. B. Wenner, 20, of Lovettsville, was arrested and held on $500 bond this morning by Deputy Sheriff L. T. McKenney and charged with embezzlement following investigation of his story that he was held up Saturday afternoon in the Clarks Gap woods, three miles from Leesburg, and robbed of $250.

Wenner, who was an employe on a farm near here, went to the Hamilton National Bank every Saturday evening to have checks cashed for other employes. He was returning from the bank, he reported, when three men, two white and one colored, driving a touring car, approached him and crowded the automobile he was driving to the side of the road, causing him to crash into a fence.

One of the white men then alighted and holding a club in a threatening manner put his hand in Wenner's pocket, taking out the money.

Suspicion that this story was not true was aroused when workmen nearby said they saw no car of the description given by Wenner pass at that hour.

Dawes, in Paris, Visits Comrade of War Time

Paris, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Gen. Charles G. Dawes was so eager to emphasize that the purpose of his journey here today was merely a personal visit to his old comrade, Gen. Peyot, that he decided not to call on Premier Andre Tardieu, although they are personal friends of long standing.

The ambassador feared that a political interpretation might be placed on any chat he might have with the premier even though only personal matters were discussed. He spent much time today with Gen. Peyot swapping yarns on their wartime experiences as chiefs of the transportation departments of the American and French armies. The ambassador returns to London on Thursday.

WITNESS IN MARION CITES UNION THREAT

Organizer Quoted as Saying Squealers Would Be "Taken for a Ride."

DYNAMITE USE HINTED

Marion, N. C., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Warning to strikers that "somebody's going to the chain gang over this. If anybody is scared they had better pull out," by Alfred Hoffman, union organizer, was testified to today by Charles Vickers, mill worker and former union member in the insurrection and rebellion trial of five persons.

"Slim" Puckeridge, union organizer from Tennessee, told Hoffman that strikers here "may have to do as we did in Tennessee," Vickers testified. Some mention was made of dynamite, the witness said.

"I'll see to that," the witness quoted Hoffman as saying. Hoffman added, he said, "somebody's going to the chain gang over this. If anybody is scared they better pull out. If anybody gives anything away they will take a long ride and won't come back."

Tried Once for Nonsupport.

On cross-examination, the witness denied he had been arrested for forgery, but admitted being tried for nonsupport of his wife and three children. He was acquitted, he added.

Those on trial are Hoffman, an organizer for the United Textile Workers of America; Wes Fowler, Del Lewis, Lawrence Hogan, strikers, and J. Hugh Hall.

Ernest Morris, mill worker, said Hoffman told strikers to return to a mill house the furniture Sheriff O. F. Adkins had moved out after receiving eviction papers from mill officials. The furniture was returned by the strikers, Morris said.

Lee Biggerstaff, young son of Bill Biggerstaff, mill worker and deputy sheriff, said Hogan came to East Marion during a strike and told Jim Bryson to "get a gang of fighters and go to Clinchfield."

Troops Had Been Called.

This was August 30, he said, when troops were called to the Clinchfield village to quiet a disturbance.

"Where was Jim Bryson?" Solicitor J. W. Pless, jr., asked.

"He was down there on the picket line," young Biggerstaff said.

"How many men were there with him?"

"About 35 or 40."

"Lee, did you tell anybody about this statement?"

"Yes, sir, I told my daddy."

Bill Biggerstaff, father of Lee, followed him to the stand and corroborated his testimony. He had been employed by the manufacturing company a number of years, he said, and had been a special deputy there eight years. He denied he had been paid by the mill for his police work.

Sid Mauney, a special deputy from Old Fort, said he was in the Clinchfield village during certain evictions and several members of a crowd said to him "if you ever come to East Marion, we will kill you."

Labor troubles in the Clinchfield and Marion Manufacturing Co. mills here followed strikes called by the United Textile Workers of America, branch of the American Federation of Labor.

Traders' License Drive Opens in Prince Georges

Discovery by county police that several merchants who have concessions at the Bowie Race Track have not secured traders' licenses, yesterday resulted in an order by Sheriff Charles S. Early, chief of police of Prince Georges County, that all persons found trading without a license in the entire county be arrested at once and taken to a justice of the peace to post bond for their appearance in county police court.

Several of the county policemen detailed to the race track yesterday discovered that traders at the track concessions had failed to secure traders' licenses, which cost about $15.50 for the size of establishment at the track. The traders were given until this morning to secure licenses. All those found without licenses this afternoon will be placed under arrest, the sheriff announced.

Alice Robertson Voted Pension by Oklahomans

Oklahoma City, Okla., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—In recognition of her services to the State, the Oklahoma Memorial Association has voted Miss Alice M. Robertson, of Muskogee, only woman ever elected to Congress from Oklahoma, a monthly pension, Mrs. Frank Korn, of Elreno, president of the association, announced today. The amount of the pension has not been definitely determined.

In recent years Miss Robertson has met with financial reverses. During the World War soldiers were given free meals at a restaurant operated by her in Muskogee.

Pontiff Expected To Name Cardinals

Restoratioin of Italian Majority in College Held Likely.

Vatican City, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Official announcement today that the Pope would hold a secret consistory on December 16 and a public consistory three days later led to almost certain belief that a number of cardinals would be appointed to fill the many vacancies now existing in the Sacred College.

Of the maximum of 70 cardinals, there now are only 58, owing to a series of deaths. It was generally believed today that the United States would not receive a fifth cardinal at this consistory. There now are more foreign cardinals than Italians and ecclesiastics have wondered whether the Pope may not take steps to change this balance to give Italians their customary strength in the college.

Some of the most likely candidates mentioned for the red hat in authoritative circles are Mgr. Jean Verdier, new Archbishop of Paris; Dom Manoel Gonzalves Cerejeira, announcement of whose appointment as patriarch of Lisbon and head of the church in Portgual was made today; Archbishop Armagh; Mgr. Pacelli, nuncio to Berlin, and Mgr. Tedeschini, nuncio to Madrid.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Miss Catalani Introduced at Tea by Aunt

Miss Eustis and Miss Johnson to Be Presented This Afternoon.

By JEAN ELIOT.

WHILE official society is observing a period of mourning for Mr. James W. Good, late Secretary of War, entertaining for the debutantes will provide most of the gayety of this week. Miss Vittoria Catalani was presented yesterday afternoon. Today Mrs. William Corcoran Eustis will give a reception to introduce her daughter, Miss Edith Eustis, and Capt. and Mrs. Alfred W. Johnson will have a tea at their home, 2137 R street, at which Miss Elvira Lindsay Johnson, a belle from the Navy contingent, will make her debut. In the evening Capt. and Mrs. Johnson will entertain at dinner at the Chevy Chase Club for their daughter and the girls who will assist her, the company numbering 30.

Mrs. Gillett Hill has chosen Friday for the tea which she will give at her residence, 2133 R street, to introduce her goddaughter, Miss Jean Hay. And on Saturday again there will be two debut parties, one given by Capt. Enrique Prieto, Military Attache of the Cuban Embassy, and Senora de Prieto for her daughter, Miss Lucia de Tessada-Guzman, and the other by Maj. and Mrs. Albert Myer for their niece, Baroness Astrid Ungern Sternberg.

Mrs. Eustis has invited many of her old friends to meet her daughter, a granddaughter of the late Levi P. Morton, once Vice President of the United States, at the tea today, which will be given at her house in Rhode Island avenue, the home of Mr. Morton when he was Vice President. On December 28 she will give a dance for her daughter, which will be one of the most important events of the holiday season. Miss Eustis is undoubtedly one of the most important of the season's debutantes and, being very pretty and charming, will have a successful first season.

Miss Catalani was presented under the happiest auspices at a tea given by Mrs. Henry F. Dimock and her daughter, Signora Catalani. Miss Catalani, a niece of Signor Catalani, second counselor of the Italian Embassy, is spending the winter with Mrs. Dimock, under whose chaperonage her sister, Mrs. McClure Kelley, who was Miss Dora Catalani, made her debut two years ago.

Owing to illness Signora Catalani was not able to be present at the reception yesterday. The debutante received with Mrs. Dimock. She wore a graceful and most becoming frock of pale pink chiffon, made on long lines, and carried an armful of pink roses. Chrysanthemums had been used as decorations and the great house was literally filled with flowers sent the debutante. Mrs. Dimock had chosen a gown of rich blue velvet, with the blue stockings which she frequently favors.

At the tea table were Mrs. Frederic Atherton, Mrs. William McClellan Ritter, Mrs. John P. Jackson, Mrs. Harry Norment and Miss Bell Gurnee. The group of girls assisting Miss Catalani included Princess Elizabeth de Ligne, Countess Cornelia Szechenyi, Countess Alice Szechenyi, Miss Elsie Ekengren, Miss Katherine Phillips, Miss Margaretta Wright, Miss Laura Tuckerman and Mrs. McClure Kelley.

The cosmopolitanism which is Washington's is apparent in the younger set as well as in official society. Not only are the daughters of the Minister of Austria—Miss Loranda Prochnik—and the Minister of Nicaragua—Miss Maria Sacasa—debutantes this year but Miss Catalani is Italian, combining the graces of a continental jeune fille with the frankness and zest for sports of her American sister; Miss Tessada-Guzman is Mexican, while her stepfather is a Cuban, and Baroness Astrid Ungern-Sternberg is a Russian.

She is a niece of Mrs. Albert Myer, who before her marriage to Maj. Myer, son of the Gen. Myer for whom Fort Myer was named, was the widow of a Russian officer long attached to the embassy here. Maj. and Mrs. Myer will give a tea at their country home to introduce their niece, already popular with the debutate group.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Stimson have postponed their dinner planned for tomorrow evening because of the death of the Secretary of War, Mr. James W. Good.

Senator and Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg have issued invitations for a tea in honor of their daughter, Miss Barbara Vandenberg, in the florentine room of the Wardman Park Hotel on December 3.

Bachrach.

MRS. ALFRED OGSTON, with her daughters, Lelia and Virgie. She is the widow of a British diplomat and lives in Washington, her home before marriage.

Miss Strudley Is Married to Mr. Schrider

Ceremony Is Performed in Gonzaga College Chapel.

Miss Helen Alice Strudley, daughter of Mr. Edward A. Strudley, was married yesterday to Mr. James Schrider, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Schrider, in Our Lady's Chapel of Gonzaga College. Mr. Strudley gave his daughter away, with Father Riordan officiating.

The bride's attendants were her sisters, Mrs. M. R. Colbert and Mrs. J. J. Buckley.

Lieut. Paul Schrider served as best man for his brother and the ushers were Mr. Thomas Connors, Mr. Frank Schrider and Mr. Frank Sullivan.

The bride was lovely in a gown of ivory satin with a bodice of lace. A tulle veil held to the lace cap was caught at the neck line with a cluster of orange blossoms. She carried bride's roses and orchids. The attendants wore gowns of copper-colored velvet and tulle with lace hats and brown moire shoes completing their costumes. They carried copper-colored chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's father on Girard street northeast. Later in the afternoon the couple left on a honeymoon in Miami, Jacksonville and Savannah. They will be at home in Washington at 6 Girard street northeast.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Williamson will close their apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel the end of the week and will go to Atlantic City until after Thanksgiving. They have had with them at the hotel their daughter, Mrs. W. L. Linton, and her small daughter, Anne, who have returned to their home in Jackson Heights, Long Island.

Rear Admiral Bristol and Wife Return.

Among the passengers arriving in New York on the Leviathan Monday were Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol and Mrs. Bristol, who returned to this country from Vladivostok via trans-Siberian Railway and Europe. Admiral Bristol will come to Washington for station.

Mrs. John Wise Morse, wife of Lieut. Comdr. Morse, U. S. N., entertained at luncheon today at her home on California street in honor of Miss Elvira Johnson, debutante daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Alfred J. Johnson, when several of the season's buds were invited to meet her.

Among the guests were Miss Clara Bolling, Miss Mary Henry, Miss Parrish Bradley, Miss Priscilla Totten, Miss Helen Sterling and Miss Janet Ball.

Miss Bell Gurnee will have as her guest for the week-end her niece, Miss Cordelia Gurnee, of New York, who will arrive Friday. Miss Gurnee will entertain at dinner for her niece Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wilmer Bolling and Miss Clara Bolling have sent out invitations for a dinner for debutantes on December 23 at the Mayflower.

The Prince and Princess Eristavi-d'Aragvi, of Paris, accompanied by the latter's mother, Mrs. George O. Rockwood, of Indianapolis, are spending a few days in Washington at the Mayflower. The princess is the former Miss Diana Rockwood, her marriage having taken place last March in Paris.

Mrs. Georgia Knox Berry will present her daughter, Miss Katherine Berry, to society at a ball at the Mayflower on December 27 instead of at a tea as originally planned.

December Debutante

Harris & Ewing.

MISS ESTHER BAGLEY WALLACE, daughter of Mrs. F. Bagley Wallace, of Detroit, Mich., who is spending the winter in Washington and will present her daughter to society at a tea on December 21.

Paris Writer Visits Sister In Capital

Translator of Play by French Envoy to Stay for Holidays.

Mrs. Louise Morgan Sill, who makes her home in Paris, is in Washington for a visit, the guest of her sister, Mrs. E. S. Alvord. The author of fine verse, including "The Hell-God and Other Poems," Mrs. Sill is also the translator of "L'Annonce Faite a Marie," the best known play by M. Paul Claudel, Ambassador of France, who is famous on two continents as poet, playwright and essayist as well as diplomat. This play is well known in this country under the name of "Tidings Brought to Mary."

Singularly appropriate for a Christmas play, "Tidings Brought to Mary" will have its first presentation to Washington as the feature of Dr. and Mrs. Frederic A. Farrington's annual Christmas Eve party. This is an institution in Washington. Every year they bring together at the Chevy Chase School, then deserted by the pupils, a large company of guests to sing Christmas carols, witness a play and, after a supper suggestive of an old English Christmas, to gather about the Yule log and exchange stories until the small hours of the morning. Many of the guests remain overnight and reassemble on Christmas morning for breakfast.

"Tidings Brought to Mary" will be presented by a clever company, many of whom have had professional experience.

Miss Frances Saul is visiting in New York, where she has been attending the horse show. On her re-

DOWNWARD to milady's foot points the critical finger of fashion. Never was there a season where the success of your frock depended so wholly on the color of your slippers, the arch of your instep, the classic silhouette of your heel.

Delman skillfully interprets the most gracious mood of fashion in Antoinette—a debonair Walking Slipper in subtle color combinations with leather covered heel.

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

By MARIE PAULETTE.

SMART women are especially enthusiastic about the lengthened silhouette with tiers.

The one I'm illustrating is so appropriate for general daytime occasions. The fluttering circular tiers are arranged on skirt to affect hip yoke and fashionable curved line. The tiers overlap at front creating a wrapped movement, one of the best means I know of to give the figure length and grace.

Style No. 8229 is in enchanting tones of Patou's dark dahlia purple printed transparent velvet. The vestee and turn-back flared cuffs are of plain sheer velvet in lightest tone of print.

A tie girdle of self-fabric indicates higher waistline.

It's a type suitable for larger woman as well as her slim sister.

It can be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

In the medium size, 3⅞ yards of 40-inch material with ⅝ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Black wool crepe with the shawl collar and cuffs edged with black galyak fur trimming with the vestee showing striking contrast in white panne satin is utterly chic.

Independence blue silk crepe with vest and cuffs in aquamarine shade is neat and smart for all-day occasions.

Bottle green sheer velvet, plum shade in faille crepe, dark red canton crepe, printed rayon crepe in tobacco brown with capucine and crepe Elizabeth in royal blue are ideal selections.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

MARRIAGE OF FIRST COUSINS.

IN some States it is contrary to law for first cousins to marry. These laws are not followed up very well and in consequence they are broken without much fear of punishment. How the violators have escaped lawsuits over such matters as inheritance of property and real estate titles I do not understand.

But so far as health is concerned, I know of but little evidence of increase of inherited disease and defects as the results of transgression of this law. As a matter of fact, these laws against the marriage of first cousins were not based on genetic studies and in their present forms are neither scientific nor beneficial theoretically, nor on the practical side can they be enforced.

There is in hand now enough scientific basis for fine laws on the subject, laws that would make for eugenics. Whether they could be enforced is another matter.

In the first place, it has been proved that certain diseases and deformities, some very important and some not, are inheritable. The marriage of first cousins who have these disorders either in their persons or in their stocks, should not be allowed. On the other hand, there are good qualities which are inheritable. The marriage of first cousins having these qualities should be encouraged. A law regulating the marriage of first cousins should be discriminating if it is to be helpful to the racial stock.

But some objector rises to remark that inbreeding deteriorates stock just because it is inbreeding, and therefore it should not be allowed among human beings. The scientific evidence is mostly against the objector, and, so far as human inbreeding is concerned, it cuts all the ground from under him. In the Bureau of Animal Industry a bunch of guinea pigs have been closely inbred for 33 years. The experiment was begun two years before McKinley defeated Bryan, in the second Cleveland administration—1894. Figuring human lives on the same basis, that would mean, say, somewhere not long after the birth of Christ.

The experiment, within very close lines, has been continued without break since 1906, or for 28 generations. This in comparison would carry our race back to about the time of the discovery of America. In all these years litter brothers have been bred to litter sisters. Translated to terms of human beings, it would mean that for many centuries the only marrying and begetting of children had been by brothers with sisters. Of course, nothing comparable to that in human beings has ever occurred, not even in the days of the Egyptian Pharaohs.

In these ages of guinea pig lives some innate weaknesses due directly to inbreeding have developed, but they have been rather unimportant. When Wright and Eaton wanted to overcome some effects of inbreeding they were able to do so by selection of individuals for breeding for a few generations. The very trifling degree of inbreeding which prevails among human beings would cause no direct deterioration if we can draw conclusions from this enormous guinea pig experience.

Wives of Tomorrow

"Girls and Men."

WHEN it comes to analyzing girls, men are helpless:. The average man classes girls all together, or calls them "good" or "bad," "normal" or "lax," "clever" or "dull." What worked with one was a complete flop with another. And since both were "good" he can't understand. Or since both were "lax" he can't understand.

He can't see why he "went" with Margaret for three years and never missed a Sunday dinner at her house in all that time, and now he is going with Katherine and she never seems to even think a fellow might like to sit down for a moment when he comes calling. No sir, Katherine is standing in full view of the front door in fur coat and hat, all ready to step out when he rings the doorbell. He has never had a bite of anything to eat in her home in the six months he has known her, and is she hard on the old pay check! And he can't see it. She is a nice girl and he likes to take her out, but she is not very considerate; in fact, well, it's not nice to even think of it, but she must be downright selfish!

Right! She is where men are concerned. To her parents, her sisters and brothers she probably is the soul of generosity. But when it comes to men, well, she figures what are they to her? A boring crew, an impossible race, uncouth, self-opinionated. It would take dozens of the sort who take her out to make one of the sort who is her ideal. It may be the man whose secretary she is, or some man she has singled out from all men as the perfect man. To all others she is as yielding as Gibraltar and as warm as ice. She remains, however, what the uncouth sex terms "easy on the eyes," and so to her door come the swains in taxis, and the gardenias in small white boxes, and the proposals of marriage. And it all means nothing in her life. Her father grows anxious, her mother sympathetic, and the men friends cynical, "Who does she think she is?"

She probably doesn't think she is anybody, probably doesn't think about it at all. She is simply not interested in the male sex en masse or in particular, so why pretend? She thinks of marriage, sometimes, feels that sooner or later she will have to take some one, is resigned to the fact, but refuses to be cast down by it, or to dwell upon it. And so she goes her way. She is the envy and despair of the girls who "like men."

They naturally can not comprehend her, the truth could not possibly occur to them and so they look on in utter wonder as she at last snaps her desk shut for the last time tumbles a long stemmed rose into the wastebasket, and leaves the office to be married. She is not excited or elated, or anything in particular. She just goes out the door as if nothing were happening.

And the truth is to her nothing is happening! She is marrying what she could get, and she is not in the faintest degree proud of her catch. The fact that several other girls have loved the man whole-heartedly and unrestrainedly for years would not move her even if she knew. She would know that they had to love somebody whole-heartedly and unrestrainedly and it did not make much difference who!

Now, men in the course of their lives encounter both types, for they are the most prevalent general types, but the average man does not come within the proverbial mile of the truth of his efforts to analyze them. And the average man is so inconsistent where woman is concerned that he considers the whole-hearted girl the better material for wifehood, yet leaves her for some other man while he marries the girl who names the day and says to herself "That's that!" As a matter of fact it is a case of beginner's luck at that, for he gets the woman with at least a brain, and statistics prove that it is the brain and not the well-known heart that makes a success of marriage. More tomorrow.

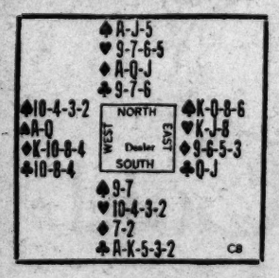
WORK ON BRIDGE

AID FROM ADVERSARIES.



IN the above hand I sat West. It was played in a game of Auction Bridge. South passed, of course I passed also, North passed and my partner in the fourth hand position added the fourth pass to the list and consequently the hand was not played.

Why did I feel relieved when this hand was passed into history without producing a bid?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

South, with Ace-King and three other Clubs, should have bid one Club. It is true that he has the minimum holding that justifies a suit-bid, but that holding does justify a bid and frequently—as in this case—it proves expensive not to make it. Had South bid one Club, I would have passed and North unquestionably would have bid one No Trump. If the hand had been played at No Trump, my partner (East) would have started by leading his fourth best Spade. North would have won with the Jack, led a Club and passed it. With the Spades continued (as surely would be the case), North would win, let another Club win in dummy and then, it being necessary to pull off two successful Diamond finesses in order to make game, dummy hand would lead a Diamond before running its Clubs. When the finesse succeeded another Club would be led, won by dummy and the long Clubs taken in, followed by the second Diamond finesse; so North and South would have made two Spades, three Diamonds and four Clubs, if North had started by bidding Clubs.

Had the hand been played in Contract Bridge—a game in which many do not bid as lightly as in Auction Bridge—I still believe that South should have started by bidding one Club. I find in either game it pays in the long run to bid a hand of that type when dealer or second hand after dealer's pass.

LA ARGENTINA SEEN IN PLEASING RECITAL

DIPLOMATS IN AUDIENCE

A constantly applauding audience which packed Poli's Theater to capacity yesterday afternoon confirmed the advance notices that La Argentina, the South American dancer who appeared there in recital is one of the terpsichorean stars of the age. It was her debut in Washington, and among those in the representative audience were diplomats from many Latin American countries. The dancer was under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

La Argentina is a past mistress of the art of choreography. She also is a consumate actress and dances with her entire body, being able to protray by a motion, a shrug or a nod of her head a world of dramatic meaning. She was unassisted in all her dances, even in the tango which is usually a two part dance.

Hailed as a virtuoso of the castanets, La Argentina made a musical instrument out of the sounding woods achieving cross rhythms and dynamic colorings with these minor percussion instruments. The technique of castanet manipulation was shown in particular in "Seguidillas" in which she danced without music other than the castanets.

Miguel Berdion acted as accompanist for La Argentina and also played a group of solos by Spanish composers. As an accompanist he was much more effective than in his solo numbers which did not reach the high standard of the rest of the afternoon's program.

The dancer portrayed grace, agility and a thorough understanding of the Spanish temperament in the historic Bolero dance in which her striking costume included a garment of that name and the final "La Corrida" by Q. Valverde where impressions of of a bull fight were pictured in realistic choreographic movements and with the utmost artistry.

Christmas Wares To Be Shown Early

Merchants Advance Date of Display in Order to Avert Rush.

In connection with the "shop-early mail-early" campaign, launched by the Merchants & Manufacturers Association, Washington business concerns have advanced the date of displaying Christmas wares. Full displays of Christmas stocks will be started the day after Thanksgiving.

It was formerly the custom to defer Christmas displays until early December, a practice that invariably resulted in last-minute congestion that proved inconvenient to the public and the shop owners. The shop-early campaign aims to eliminate this condition.

The Postoffice Department is cooperating with a view to minimizing the last-minute avalanche of work in the latter part of December.

Nothing is "lost" until after it has been advertised in the Want-Ads of The Washington Post.

New Ministry Formed By Suwaidi in Bagdad

Bagdad, Irak, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Nazi Bey Suwaidi, minister of the interior in the cabinet of the late Sir Abdul Munsin, today formed a new ministry. The personnel remained the same with the addition of one newcomer, Khalid Sulaiman, who was appointed minister of irrigation and agriculture.

Sir Abdul Munsin committed suicide last week because of despondency at charges that he was a traitor to Irak in his dealings with the British.

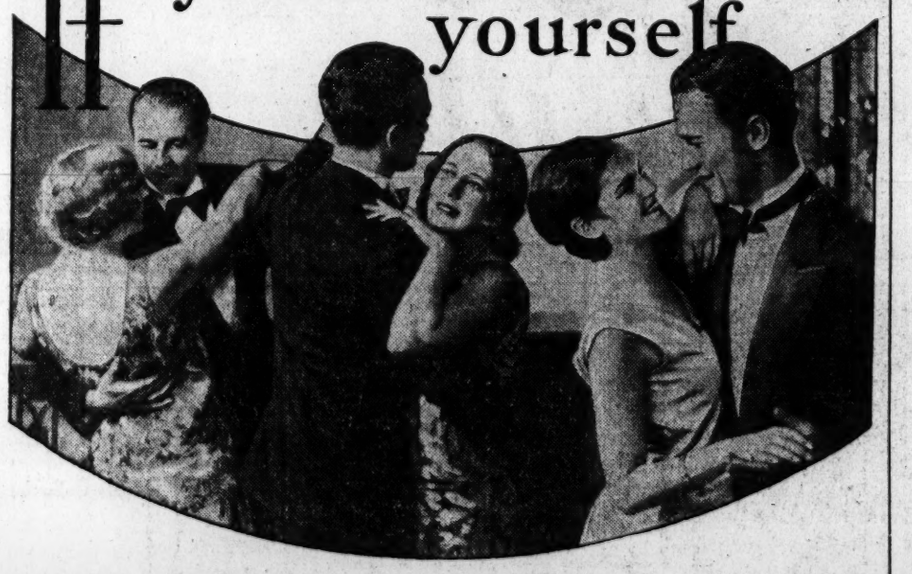
If you are NOT yourself



Are you being denied the happiness that is due you in life?

IT is easy to abuse our golden life-given body, but Nature has a way of signaling danger. If heeded, graver troubles may be avoided. That tired, exhausted feeling, lack of appetite, aches and pains, flabby flesh, skin troubles—all speak of a body weakness—a lack of the normal count of red-blood-cells.

Without plenty of rich, red blood there would be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or healthy, beautiful women.

So, if you are not yourself, look to the red-blood-cells to give you sturdy health.

Every normal person's blood should contain about 5,000,000 red corpuscles to the cubic millimeter—those vitalizing tiny red-cells which give blood its color and are carriers of nourishment to every part of the body. It is dangerous to let the red blood count remain below normal.

With an increase in the red-blood-cells, you will be on the right road to Health. This is Nature's way to body power and to clear skin. Naturally, with your strength restored, it is easier to fight disease and infection; to enjoy your food and to sleep soundly. When firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby, you will feel strong—your nerves will become steady—more happiness and friends will follow.

WITNESS IN KILLING CITES BRIBE OFFER

Charge Is Made During Trial In Chicago Primary Death Last Year.

JUDGE ORDERS INQUIRY

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Judge Joseph B. David demanded grand jury investigations today after a witness in the trial of nine men charged with slaying Octavius Granady, Negro politician, in last year's primary election, had testified that a State investigator had offered $1,000 for an untrue version of his story and after it was charged that telephone wires had been tapped to the judge's chambers, the jury room and the homes of defense and State's attorneys.

The witness, the Rev. Joseph McMillan, of Muskegon, Mich., a Negro, said that Mr. Brusseaux (Cheridan Brusseaux), former State attorney's investigator, said there would be $1,000 in it for him if he would implicate one of three men, Harry Hochstein, Johnny Armando or Sam Kaplan.

The three men are alleged henchmen of Morris Eller, Granady's opponent for ward committeeman.

Twice Judge David summoned State's Attorney John Swanson and asked him to investigate the charges. The judge also reprimanded the prosecution and warned that unless more evidence was produced against Lieut. Phil Carroll, four members of his detective squad and the four other defendants, he would throw the case out of court.

Judge David started the wire-tapping charges himself. Calling the State's attorney to the courtroom he said he had been informed that wires to his rooms and those of the jury had been tapped. Defense and State's attorneys immediately made similar complaints. Swanson asserted his office had tapped none of the wires and promised to investigate.

District Attorney Held On Dry Law Indictment

Mauston, Wis., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Indicted by a Federal grand jury on two counts charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, Clinton G. Price, district attorney of Juneau County and former Wisconsin legislator, was arrested here today.

His wife obtained his release by signing $2,500 bond and his case is expected to be heard in the United States District Court at Madison next month. Price is the second Juneau County official to be arrested this year. Sheriff Lyall T. Wright was indicted for a similar offense and removed from office last spring.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY

WALLACE MUNRO is in the city as Herald Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary for Fritzi Scheff, who has scored a triumph in her recent revival of Victor Herbert's tuneful gem, "Mlle Modiste." He recalls the fact that 'twas in this very town Fritzi got her start as a light opera star. This was in 1903, in the same Victor Herbert's "Babette," at the National Theater; and, rather oddly, it was in this same theater two years later that the first performance was given of "Mlle Modiste," with the old Washington favorite, the late William Pruett, in the original cast. In a couple of weeks Fritzi will be back again in Washington with the same vehicle, playing this time at Poli's, the production to open on Sunday evening, December 1. Incidentally, while here Miss Scheff will be the guest of the National Press Club to a tea given in her honor in the auditorium of the club on Tuesday afternoon, December 3. Fritzi Scheff will be the first woman to be entertained in the new club quarters. Naturally, 'twill be "ladies' day" in the home of the scribes.

DR. R. MACGUNICLE, the learned press agent for the Theater Guild, sends in a warning to the theater clientele, advising them of a strange state of affairs in the play, "Wings Over Europe," which starts on a week's journey here at the National next Monday night. Says the doctor: "This is a play acted by a score or more of men. There are no women in it. There is no love in it, excepting that most fruitless and chimerical of passions, love of humanity. It is not an easy, comfortable or reposeful play. It lashes out as spaciously at its audience as at its players. It deals in the stuff of a strange pseudo-scientific, madly goading and sarcastic dream of mankind, benefited by a great invention—and then of mankind uncomprehending, selfish, self-betrayed." "Wings Over Europe" is labeled by its authors, Robert Nichols and Maurice Browne, "a melodramatic comedy in three acts," which the doctor says is a calm enough description, since the play actually deals with a sort of dynamic, dramatic dynamite. This package is delivered, of all places, straight into No. 10 Downing street, London, the famous meeting room of the British cabinet, the sanctum sanctorum of the prime minister. Well, it sounds interesting, anyway.

SINCE the advance agents are having their day, it may be well to announce here that Howard S. Benedict, one of the youngest members of the craft, hops into town with glowing reports of the new play, "The Amorous Antic," scheduled for opening in the Belasco Theater next Monday night. Mr. Benedict has seen the play in rehearsal and is convinced that the producer, Sam H. Harris, has a new hit for Broadway. It was this same Sam Harris who brought in Ring Lardner's comedy, "June Moon," not so long ago—a play that is now the reigning sensation of the metropolis. "The Amorous Antic" is billed as a sophisticated comedy of love among ultramodern artists. Ernest Pascal is the author. When the curtain goes up at the Belasco next Monday night this will mark the play's premiere. It goes direct from here to New York.

• • • •

WHILE all these glowing reports of the newer shows are coming along, Stoddard Taylor, manager of the Belasco, comes in to say that "Death Takes a Holiday," the strange opus now on those boards, has awakened more interest amongst Washington theatergoers than any play seen here in a long, long time. The first-night audience was startled, at times, over the actual beauty of the production—and word has now gone around town that this is the play to see. As a matter of fact, it is the only play in town, what with the National showing "Hunting Tigers in India," and Poli's entertaining the celebrated magician, Thurston. At that, "Death Takes a Holiday" would undoubtedly prove a contender for honors if all the houses were going full blast with rival dramatic attractions.

Separation Near, Couple Ends Lives

Man, 80, and Wife, 73, Choose to Die Rather Than Part for Time.

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—On the fifty-fourth anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Widdicombe were found dead today in their Brooklyn apartment with the gas turned on. Mrs. Widdicombe, who was 73 years old, was a paralytic. Yesterday a physician told her husband that a cataract had formed on one of her eyes, and that she must be taken to a hospital for an operation. On the chair beside the bed in which their bodies lay was a note in the husband's handwriting. It read:

"They tell me that Helen must go away alone. That shall not be. I will go away with her. We can not be separated after all these happy years."

Widdicombe, for many years chief clerk of the New York Central Railroad, was 80 years old.

Two Men Shot Dead While Looting Store

Ardmore, Okla., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Two men were shot and killed early today when surprised in the act of looting a general store at Pooleville, 30 miles northwest of here. Three other men, one of whom was believed to have been wounded, escaped. One of the dead was identified as Walter Ginn, 25 years old, son of Joe Ginn, former deputy sheriff.

L. O. Majors, postmaster, and his son, Wallace, operators of the store which has been entered six times within a year, were aroused when the burglars in switching on the store's lights started an electric motor at the Majors home nearby. Rushing to the store they opened fire on the burglars.

Installment Turkeys Seen in Radio Group

(Associated Press.)

There is very little of the Thanksgiving spirit among the employes of the Radio Commission, with only about $300 in the treasury of the commission to meet salaries totaling well over $15,000.

The situation became acute when the commission received a ruling from Comptroller General McCarl saying the Department of Commerce, under the law, could not loan the commission enough to meet its pay roll.

Commission employes know they eventually will get their money, but meantime it is probable that few of them will be able to do their Christmas shopping early on a cash basis.

U.S. War Dead Paid Honors by France

Bodies of 75 Who Died in Russian Campaign on Way Home.

Cherbourg, France, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The last military honors in Europe were paid tonight to the bodies of 75 American soldiers who died in Russia and are now homeward bound aboard the steamship President Roosevelt.

The French government was represented by Pierre Berlandi in behalf of the minister of pensions and officers of the French army. Samuel Wiley, American consul, thanked the French government for the courtesy it has shown. A squad of French sailors gave a farewell salute as the President Roosevelt cleared away. A heavy sea was running when the ship left.

Eleven bodies of the 86 recovered and brought here from Russia will be buried in France in an American war dead cemetery.

The 86 bodies recovered were those of Michigan soldiers who died during the Archangel campaign in Russia. The Veterans of Foreign Wars made the arrangements for the return of the bodies to the United States.

U. S. Sailor Dies in China.

Shanghai, China, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—John Neimi, of Superior, Wis., and electrician's mate attached to the U. S. S. Barker, now in Shanghai, fell overboard last night and died of a factured skull.

Albuquerque Thieves Steal House Off Lot

Albuquerque, N. Mex., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Thieves didn't take H. L. Davis' shirt off his back but they did steal the house off his lot.

Davis owned a vacant house in a populous section of the city. When he went out today to inspect it, a yawning foundation excavation was all that he could see.

It developed that three men several days ago had wrecked the house and carried away the pieces in broad daylight. They had to make several trips, neighbors said. Those who saw them, and there were many, took it for granted Davis had ordered the demolition.

Man Eats Ham and Eggs Then Robs Store of $20

After consuming an order of ham and eggs at delicatessen at 1727 North Capitol street, a patron held up the proprietor, Paul Harb, with a gun and robbed him of $20 last night. He took $15 from the cash register and $5 from Harb's pocket.

Another customer, Melvin R. Blackwell, of 1220 Indiana avenue northwest, was in the store at the time but was undisturbed. The robber escaped before police could be called.

WE invite your attention to a feature The Washington Post has inaugurated. It is the publishing of a daily schedule of auction sales in the District of Columbia and nearby suburban sections. The purpose is to increase attendance at these sales and bring to the attention of investors the properties offered.

Information deemed essential to prospective bidders not found in the legal advertising, is given. A detailed description of the property, zoning regulations, assessed valuation of ground and improvements, and in the case of office buildings and apartments, number of offices and apartments and annual rental for same, is published daily.

The Post believes that now is an opportune time to invest in Washington real estate. An acceleration of Government building and a more favorable trend in the market for real estate securities should combine to enhance existing values.

Any suggestions or assistance that you may see fit to offer in furtherance of our efforts will be gratefully received.

No matter where you drive around here—you never have to hunt for an Amoco-Gas pump

AMOCO-GAS

WHEREVER you go—in and around town—you're never far from the familiar Green Pump from which AMOCO-GAS is sold.

For America's Original Special Motor Fuel is motorists' favorite motor fuel—first, last and all the time. Other gases make their appearance, make a lot of noise, make a lot of promises—but one by one they fade from the picture.

For local motorists know what real motor fuel quality is. They have been "raised on AMOCO GAS"—and they can't be fooled by substitutes or imitations.

That's why you're never far from an AMOCO-GAS Pump. They're everywhere—because public demand makes it necessary! And there wouldn't be such a lot of them unless motorists thought such a lot of AMOCO-GAS.

Early Radio Apparatus To Be on Display Today

Pioneer wireless apparatus which is to become a part of the collection being made by the Smithsonian Institution for a national museum of historical radio apparatus will be shown today at the opening of the historic exhibit of the Radio Corporation of America, to be held until November 30 at Lansburg & Bros., 420 Seventh street northwest.

Included in the exhibit is a Baden-Powell Kite, used nearly 30 years ago to carry aloft an aerial at St. Johns, Newfoundland; the apparatus on which Marconi first heard the three dot signal sent from England while the kite sailed above; and the De Forest steam arc, which marked a highly significant stage in radio development, the continuous wave. A true-to-scale model of the Rocky Point radio central, from which messages are transmitted daily to nearly every country in the world, and apparatus for the sending of photographs by radio also are in the exhibit.

It has caused rains in the Ohio Valley, the lower Lake region, northern New England and northern New York and local snows in the upper Mississippi Valley and the upper Lake region. Light snow has fallen also in the Dakotas and the northern Rocky Mountain region. Pressure is relatively low from California southeastward to the mouth of the Rio Grande, Yuma, Ariz., 29.90 inches, and another disturbance is moving northeastward over the Gulf of Alaska, Kodiak, 29.70 inches. The great area of high pressure from the Arctic regions has continued to spread southward and eastward, and it now covers the greater part of North America. The temperature will fall over all sections east of the Mississippi River.

"What if" . . . . vs . . . . "what is"

Mary Jane was wiping her eyes and sobbing dolefully.

"Why, Mary Jane, what's the matter? What are you crying for?"

"Oh, dear! I was just thinking, and I thought what if I grow up some day and get married and have a little baby boy . . . and what if some day while he is playing in the house he comes along and pulls the table cloth off the table . . . and what if there is a big pot of boiling hot coffee sitting on the table . . . and what if it tips over on him . . . and he gets his little face and arms scalded . . . and what if it's so bad he gets worse and worse . . . . oh dear . . . . oh dear . . . . "

"WHAT IF" . . . It starts out as a melancholy fancy and the first thing we know it's a disease . . . . more catching than measles, more sapping than flu.

Business leadership concerns itself first not with "what if" but with "what IS." It has plenty of time for real problems . . . but no time at all to build up imaginary ones to weep about. It knows the facts . . . and sponsors them to cancel conjecture. It leaps to shoulder responsibility and quickens its pulse at the recognition of a situation calling for level-headed action.

"How do you like the look of things now?" someone asked a business man the other day when shifts in the economic scenery had brought him face to face with important decisions.

He laughed. "It's in times like these that we really earn our salaries."

Where such men are the very air seems tonic. Muscles tingle with an urge to action. Eyes glow with clearer vision.

Such men wear no medals on their breasts. Their names are inscribed on no marble arches. Some are known to the world and others tread their quiet ways remote from headlines. Yet, in the news or out of it . . . in richly furnished offices or modest corner stores . . . whether their responsibilities are measured in hundreds of dollars or hundreds of millions . . . these men constitute a Distinguished Service group that is second to none.

These are the men the world leans upon because they see straight, think straight, and stand straight when straight seeing, thinking, and standing are the needs of the hour.

Nation's Business is published to give leadership the facts and the "feel" of the times . . . which leadership must have to fulfill its obligations. Published by the United States Chamber of Commerce, Washington. Nation's Business is authoritative, unbiased, keenly attuned to the needs of men who have important decisions to make. It is an essential part of the business equipment of 300,000 men who want to know "What IS" so that they can avoid the pitfalls of "What if".

Pioneer wireless apparatus which is to become a part of the collection being made by the Smithsonian Institution for a national museum of historical radio apparatus will be shown today at the opening of the historic exhibit of the Radio Corporation of America, to be held until November 30 at Lansburg & Bros., 420 Seventh street northwest.

Included in the exhibit is a Baden-Powell Kite, used nearly 30 years ago to carry aloft an aerial at St. Johns, Newfoundland; the apparatus on which Marconi first heard the three dot signal sent from England while the kite sailed above; and the De Forest steam arc, which marked a highly significant stage in radio development, the continuous wave. A true-to-scale model of the Rocky Point radio central, from which messages are transmitted daily to nearly every country in the world, and apparatus for the sending of photographs by radio also are in the exhibit.

NEVER A PLAY LIKE THIS.
No mere summary of the play, "Death Takes a Holiday," will do it justice. No attempt to set in cold type any reactions experienced from a contemplation of its beauty will suffice to fire the imagination, for this is one of those seldom acclaimed performances that must be seen to be appreciated.
A play the like of which had not been dreamed of in all the history of theatricals. There have been near approaches to the grand idea, true, but not in this manner. Here is the unusual in the theater.

"What if" . . . . vs . . . . "what is"

Mary Jane was wiping her eyes and sobbing dolefully.

"Why, Mary Jane, what's the matter? What are you crying for?"

"Oh, dear! I was just thinking, and I thought what if I grow up some day and get married and have a little baby boy . . . and what if some day while he is playing in the house he comes along and pulls the table cloth off the table . . . and what if there is a big pot of boiling hot coffee sitting on the table . . . and what if it tips over on him . . . and he gets his little face and arms scalded . . . and what if it's so bad he gets worse and worse . . . . oh dear . . . . oh dear . . . . "

"WHAT IF" . . . It starts out as a melancholy fancy and the first thing we know it's a disease . . . . more catching than measles, more sapping than flu.

Business leadership concerns itself first not with "what if" but with "what IS." It has plenty of time for real problems . . . but no time at all to build up imaginary ones to weep about. It knows the facts . . . and sponsors them to cancel conjecture. It leaps to shoulder responsibility and quickens its pulse at the recognition of a situation calling for level-headed action.

"How do you like the look of things now?" someone asked a business man the other day when shifts in the economic scenery had brought him face to face with important decisions.

He laughed. "It's in times like these that we really earn our salaries."

Where such men are the very air seems tonic. Muscles tingle with an urge to action. Eyes glow with clearer vision.

Such men wear no medals on their breasts. Their names are inscribed on no marble arches. Some are known to the world and others tread their quiet ways remote from headlines. Yet, in the news or out of it . . . in richly furnished offices or modest corner stores . . . whether their responsibilities are measured in hundreds of dollars or hundreds of millions . . . these men constitute a Distinguished Service group that is second to none.

These are the men the world leans upon because they see straight, think straight, and stand straight when straight seeing, thinking, and standing are the needs of the hour.

Nation's Business is published to give leadership the facts and the "feel" of the times . . . which leadership must have to fulfill its obligations. Published by the United States Chamber of Commerce, Washington, Nation's Business is authoritative, unbiased, keenly attuned to the needs of men who have important decisions to make. It is an essential part of the business equipment of 300,000 men who want to know "What IS" so that they can avoid the pitfalls of "What if"

LOANS QUITE NUMEROUS

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The convalescent stock market made definite progress along the road to normalcy today. The mild sinking spell which appeared in the last hour of trading last Friday was successfully thrown off early in the day's trading, and the market rallied throughout the remainder of the session.

The fact that the selling was calmly absorbed, without bringing on a new fever of liquidation, helped along the gradual return of speculative confidence and brought sufficient buying into the market to prompt the cautious shorts to cover. Leading shares closed about 2 to 10 points higher, with a few specialties making wider gains.

The calm reception accorded the news of the failure of a small stock exchange house attested the stability of the market. Commission houses were rather cautious in their advices to customers, few looking for anything more than a trading market for several weeks, but recommendations for the purchase of prime dividend papers were numerous.

Credit Abundant.

Credit remained in superabundance. Call money renewed at 5 per cent and was quoted at that figure in the loan post all day. Large offerings went begging, however, and were offered as low as 3½ per cent in the outside market. Bankers' acceptance rates were reduced another ⅛ of 1 per cent, the tenth such reduction since October 23, making the asking rate for 30-90-day bills, 3⅞ per cent, the lowest since May, of 1928, when the rediscount rate was 4 per cent. Bank statements, however, indicate that the huge liquidation of stock market loans has strengthened the New York banks more than it has banks elsewhere, and until the situation is equalized, other Federal Reserve banks may not follow the New York bank in reducing its rate to 5 per cent.

That the collapse of the market has sent many persons to the banks for loans against their investment securities was again evident in the Federal Reserve's condition statement for member banks in leading cities, which showed in the week ended November 13 a reduction of loans against securities of only $377,000,000, as compared to a drop of $710,000,000 in brokers' loans that week. These banks were still loaning a total of $3,869,000,000 against security collateral, which is $1,422,000,000 greater than a year ago.

The first of President Hoover's conferences held with a view to increasing business activity brought assurances from leading railway executives that improvement expansion plans will be pushed, with resultant stimulation of steel and other basic industries, and a tendency to maintain employment at high levels. Freight car loadings as announced for the week ended November 9 showed another seasonal decline, but disclosed a negligible decrease from the like week of last year, and a sharp gain above the same week of 1927.

Trading Picks Up.

The volume of trading on the stock market continued to contract during the first half hour, only 4,100 shares were traded, as against 9,300 in that time yesterday. Trading picked up, however, with the return in prices, and total sales were 118,010 shares, close to yesterday's turnover of 2,746,770.

Such shares as American Can, Air Reduction, American Water Works, and General Electric, closed 8 to 9½ points higher U. S. Steel, International Harvester, Atchison, Johns-Manville, J. I Case, A. M. Byers, American & Foreign Power, National Biscuit, and Standard Gas & Electric gained about 6 points each. Such shares as General Motors, International Telephone, New York Central, New Haven, Bethlehem Steel, Montgomery Ward, Radio, Simmons and Stone & Webster closed about 1 to 6 points higher. Columbian Carbon sold up 14 points in a small turnover. Allied Chemical was a soft spot, dropping 11 points, reducing its loss.

Foreign exchanges were firmer. Further losses of gold by the Bank of England were believed to have caused postponement of plans to reduce its discount rate. Sterling cables rallied ¼ of a cent to $4.87 9-16, and the Canadian dollar reduced its discount by nearly 1-5 of a cent.

Commodities were generally firm, although several refiners reduced the price of refined sugar by about 1-10 of a cent. Wheat futures sold up about 4 cents on reports of crop damage in Argentine, and good export sales. Corn gained 1½ cents. Cotton sold up more than $1 a bale.

BOND PRICES SOAR; FUNDS SHIFT OVER

Domestic Firms Loans Show Features by Big Demands.

FOREIGN BONDS ADVANCE

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The bond market today assumed an appearance normal for a period of cheap money and prices scored a general advance. It was apparent that the shifting of large funds from fixed income securities to stocks was virtually over, and the list seemed to be reestablished on the upward move, interrupted by recent temporary conditions, which accompanies easier credit.

Most of the demand was for domestic corporation loans of high investment character, especially rails. With the exception of the Liberty 3½s and fourth 4¼s, the United States Government obligations lagged, although the latter Liberty bond, the first 4¼ and the Treasury 3⅛ touched new 1929 highs. The entire Government group is within a small fraction of its peak for the year.

General Group Gains.

Gains of a point or more were interspersed throughout the general group, embracing such issues as Rock Island 4½s, Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s, Great Northern 5½s, New York Central 6s and 5s, New Haven 4s, Northern Pacific 6s, Chile Copper 5s, Pennsylvania Gold 5s, St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s and 4s, Southern Railway general 4s and Standard Oil of New York 4½s, scores of others made advances averaging about a half a point.

Dealers report a substantial increase in buying orders from private investors for bonds of the highest grade. Two or three months ago virtually the only customers of the market were insurance companies, foundations and similar holders of large funds, but the increased inquiry from individuals which appeared with the early fall unsettlement of stock prices has carried through the recent decline in bond quotations and is now reported to be a substantial factor in the daily trading.

Convertible Dealings Decrease.

One of the features since the break in equity values has been the diminished dealings in convertibles. While stocks were soaring and mortgage loans prices slumping, share privilege obligations constituted the bulk of each day's trading, but this tendency has received a distinct check. Today, for example, seven convertibles that formerly showed as much as 40 per cent of the market's volume in a single session, accounted for only $3,200,000 of the total $16,788,000.

Stock feature obligations found higher ground with the rise in shares prices. American Telephone 4½s gained 4¾s, Alleghany 5s of 1949 and International Telephone 4½s rose 2 each, Atchison 4½s advanced 1¾ and American International 5½s gained 1, but the trading volume in each was only a fraction of the summer activity.

Foreign bonds were also on an upward move and large advances developed in some of the more volatile issues. Bolivian 7s rose 10 points and Rhine-Westphalia 6s soared 12½. Leading European government loans were firm.

UTILITY PURCHASES SHOW LARGE GAINS

Life Insurance Firms Now Buying Fewer Rail Bonds.

B. & O. BUSINESS RISES

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Investments in public utility bonds by 25 of the larger life insurance companies in the United States and Canada continue to increase, while their holdings of railroad, Government and municipal bonds show a decline, according to a revised analysis of their bond investments prepared by Bonbright & Co., with local offices.

Figures based on the 1928 reports of these companies, just made available, show that $200,000,000 of public utility bonds were added to their portfolios out of a $500,000,000 increase in total bond holdings, and that utility bonds now comprise 24.6 per cent of their total bond investments of $5,717,703,115.

Edward J. McQuade, vice president of Liberty National Bank and a director of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., reported last night that directors of the latter company at their annual meeting in New York City declared a regular dividend of $1.50 and an extra dividend of 25 cents payable December 31 to stockholders of record December 4.

This puts the stock on a regular $6 basis, instead of a $5 one as heretofore, plus extras, which undoubtedly will be declared as formerly. Frederic D. McKenney, of this city, is also a director of the Mergenthaler Co.

Investment Sales Record.

Total sales of investment certificates by the Investors Syndicate in the four weeks ended in October, established a new high record in the history of the company's business, according to a report made public today. The total for the period was $10,036,200, compared with $8,921,700 for the four weeks in September, and $7,140,300 for the four weeks in October, 1928.

Sales from January 1, 1929, to November 1, 1929, were $85 409,300, against $63,693,700 in the corresponding period of 1928, also a new high record.

The annual meeting of the shareholders of the Perpetual Building Association resulted in reelection of the following officers and directors, officers being members of the directorate also: James Berry, president; Arthur G. Bishop, vice president; Joshua W. Carr, secretary; Marvin A. Custis, treasurer; Edward C. Baltz, assistant secretary; John C. Scofield, Vernon G. Owen, Franklin W. Harper, and Raymond K. Espey, directors. The association closed its fiscal year with assets of $20,900,000.

In a report to the annual meeting of stockholders of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co., Senior Vice President George M. Shriver announced that during the first ten months of the present year the business handled by the company was about 5 per cent greater than during the same period in the previous year. During the latter part of October and the first part of November, there has been evidence of a falling off in tonnage, not serious up to the present time, but still a diminution, and today the freight business being handled by the company is about 7 per cent in volume below what it was a year ago.

Members of the board of directors were reelected as follows: Hon. Newton D. Baker, Bernard M. Baruch, Delos W. Cooke, Hon. John J. Cornwell, Robert Garrett, John R. Morron, Frederick H. Rawson, Henry Ruhlender, George M Shriver, John F. Stevens, Paul M. Warburg, Joseph E. Widener.

District Exchange Slackens.

Stock and bond business experienced declines at yesterday's session of the Washington Stock Exchange where the first recession in sales volumes in a week were revealed. Bond sales totaled but $2,400 for the day, a decrease of $15,400 from the preceding session and stock turnover of 945 shares was 558 under Monday's.

While the stock aggregate was augmented considerably by sales of smaller-priced issues, there was a 290-share transfer of Potomac Electric 5½ per cent preferred moving at 103¾, last sale price. Sales of 65 shares of Merchants Transfer & Storage preferred at 98, latest level, and of 35 shares of Lanston Monotype at 105, point decline, also were recorded.

The resignation of James Sloan, jr., as manager of the Washington branch of Mackubin Goodrich & Co., investment bankers, of 1508 H street northwest, has been announced. John B. Mothershed will now have charge of the stock department temporarily, and Ralph M Wolfe the investment securities department.

Control of the Welch Grape Juice Co., of Westfield, N Y., has been acquired by a syndicate headed by Paul M. Davis, president of the American National Bank of Nashville, Tenn., according to an announcement by P. R. Welch, president.

Fleming Goes to New York.

President Robert V. Fleming, of Riggs National Bank, will be in New York City today to attend a meeting of the special committee on national bank research appointed at the last annual convention of the American Bankers Association at San Francisco and of which he is a member. This meeting will be held prior to a meeting November 21 of the administrative committee of the association.

Fleming will also attend in New York City the annual dinner of the Forum of the American Institute of Banking on the evening of November 21, at which President Lonsdale, of the American Bankers Association, will be the guest of honor and speaker.

Vice President Howard Moran, of the American Security & Trust Co., has been appointed a member of the federal legislative committee of the savings bank division of the American Bankers Association. Moran has already served on this and other important committees of the association. He has also acted for the District of Columbia Bankers Association as an executive council member and as a former president of the local association.

President John Poole, of the Federal-American National Bank, is attending the sessions of the Federal Reserve Board's advisory council this week, being a member of that body.

Coca Cola Profits Big.

With profits for the first nine months of the current year showing an increase of 20 per cent, the Coca Cola Co. is on its way to reporting another record year. Gallonage sales will reach a new peak, while net available for dividends may be estimated at close to $15,000,000.

In view of the recent drastic decline in all security prices, the board of directors of Associated Gas & Electric Co. has decided to authorize modification of the $8 interest bearing allotment certificates so as to make them much more attractive and has authorized a reduction in price from $123 to $120, without, however, making any change in the interest rate of $8 per annum. The amount of Associated Gas & Electric Co. $5 dividend preferred stock included in each allotment certificate will be increased two and one-half times from one-fifth of a share to one-half of a share. This change will also make the securities included in the allotment certificates more largely of a fixed return investment character, thereby harmonizing with the present trend of the best investment advice.

The reduced price of $120 will materially increase the yield of the allotment certificates, as no reduction will be made in the interest rate. The increase in the amount of preferred stock will also substantially increase the return when the allotment certificates are exchanged for the securities. The high point in the market value of the securities included in each allotment certificate before the recent drastic reduction in the price levels, was over $190 as compared with the reduced subscription price of $120, which is substantially below the present market value of the securities which are included.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The cotton market was higher today on covering combined with a scattering trade and commission house demand accompanied by reports of small offerings in the South and comparatively $1.50 per bale encountered little more selling which seemed to be partially for profit taking. Later the offerings were comparatively light and the midafternoon market was steady with active months about 25 to 26 points net higher.

January contracts sold up to 17.75, making a net advance of 33 points and a recovery of 99 points from the low level of last week. They closed at 17.66 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 24 to 26 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1 to 5 points on the steady showing of the late cables from Liverpool and a private report estimating ginnings prior to 14 November to 11,892,000 bales and commenting on these figures as pointing to a crop of 14,500,000 to 14,600,000 running bales. The advance met considerable realizing and there was little Southern selling, but the offerings were absorbed on slight setbacks, with the market showing increased firmness later in the day.

The buying seemed to be encouraged by reports of a firmer tone in grain and stocks and was probably stimulated to some extent by another private report placing the ginnings to November 14 to 11,900,000 bales. At the net advances of about 60 points the market met renewed realizing, but the selling was in comparatively small volume and after reactions of 8 or 10 points prices firmed up again. December advanced to 17.61 and March to 18.03 or 33 points net higher and at the highest prices reached since the break to 16.55 for December and 17.05 for March during the middle of last week. Trading then became a little more active with last prices showing reactions of 8 or 9 points from the best.

The bulk of the day's buying was attributed to covering, but there was some commission house buying and the market was supposed to be influenced in some measure by expressions of encouraging or reassuring features growing out of the conferences between the administration and business interests in Washington.

Liquidation of December contracts continued, but the offerings were readily absorbed at about the recent differences, which are said to be slightly less than carrying charges.

Exports today 69,974, making 2,917,581 so far this season. Port receipts 47,205. United States port stocks 2,461,674.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Sensationally severe crop-damage reports from Argentina sent the wheat market soaring nearly 5 cents a bushel here today, with most of the rise maintained. Rendered worse by moist hot weather prevailing, the area of black rust in Argentina was reported widening rapidly, and some sections were said to show virtual complete failure of the wheat crop. Influenced also by stock market rallies, purchasing of Chicago wheat futures deliveries broadened out to an unusual extent at times, Eastern speculative interests taking the lead.

Despite heavy selling to realize profits on the price bulges, wheat closed, in some cases, at the day's top figure. The finish as a whole was unsettled, 3⅞ to 4½ cents net higher. Corn closed 1¼ to 1¾ cents up; oats, 1⅜ to 1¾ cents advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to an equal gain.

Unexpected relative firmness of the Liverpool wheat market today, together with indications of more or less sustained transatlantic demand for wheat from North America, combined with the disturbing news from Argentina, gave the wheat market here a decided upward trend from the very beginning. Moreover, various traders in the Chicago pit trade were expressing themselves freely to the effect that long-looked-for advances of wheat values especially were coming to a focus and that when the amount now on ocean passage reduced now to only two weeks' normal needs Europe is at the stage where continued import purchases are imperative. Under such circumstances reactions in price were stubbornly resisted, and the export basis for domestic wheat at the Gulf of Mexico grew firmer.

The estimate of the Argentine exportable surplus of wheat showed a cut today of 25,000,000 bushels, a greater reduction than any heretofore mentioned of late. Highest prices of the day for wheat in Chicago were reached after the Liverpool market had closed, the rise here after trading in Liverpool had ended being equal to 1⅞@2d per bushel. It was after the close at Liverpool that news reached Chicago telling of greatly increased havoc from black rust in Argentina, heavy rains today, and the crop throughout different large specific parts of Cordoba Province almost a failure, black rust there being characterized as "terrible."

Corn-belt weather unsuited to facilitate the movement of the corn crop tended to strengthen corn and oats values, aside from the effect of wheat market upturns. Besides, corn receipts in Chicago today totaled only 81 cars, against 399 cars a week ago, and offerings to arrive were nil.

Provisions averaged lower, influenced by downturns in the value of hogs.

Special to The Washington Post.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 10.—The newly formed District of Columbia Association of the National Athletic Union was injected into the spotlight of the annual A. A. U. convention here today when Washington was selected as the scene of the 1930 convention and the board of governors voted to expand the Capital association to include the adjacent territories of Chevy Chase and Silver Spring, in Maryland, and Alexandria, in Virginia.

The convention also pledged its support through its respective senators and representatives to aid in enacting legislation in Congress providing for legalization of amateur boxing in the District of Columbia, now prohibited under an old prize fighting statute.

Organized through the efforts of The Washington Post and in existence less than two months, the District of Columbia association thus is accorded signal recognition at the first national convention in which it has been represented. Twenty-four organizations in Washington comprise the District group.

Ernest L. Spitzer, secretary of the District of Columbia association and delegate of the Capital clubss to the convention, was the prime mover in the effort to expand the Washington territory to include numerous clubs in nearby Maryland and Virginia.

Staging of Bouts at Silver Spring Likely.

As a result of the action of the convention, the way now is paved for the holding of the District of Columbia amateur boxing championships held illegal under the present antiprize fight law in the Capital. It is the belief of Mr. Spitzer that the bouts will be staged in Silver Spring, at the new National Guard Armory, where they will be legal under the Maryland law and within easy reach of Washington fans.

The acquisition of the Silver Spring, Chevy Chase and Alexandria territories, formerly part of the South Atlantic Association to which the District of Columbia belonged before its secession this fall, increases considerably the jurisdiction of the Capital association. Clubs and athletes in these three territories adjacent to Washington will prefer, it is thought certain, to compete in the District championships in Washington rather than at Baltimore where the South Atlantic events are staged.

Suburb Teams Permitted In Court Tourney.

In addition to the probable staging of the District amateur boxing championships in Maryland, the chief effect of the acquisition of the nearby territories will be the inclusion of teams from the suburb towns in the forthcoming District of Columbia basket ball championships in which they have heretofore played a prominent part when the tournament was staged under South Atlantic championships. Establishment of a separate and independent District of Columbia association has threatened to exclude these teams from the annual tournament held in Washington.

Washington gained recognition as the scene of the annual convention in 1930 in a five-cornered fight with Boston, Chicago, Indianapolis and Miami, the Capital being selected by a 40 to 8 vote of the board of governors.

A. A. U. Makes Peace With College Group by Certifying Its Athletes

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The Amateur Athletic Union closed a stormy convention today by reelecting Avery Brundage, of Chicago, to the presidency for a second term and ratifying the selection of Pittsburgh for the 1930 national track and field championships.

The A. A. U. completed the program of conciliation with the national collegiate A. A., after a long-standing controversy, by changing its constitution to permit certification of athletes by their colleges and universities for competition in A. A. U. meets. Heretofore only A. A. U. registration has been accepted in national, district or club meets, but under new regulation the statement of a college or university as to the eligibility of any of its athletes will be accepted without reservation by the A. A. U.

This move is expected to have far-reaching effect in harmonizing the activities of the A. A. U. and the colleges, heretofore in frequent conflict, if not actual open warfare.

The hottest fight of the convention took place before Boston was finally voted the custody of the 1930 national senior boxing championships. St. Louis made a vigorous bid for the fistic attraction, offering a flat guarantee of either $10,000 for the whole tournament or $5,000 for half of the eight events, but on a motion to split the tournament, the delegates voted, 88 to 42, to send it entirely to Boston.

Central to Be Ready For Devitt Contest

The three Central gridmen who were injured in the Eastern fray yesterday were not as seriously hurt as first feared and are all expected to be back in the Blue and White line-up when their team tackles the strong Devitt Prep Team in the annual "C" Club game in the Central Stadium on November 27.

Although thought at first that Cassassa had suffered three cracked ribs in the game, it was revealed last night that the Central end had only had his ribs bruised and would be in shape again after a few days' rest. However, it was feared that Bannerman, the Blue and White center, had suffered a broken nose and would be on the shelf for a couple of days at least. The third of the trio who was injured was McGill who dislocated his elbow in the second quarter. Although forced to leave the game, the Central doctor snapped the elbow back into place almost immediately after, and the snapper-back will be ready to resume practice today.

Coach Harlan Page Sanborn hoped to close a deal today whereby his crack Emerson Team would play the prep eleven from Saxtons River, Vt., here on November 30.

Harmon Resigns Post With Chicago Stadium

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.). — P. T. (Paddy) Harmon, who planned and saw the achievement of his dream of the Chicago Stadium, tonight resigned as president of the corporation operating the $7,000,000 sports arena. Harmon presented his resignation after a long conference with the board of directors of the corporation.

A successor to Harmon was not selected at today's meeting, and members of the board would not disclose the names of those under consideration for the job.

Harmon will retain his holdings in the corporation and will continue as a member of the board of directors and of the executive committee.

Roberti Spurns Offers To Return to U. S. A.

Milan, Italy, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Roberto Roberti, Italian heavyweight, who fought with some success in the United States a year ago, announced today that he had refused offers to return to New York. He has decided to remain in Italy until he wins the European championship.

District Chapter Head Praises Delegates' Work

"The success of our delegates at the A. A. U. convention in St. Louis in securing the 1930 convention for Washington and in obtaining the addition of suburban sections of Maryland and Virginia to the District of Columbia chapter's territory exceeds our fondest hopes," Robert E. Acorn, president of the District chapter of

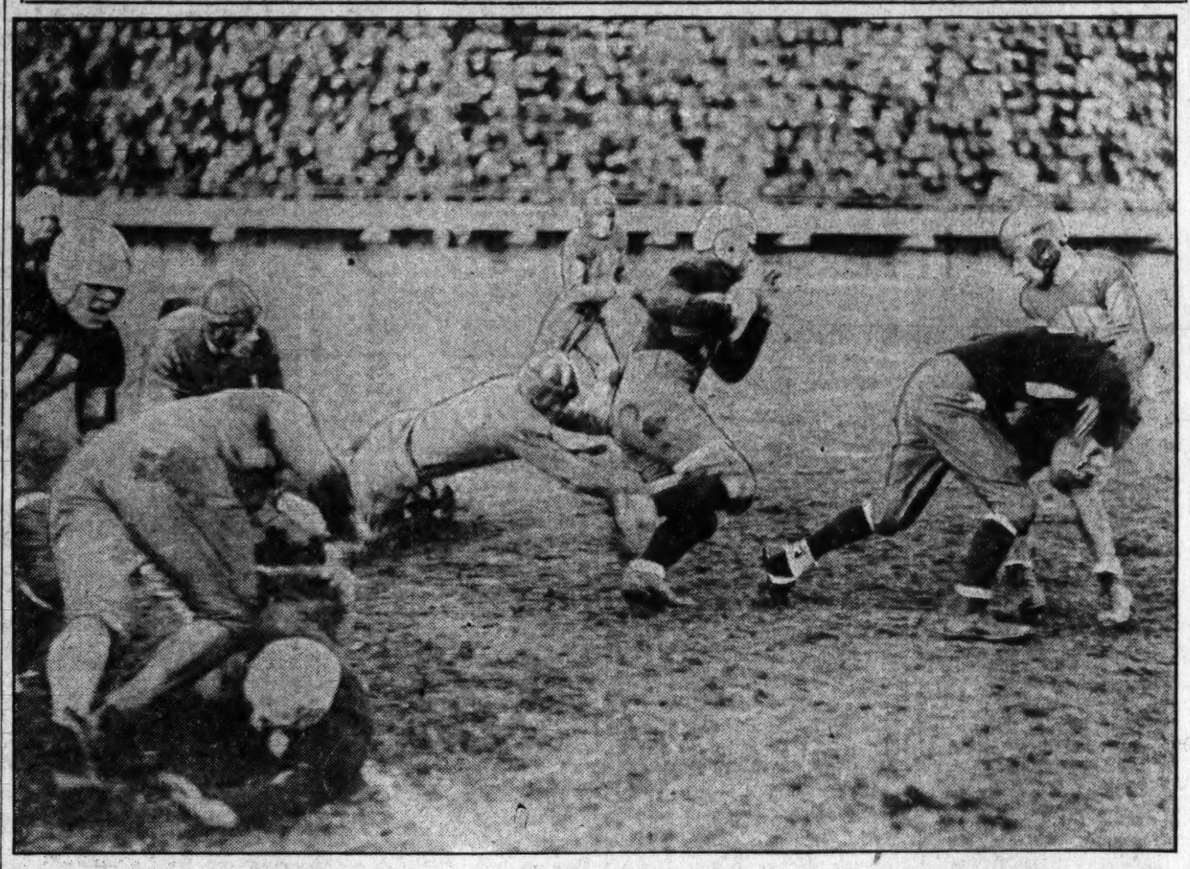
PINCKNEY BREAKS THROUGH EASTERN LINE FOR TOUCHDOWN



William Forsythe, Post Staff Photographer

PINCKNEY BRILLIANT AS SCHOOL ANNEXES 2D PLACE IN SERIES

McCumberland Is Co-Star; Both Teams Score on Passes.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, JR.

AHITHERTO obscure player materially aided a more famous teammate on the Central High School eleven yesterday in the final game of the 1929 inter-high football series, and when the combined damage of this pair was accounted for by the Eastern High team at the end of the game, that aggregation was resting in third place, one notch lower than the Centralites, who finished as runner-up to the champion Tech team by virtue of its 13-6 victory.

Frank Cumberland, clever quarter back of the Mount Pleasant team, was the young man who took a sudden rise to fame to join Larry Pinckney, one of the best backs in the whole series, in giving their team the triumph over Coach "Mike" Kelley's Light Blue and White team. Directing his team in an almost faultless fashion, Cumberland was on the directing end of every Central forward pass throughout the game and his accurate heaves seldom failed to find a receiver. It was his two aerial tosses in the fourth quarter to Capt. Brandt which were responsible for Central's second score of the day, the first placing the ball on the Eastern 30-yard line and the next attempt finding Brandt on the 10-yard line from which spot the Central captain took the pass and scampered over the goal line untouched by an Eastern player.

Pinckney Produces Big Thrill of Game.

However, the big thrill of the day had occurred just before the close of the first half when Central's big shot, Pinckney, pulled off his most brilliant bit of the entire series in ringing up the first score of the game. Although Pinckney has consistently proven his power and worth in previous games, never before had he electrified the crowd in the manner that he did yesterday.

Angus Lamond, Central's crack guard had just intercepted an enemy pass in midfield to give his team the ball on the Eastern 47-yard line when it came time for Pinckney to do his stuff. On the very next play, the ball was snapped to the big Central full back, who started on his record run.

Starting first to the right, Pinckney stopped, turned and darted to the left. With a twist of his hips he had shaken off two Eastern tacklers and with a powerful leg movement, avoided two other would-be tacklers. And then having reversed his field, Pinckney dashed to the sideline and eluding the opposing secondary defense, got clear and raced the remaining 40 yards to a touchdown.

Beside this brilliant bit of offensive play, Pinckney played a smashing defensive game all afternoon with his hard driving tactics which drove enemy runners to the earth time and again before he had reached the line of scrimmage.

Eastern Makes Bid to Tie Score.

Eastern made a great bid to tie the score after the second Central marker and did succeed in pushing over a touchdown through the efforts of Bennie McCullough and Everett Oxley, who flashed a steady aerial attack. With the score 13-0 against them, Oxley gave the signal for his team to open up, and from that point on the air was filled with Eastern passes. Immediately following the Central marker in the fourth quarter, Oxley assumed the role as forward passer and his first attempt brought results. With the ball on his own 40-yard stripe, Oxley threw the pigskin 30 yards to McCullough, who took the ball on the Central 30-yard line and ran the remaining distance over the Blue and White goal to register his team's only score of the day.

From then on, though, their aerial attack was successfully repulsed by the Rauber-coached team, whose members were omnipresent to bat down the enemy passes. While the trailing team was desperate in its ef-

Carolina Still Contender In Dixie

By EDDIE BRIETZ
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—From the northern end of the conference comes the warning that North Carolina may yet figure in the melon cutting that goes with the awarding of the Dixie football championship.

With five conference victories against only one defeat, the Tarheels are waiting around the corner ready to pounce the minute Tulane or Tennessee weakens. The Tarheels are a long shot, but they are not yet out. The dope in the South this year has been more uncertain than ever. Anything is apt to happen. North Carolina, with its best team in ten years, is praying for a break.

The Tarheels have two more conferences games, with Virginia and Duke. If they win them they will finish with a record of seven wins and one defeat.

That would put them out in front if Louisiana State whips Tulane and Tennessee drops one, either to Kentucky or South Carolina. The standings then would be:

	Won.	Lost	Pct.
North Carolina	7	1	.875
Tennessee	6	1	.857
Tulane	5	1	.833

But for the bad quarters in the Georgia game, when the Bulldogs came from far in the rear to overcome a lead and nose out a win by one touchdown, the Tarheels would be out in front now with six victories inside the conference.

They have won handily from Maryland, Georgia Tech, Virginia Poly, North Carolina State and South Carolina.

Another team that has been the victim of bad breaks is the Crimson Tide, of Alabama.

Hailed as the strongest eleven in the conference before the season opened, a series of injuries to back field stars so crippled the team that it lost its first two major tests to Tennessee and Vanderbilt.

But now, with the plunging Tony Holm setting a ruthless pace, the Tide is rolling along in a manner highly pleasing to Wallace Wade, the head coach. It jolted Kentucky out of the running and then decisively outpointed what is left of Georgia Tech's Golden Tornado.

With Alabama awarded the hard luck championship, Georgia Tech and Mississippi must divide the consolation for being the biggest disappointments.

Mississippi lost a lot of good men, but it returned just as many as it lost. Before the season started the experts admitted the Tornado might lose two games. So far it has dropped five out of seven. The last four of them in a row.

Mississippi tackled the hardest schedule of any conference team with a team that is much better than it has shown.

INDIAN STARS CAUSE NEW BREAK

West Va. Wesleyan Drops Davis-Elkins as Sports Foe.

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—West Virginia Wesleyan College athletic authorities today announced that all athletic relations with Davis and Elkins College had been discontinued because of the Elkins institution's failure to abide by the eligibility rules of the local schools.

The action was taken after K. M. Ross, Wesleyan Athletic director, had communicated with Jennings Randolph, D. & E. athletic director, and Ross had reported an agreement seemed impossible.

Both schools are members of the Wesleyan West Virginia Collegiate athletic conference which permits players to participate in four years of varsity athletics. Wesleyan's protest is based on the playing of former Haskell Institute Athletes on D. & E. squad, the local school's contention being these men, Smith, Hawley and Gurneau, had already engaged in several years of varsity competition before coming to the Elkins College.

Haskell Not College, Says Director.

Davis and Elkins maintains, according to Director Randolph, that Haskell is only a high school and that while Haskell men might have played against college elevens, they did not compete as college players.

Several weeks ago D. & E. broke off relations with West Virginia University, asserting West Virginia had not given it fair treatment in the matter of gate receipt splits. H. E. Stansbury, mountaineer athletic director, said at the time the reason for the Davis and Elkins action was that West Virginia would not sign a contract with D. & E. if the former Haskell men were permitted to play.

Utah Eleven Invites Post-Season Contest

Salt Lake City, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Inquiries were on their way today to four universities in an effort to match one of their teams with the University of Utah, Rocky Mountain Conference champion, on December 14, at Salt Lake City.

The movement is backed by the Salt Lake Chamber of Commerce. Invitations for the post-season contest have been sent to Tulane University, Tennessee University, Texas Christian University, and St. Mary's of Berkely, Calif.

The date set for the proposed game is only tentative.

Mississippi Eleven In Mexico for Game

Mexico City, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The Mississippi College Football Team arrived today for its game tomorrow with the University of Mexico which will dedicate the football field at the new Valbuena Workers athletic grounds. The players were given a hearty welcome when they arrived at the railroad station.

En route to the capital of Mexico President J. W. Provine, of Mississippi College, received a telegram from President Hoover wishing the team a pleasant journey and success in the game.

Western High Quits Field After Protesting Penalty

OBJECTIONS to penalties inflicted upon his team by Referee "Yank" Robbins yesterday caused Coach Ahearn, of Western High School, to call his team off the field at Garrett Park in the third period of a game with the Georgetown Prep Eleven. Referee Robbins declared the contest forfeited to the Prepmen, who were leading, 12 to 0, at the time of the dispute.

While punting for G. U. Prep in the third period, Half Back Heekin was downed by a charging Western player, according to reports of the contest, and the referee called the ball back to step off fifteen yards toward the Western goal line, claiming that the kicker was "roughed."

Coach Ahearn protested the penalty and when the official objected to the remarks of the Western coach, a penalty of half the distance to the goal line was meted to the Western team. Ahearn then signaled his players from the field.

Heekin and Morse had furnished most of the ground gaining punch for the Prepmen in counting two touchdowns in the second period. Twice Heekin got away for 30-yard gains and each time Morse capped the drives with plunges through the Western line for touchdowns. Draper and Brownfield were the chief ground gainers for the high school team. They were unable to work the ball within striking distance of the G. U. Prep goal, however.

GALLAUDET'S ELEVEN ON EDGE

Entertains Shepherd in Only D. C. Fray Saturday.

AN imported battle-scarred pigskin from Susquehanna University has joined its stay-at-home ovals in practice drills this week at Kendall Green in putting Gallaudet College in trim for its farewell tussle with Shepherd College this coming Saturday. The leather prize, symbolic of the dethronement of a 6-year hoodoo of Gallaudet's reverses on foreign football fields, will receive fitting inscription after the Gallaudet-Shepherd clash and stowed away in the souvernir cabinet of the Blues to point out to posterity Gallaudet's memorable boys before the goddess of fame.

In the lone football offering for the District fans this coming Saturday, Gallaudet College is prepared to make a dramatic denouement to one of the best football seasons it has enjoyed in years. Coach Hughes is not underrating the rugged crew from West Virginia and warned his proteges to go their limit every second of the contest.

It will be recalled that Shepherd College took the lead during the first half of the previous engagement between the Mountaineers and the Blues. Not until Ringle had put on extra steam and uncorked a few tricky runs was Gallaudet able to down Shepherd College by 39 to 20 last year.

Ringle Allowed to Shun Scrimmage.

Capt. Ringle is to be kept out of actual scrimmage frays all this week, as Coach Hughes is anxious to see his ailing charley horse, sustained late in the Susquehanna tilt, vanish completely by this Saturday. Alfred Marshall and Roy Parks are the other injured members who participated in light workouts only. The rest of the team was put through a driving whip as a final conditioning plan for their anticipated gruelling struggle.

The cut on Paul Zieske's lip is healing rapidly and the Michigan flash is expected to return to his quarter back reins. Claude Hoffmeyer and Boyce Williams are the reserve ball carriers who have been given special tutelage, as Coach Hughes is taking no chances to see his back field machine disrupted by damaging injuries to the regulars.

BALTO. ELEVEN READY.

The Alpha Athletic Club, of Baltimore, would like to play some Washington 145-pound eleven in Washington on any date suitable to a local team. Teams interested should write to Irvin Johnson, 925 N. Luzerne avenue, Baltimore, Md.

Godfrey Is Suspended By N. Y. Commission

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The New York State Athletic Commission today suspended George Godfrey, Negro heavyweight, in concurrence with the action of the Massachusetts boxing fathers because of an unsatisfactory bout with Jimmy Byrne, of Louisville. Vince Dundee, middle weight brother of the former welterweight champion, Joe Dundee, was placed on the ill and unavailable list until he recovers from hurts and fulfills a contract to box at Madison Square Garden.

Tiger Center Secretly Married October 12

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Kept secret until after the close of the Princeton football season, the marriage of William C. Caldwell, of New Rochelle, N. Y., center on the Tiger Team that lost to Yale on Saturday, became known today. The wedding took place October 12.

Caldwell, a senior at Princeton, has left college and will sail for Bermuda tomorrow with his bride, who was Miss Mary T. Folk, also of New Rochelle.

Huskies Reach Scene Of Game With Chicago

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—The University of Washington Football Team arrived today for their intersectional football game with Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg's Maroons, Saturday. Forty players, coaches and trainers comprise the invading contingent.

Coach Enoch Bagshaw said the Huskies would work out daily at Soldier Field or Stagg Field.

Letourner, Brocardo Paired for Bike Grind

New York, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Often the runners-up, but never yet the winners, Alfred Letournier and Paul Brocardo, the little red-shirted French riders who finished second in the recent Chicago six-day bicycle race, were teamed together for the New York whirl, beginning November 30. The "red devils" have just missed victory in the Madison Square Garden grind several times.

DEMPSEY TO STAGE BENEFIT.

Chicago, Nov. 19 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey will promote a Christmas benefit boxing show for Chicago's needy at the Coliseum next Tuesday night. It will be an all-heavyweight card with Les Marriner, former University of Illinois boxer, meeting George Hoffman, of New York in the ten-round wind-up.

ARCADIAN FIVE STARTS.

The Arcadian five, runners-up to the winners in the South Atlantic 100-pound class last season, has organized this season and wants games with 115-130-pound teams. Call Cleveland 6496 after 6 p. m. A game is especially desired for Thursday night.

AMERICAN U. COURTMEN REPORT

3 Lettermen Among Promising Squad Seeking Berths.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY inaugurated basket ball practice yesterday with more than a score of candidates, including three regulars of last year's varsity, undergoing preliminary training supervised by Coach Walter H. Young. The mentor, who is serving his first year at the Methodist institution, was highly pleased by the number and quality of the material that turned out.

Capt. Dave Lichliter, elongated center; Jack LaFevre, forward, and Leon (Dutch) Schloss, guard, were the veteran letter winners returning from last year's quintet. With this trio as a nucleus and an abundance of promising talent in the group of hold-over reserves and newcomers, Coach Young expressed high hopes of producing a formidable team, one that will be a worthy successor to the capable Eagle Quintets of the past four years.

Among the 1928-1929 reserves were Lee Field, guard, and Red Olsen, Hub Elliott and Bill Levin, forwards; while a flock of likely looking freshmen who reported included Orville Targee and Forrest Riehl, a pair of sensational youngsters from Chillicothe (Ohio) High School, both of whom are guards. John Wood, formerly of Western High, this city, also joined the opening day's drill.

Prospects Brightest Ever For Good Team.

While Forrest Burgess and Bruce Kessler have been lost, American's court prospects were never brighter at this stage of the season, according to Eagle adherents. The brilliant Burgess, who was second highest scorer in the District, with a total of 171 points for fifteen games last year, has transferred to George Washington. Kessler has graduated.

Coach Young said his schedule will be completed in the near future and that the Eagles' first game probably will be played during the third week in December.

WOODLAWN FIVE WINS.

Although the Peerless A. C. Five made a great rally to score 14 points in the last period last night, the Woodlawn A. C. Quintet had piled up enough points to gain a 33-to-31 decision. Faro and Ryan, of the victors, and Heickey and Longyher, of the losers, were the offensive stars.

The victors will engage the National Circles tomorrow night at Bolling Field and are anxious to schedule other games at Clarendon 925.

FAUX PAS WINS BOWIE FEATURE, PAYING $98 MUTUEL

Faux Pas Overhauls Leader in Last 20 Yards of Race.

Irish Polly, in Maiden Race, Hangs on to Win Fourth.

Special to The Washington Post.

BOWIE RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 19. Faux Pas, a 3-year-old, by Sir Martin, that won a maiden race at the recent Pimlico meeting, furnished a big surprise in the running of the Lock Haven Purse, Bowie's feature event this afternoon when he beat a field of shifty milers. Ridden by S. Renick and coming from last place at one stage of the journey Faux Pas closed with a great burst of speed on the outside to win going away by a length and a half and paying a $98.60 mutuel.

In the early stages of the race, Passing By showed keen speed. Dashing to the front in the run to the first turn Passing By opened up a lead of three lengths the first quarter. He retained this margin until rounding the far turn, where he began to shorten his stride and entering the home stretch, Turf Writer moved to the front. Beau Wrack, who had been racing in second place chucked it.

Sandy Ford, who had been trailing in the middle of the bunch, responded with a game effort after passing the furlong and for a time it looked as if he might be the winner. He passed Turf Writer at the sixteenth pole, but right at the end he began to weaken and Faux Pas, who was on the extreme outside, caught him 20 yards from the finishing line to win going away. Sandy Ford, Turf Writer and Black Patricia followed in the order named, necks and heads apart.

The footing during the first three races was heavy, but the bright sunshine and wind improved the going as the afternoon progressed.

Irish Polly Loses Ground But Maintains Lead.

The Vanity Purse, which was provided as one of the features and which was carded as the fourth race, brought a field of fourteen 2-year-old fillies to the post. The winner turned up in Irish Polly, a first-time starter, carrying the colors of Dixiana. There were fourteen starters and they were tant away on their journey from the barrier without the aid of stalls.

Before they had gone a sixteenth Irish Polly was out in front showing the way. Leishman let her step right along and rounding the far turn she tried to bear out. Coming wide at the turn into the home stretch, Irish Polly lost the lead for a few strides but when straightened out came again and was a head in front of Mild at the furlong pole. The pair then hooked up for a long desperate drive and when the final test came Irish Polly, hanging on with great courage, got the verdict by a short head. Six lengths farther back came the Whitney filly, Rueful, who beat First Lady three lengths for third place.

A field of fourteen 2-year-olds went to the post in the first race, a dash of 6 furlongs under claiming conditions. George Odom saddled the favorite in the Lenox Stable's Stephanite but T. M. Cassidy furnished the winner in Jolly Pal. The latter was ridden by the apprentice, W. Cannon. When the start came Jolly Pal was off with the leaders and after trailing Rod Rack the first quarter, moved up stoutly rounding the far turn, where he took command and drew away into a lead of one length. Thurber was driving Stephanite as they swung into the home stretch, but the latter was unable to get to the leader and at the end Jolly Pal was winner by a length. Stephanite beat Gay Fast three lengths for the place and then followed by Guilder six lengths farther away. Rod Rack stopped to a walk when put to a drive and was seventh at the finish.

Chattahoochee Hangs On To Win in Second.

A driving finish came with the running of the second race when the Norwoo Stables' Chattahoochee beat Euclid out a length. This pair ran one-two the entire trip with Chattahoochee having a slight advantage until rounindg the far turn where the leader began drawing away. Entering the home-stretch Chattahoochee was taken wide where the footing was firmest. Euclid was on the outside of the leader and lost considerable ground at this stage.

Going to the furling pole the leader increased his advantage to two lengths but at the end Cannon was forced to go to a drive to get Chattahoochee to last long enough to win by a length. Euclid was driving to the limit to stall off Miss Fire who finished with splendid courage under punishment. At the end she was going the stoutest of the first three.

DEFEAT OF W. MARYLAND NOW GOAL OF OLD LINERS

Hopkins Seen As Easy for Maryland

Victories Would Give Old Liners Brilliant Finish for 1929.

Berger Being Primed for Green Terrors on Dec. 7.

BEATEN by North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia Military Institute, the 1929 football season still holds much in prospect for the University of Maryland. Three defeats ordinarily are enough to stamp a campaign as disastrous for the Old Liners, but this season there are extenuating circumstances and further possibilities which may transform a dull football year into a bright one for Maryland.

Since its early season defeats, Maryland has tied Yale, tied Virginia and swamped Virginia Poly on successive Saturdays, a showing that well might compensate any team that was off to a poor start in the season, but the two remaining games on the Maryland schedule offer the Old Liners an opportunity to clamp a glorious finish on an otherwise satisfactory campaign.

The first of these two concluding games will be the annual Johns Hopkins encounter at Baltimore on Thanksgiving Day, and the final test of the year will be with Western Maryland at Baltimore on December 7.

Maryland and Hopkins in past seasons usually battled for the championship of the State, Navy excluded, and a victory over Hopkins has always been an eagerly sought prize. The forthcoming game, however, now looms as a walkover for the Old Liners, who, with one of their best elevens in seasons, will be meeting a Hopkins team which has suffered reverse after reverse and does not figure to cause Maryland undue anxiety.

Western Maryland Game Real Objective.

The Western Maryland game is now the real objective of the Old Liners. This contest, almost in the nature of a postseason games, takes its place as the feature of the football season in the State of Maryland, what with Western Maryland boasting a record of eight straight victories, including a 7-0 defeat of Georgetown, and the Old Liners now possessed of their strongest team in seasons.

The Western Maryland game is the only occasion in which the schedules of Georgetown and Maryland cross; and the natural rivalry between these two leaders of the local college group although they do not meet in any sport, is sufficient reason for Maryland to anticipate a victory over the Green Terrors with great relish.

Maryland, indeed, has an opportunity to cap its football campaign with an impressive finish against Hopkins and Western Maryland. The tolerance with his sophomores and other inexperienced members of his team shown by Coach Curley Byrd, has borne fruit the recent successes of the teams testify.

Byrd Eases Work for Old Liners.

Except to tune up its offense and possibly add a play or two and to keep its line functioning as it has been doing, Maryland will do little work this week and may not have any scrimmage prior to the battle in Baltimore on "turkey day."

Curley Byrd, while he did not especially point his team for the Yale game, had his charges pretty well on edge for the contest with the Eli on November 9 and he kept them "up there" for the clash with the Virginia Gobblers the past week-end. His task now is to keep the Old Line gridders from slipping.

The Terrapins came out of the contest with Virginia Poly in good trim, except for minor hurts, and with the right work they will do between now and Thanksgiving should be in tip-top form by that time.

Berger Being Primed for Remaining Games.

In fact, most of the work that will be done in the drills between now and Thanksgiving will be performed by the reserves. A good deal of attention will be paid to Bozey Berger, hero of the Yale battle, but who did not get into the clash with Virginia Poly. He needs some polishing up in the back field job, both from an offensive and defensive standpoint, but should be pretty well primed by the time Hopkins is met and well developed when the Western Maryland game rolls around.

A pleasing feature of the game with Virginia Poly was the manner in which Charlie May came through after taking Bill Evans' place at quarter. It was only ten days ago that Byrd decided that May had the assets of a quarter back and his decision seems to have been correct.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 19.—The Fives, local midget eleven, added another to its string of victories by defeating the midget eleven from Fishburne Military School here today, 25 to 0.

Leading by only six points at the start of the fourth period, the Fives, with every regular in the line-up, launched a drive which netted three touchdowns. In this quarter, Capt. Davis intercepted a pass and raced 70 yards.

Defensive Scrimmage Features Navy Practice

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 19.—A defensive scrimmage against Dartmouth style of attack as emulated by the Scrubs, featured Navy's football practice today in preparation for the battle with the big green team in Philadelphia November 30. Meanwhile, however, the Mentors are not disregarding the West Virginia Wesleyan game on the coming Saturday. No particular changes are contemplated in the line-up, though the understudies were given quite as much work as the regulars, during the scrimmage. The players seem to have benefited from a cross country hike given them yesterday in lieu of scrimmaging and they went through today's program with much zest.

Washington College Expects Strong Quint

Chestertown, Md., November 19.—Early prospects are promising for a winning basket ball aggregation at Washington College, now that a group of candidates are working out under direction of Dutch Dumschott, assistant coach, and Capt. Giraitis. The veteran player, now leading his squad toward a hard and fast schedule, together with Dopson, of last year's championship outfit, are the outstanding members of the team and they will be backed by Stevens, 6 feet 5, center, Alexander and Robinson, all of whom saw action last season when the Maroon and Black retained its intercollegiate basket ball championship of Maryland.

Last year's freshman quintet are also candidates for varsity honors in the persons of Fitzgerald, Plummer, Ross, Clementi, Rasin, Coulborun and Karfgin. Among newcomers who show promise are Gainer, last year a member of the State interscholastic title holders from Pennsylvania High School, Cumberland, and Huffman, a teammate of Gainer's under tutelage of Bobby Cavanaugh, former local star and now coaching the scholastic outfit.

N. C. SCOUTS PRAISE VA. ELEVEN

Expect Cavaliers to Give Tarheels a Real Battle.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Nov. 19.—Tarheel scouts—"eyes of the grid army"—are of the opinion that there's going to be a whale of a fight when Carolina and Virginia stage their annual classic in Kenan Stadium here Thanksgiving Day.

The pregame dope even goes to the extent of predicting a battle that will rival the first Carolina-Virginia game in Kenan Stadium, the dedication game of 1927 which the Tarheels won, 14-13.

"Virginia showed a 100 per cent improved club against Washington and Lee Saturday," was the word one of the Carolina scouts brought back home.

Virginia Has Shown Fighting Spirit.

"Washington and Lee got the first 13 points, but that didn't discourage Virginia's fighting team at all.

"They came back and got 13 in the last two quarters for a tie and were gaining strength all the time.

"What was more important, they stopped the Generals' aerial attack cold, while completing numerous passes themselves for frequent and long gains.

"Virginia has a senior line of veterans averaging better than 190 pounds, hard charging on offense and hard to pass on defense.

"Sloan is an all-around quarter back passer, runner and field general; one of the best in the South.

"Bryant, Faulconer, Thomas, Kaminer and Lewy team with him to make a hard-charging array of fine backfield performers."

Tarheels' Record is Much Better.

From all the dope it seems season records will mean little if anything in this Turkey Day game.

The Tarheels have the edge on paper, but with Virginia improving like this and Virginia always playing its best ball against Carolina the season records are being discounted 99 44-100 per cent.

Coach Collins had the Tarheels back at hard work again today after a comparatively light day on Monday, and the word is that there will be no let-up for the seven practice days left before the momentous Thanksgiving battle.

V. M. I. Squad Starts Work For Annual V. P. I. Clash

LEXINGTON, Va., Nov. 19.—Members of the V. M. I. flying squadron who fought a gallant but losing fight against Kentucky's powerful Wildcats last Saturday came out of the game with no serious injuries, but so used up that Coach Bill Raftery ordered a complete rest yesterday. The Cadets reported on Alumni field today, however, ready for a series of intensive practice sessions leading up to the Thanksgiving Day skirmish with V. P. I.

Coaches Raftery and Hess were gratified at the way the Cadets struggled against odds of weight in the line and speed in the back field on home-coming day, but some mistakes in play were also pointed out in Tuesday's workout.

Smoothing out the rough spots, perfecting the attack, and developing a defense against V. P. I.'s smashing off-tackle plays and sparkling passes will keep the Flying Squadron busy for the next week.

A part of the training schedule will consist of scrimmages against the freshman eleven, which will close its season against the V. P. I. Gobblers at Blacksburg Saturday. The young Cadets expected their hardest game of the season, though the Gobblers went down before the Virginia Freshmen after the Cadets had defeated the same team. On the other hand, V. M. I.'s yearlings lost to the William & Mary Freshmen, who in turn bowed to the Blacksburgers.

As far as the varsity game is concerned, V. M. I. supporters discount Tech's loss to Maryland, knowing that the Gobblers lacked two stalwart regular tackles and that the Old Liners have developed remarkably in the last few weeks. The twenty-fifth anniversary of the first V. M. I.-Tech game at Roanoke will undoubtedly be a repetition of past battles, with all previous scores forgotten.

For the second successive year the Cadets and Gobblers are playing for the State championship, but the Roanoke classic would be just as thrilling if neither team had won a game.

Carolina State Cancels Mississippi Contest

Raleigh, N. C., Nov. 19 (A.P.).—North Carolina State College athletic authorities announced this afternoon upon the request of Mississippi A. & M. athletic officials the game scheduled between the two institutions at Starksville, Miss., December 7, had been canceled.

The cancellation of this year's game will merely mean the moving of the contract between the schools up to start next fall, with the date for the game set for October 25 and the place undecided, though if this contest had been played it would have been staged in Raleigh.

Cancellation of the game will make the State season end with the game with the University of South Carolina the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., Nov. 19.—The Little Varsity Team of the Episcopal High School defeated the heretofore undefeated Friends' School Football Team of Washington today on Hoxton Field in a very close game by the score of 6-0. Lee scored the only touchdown in a 20-yard run off tackle. Meyer and Church were the best performers for Friends. The teams were so evenly matched that the outcome was in doubt until the final whistle had blown.

This victory gives the Little Varsity a record of six wins and no defeats.

All managers of Alexandria basket ball teams have been requested to meet Fire Chief James M. Duncan, Jr., in the city council chamber Thursday evening at 8 o'clock for the purpose of alloting dates for basket ball games to be played in the armory. The coaches of the scholastic teams which will use the armory have also been requested to attend and submit the dates they want for their respective teams.

The local basket ball season will open next month, and Fire Chief Duncan is anxious to have the schedule of games completed and turned over to "Pop" Gill, the superintendent of Armory Hall.

Alexandria faces an interesting season in basket ball. The Alexandria High School and George Mason High School will carry the city's colors in the scholastic world, while the Knight's Store Five, Carroll Rush, manager; the Virginia A. C. and the St. Mary's Celtics will be in the unlimited class. The Del Ray A. C. is also expected to place a team in the field, while the Clover A. C. and St. Mary's Juniors will play junior basket ball. There will also be a number of midget teams in the city.

The Old Dominion Boat Club, after five years of successful basket ball, will not be represented on the courts this season, the members of the club having voted to discontinue the sport at a recent meeting. Last year the Old Dominions, Celtics and Hoffman Clothiers furnished a most interesting series for the city championship after the close of the regular season.

WILTSHIRE RETURNS.

KLEPAC NEW STAR FOR W. MD.

Green Terror Coaches Give Him Credit for Rally.

Special to The Washington Post.

WESTMINSTER, Md., Nov. 19.—After meeting one of the toughest battles of the season, the Green Terrors have come through their eighth straight victory in nosing out Mount St. Mary's last Saturday by a single touchdown. Catching the Terror team off guard, the Mountain dark horses held them scoreless in the first half and gave Western Maryland a real scare until the injection of Klepac into the line-up early in the third quarter, turned the tide for Western Maryland.

The Western Maryland coaches felt the loss of Pete Gomsak even more than they had anticipated. The veteran full back's football career was ended by an injury received in the Loyola game at Baltimore Stadium. His absence from the line-up at Emmitsburg was keenly felt, and it will be a long time before Dick Harlow can develop another man to fill his shoes.

The Western Maryland coaches are particularly proud of Klepac's good work in the Mount St. Mary's game. At the end of the half it was evident that the strong Terror team was being held so well by the fighting Mounts that unless something was done and done quickly, Western Maryland's perfect season record would go a-glimmering. It was then that Harlow sent in Ted Klepac at half back. Ted, who is the champion intercollegiate boxer of the 175-pound class, immediately bolstered the morale of the Terrors with his magnificent line plunging and led the green jerseyed warriors on their 70-yard march to the only touchdown of the game.

Coach Harlow plans to give his men a rest today and tomorrow as a short let-up from the terrific strain which eight hard-won games in as many weeks have placed upon them.

Easton Soccer Team Defeats Hurlock, 2-0

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., Nov. 19.—The soccer teams of the different high schools on the Eastern Shore are playing a series of games for the championship of the Eastern Shore, the winner of which will play the champions of the Western Shore for the State championship. Today, the Easton High School played the Hurlock team, champions of Dorchester County, at Preston, defeating them by a score of 2 to 0. It was a pretty game and hotly contested by both teams. Many good plays were made by both teams.

why smokers graduate to CAMELS—

The phrase "I've Graduated to Camels" originated with a Camel smoker. It expresses the experience of millions who through Camels have learned to know real smoking pleasure.

As taste in smoking develops, it naturally leads toward better quality. New smokers may not be critical but when they once experience the true mildness and surpassing fragrance of the Camel blend, they realize that here is a real superiority. It is for smokers of such discernment that Camels are made . . . for them the choicest tobaccos are selected . . . and this quality is maintained for the millions who know genuine smoking pleasure.

when they learn the difference they flock to Camels

Radio Bridge, Play by Play, Is Explained

First Game in Weekly Series of 20 Contests of Expert Players Is Commented Upon — Two Women Among Four.

Four of the country's bridge experts gathered around the table for the initial game of Milton C. Work's Radio Bridge Series, broadcast yesterday afternoon from Station WRC.

The players were Mrs. Charlotte Cotton Davis, Cleveland, Ohio; Mrs. John Munce, jr., of Alexandria, Va.; Walter F. Wyman, Arlington, Mass., and F. E. Bruelheide, Minneapolis, Minn., all of whom have a more than local reputation as players, teachers or writers. Mr. Work followed the play of the hand and closed the broadcast with his comments on the game as it was bid and played at Auction and as it should be handled as Contract.

The hands were: Mrs. Wyman, South, the dealer; Spades, A, Q, 10, 6, 2; Hearts, A, Q, 5, 4; Diamonds, A, Q, 10; Clubs, Q. Mr. Bruelheide, West; Spades, K, J, 9, 5; Hearts, J, 10, 9, 8, 6; Diamonds, 8, 4; Clubs, 7, 4. Mrs. Davis, North; Spades, 8, 3; Hearts, K; Diamonds, K, J, 7; Clubs, K, 10, 9, 8, 6, 3, 2. Mrs. Munce, East; Spades, 7, 4; Hearts, 7, 3, 2; Diamonds 9, 6, 5, 3, 2; Clubs, A, J, 5.

Mr. Wyman, South, opened the auction with one Spade; Mr. Bruelheide, West, passed; Mrs. Davis, North, bid two Clubs; Mrs. Munce, East, passed Mr. Wyman then said two No Trumps, which his partner overcalled with three Clubs. Mr. Wyman, in his turn, went to three No Trumps, East and West passing continuously. Three No Trumps became the Contract, with Mr Wyman, South, Declarer.

Mr. Bruelheide, West, led to the first trick from his longest suit, Hearts, playing the Jack, which is the correct lead from a suit headed by J-10-9 or J-10-8. Not until the opening lead had been made did Mrs. Davis, North, as Dummy, place her cards on the table. Her singleton King of Hearts, of course, was played by Declarer to the first trick. Mrs. Munce, East, played the "discouraging" Deuce. Mr. Wyman, South, the Declarer, played the 4 of Hearts.

• • • •

Summing up the possibilities of his hand, Declarer could see that he had to establish Dummy's long club suit in order to make his game. He therefore led Dummy's King of Clubs to trick two, deliberately sacrificing his own Queen. Unless he did this he feared that his opponents, by holding up the Club Ace, would block Dummy's Clubs, as there were only two Diamond entries with which to get back to Dummy to establish and run the Clubs. But by sacrificing South's Queen, Dummy, with two entries, could take five tricks in that suit, since the adversaries could win only two Club tricks and could not take the lead away from Dummy without using a winning Club.

East played her Ace on Dummy's King of Clubs; Declarer played the Queen; West the 4. East then disappointed the Declarer by leading the 7 of Spades instead of returning her partner's original Heart lead. Had the Heart been returned, Declarer's play would have been simple. As it was, he had to decide whether to play the Queen or 10 of Spades, since obviously he could not afford to play his Ace. He finally played the Queen; West won with the King, and Dummy played the 3.

Mr. Bruelheide, West, continued his Hearts, as his best possible lead even though he knew Declarer held the Ace-Queen. Mr. Bruelheide led the 8-spot from his sequence, as a slightly more informative card than the 10. Dummy discarded the Deuce of Clubs; Mrs. Munce played the trey of Hearts, and Declarer won with the Queen.

Declarer then enteped Dummy again by leading his 10 of Diamonds and overtaking with Dummy's Jack; West played the 4 and East the Deuce. Dummy led the 10 of Clubs; East played the 5; Declarer discarded the Deuce of Spades, and West played the 7 of Clubs. East did not win this trick because she knew that the Clubs would surely be continued from Dummy, and by holding up she hoped to get a discard from West that might help her in selecting her next lead.

• • • •

Dummy continued Clubs, leading the 9 to the next trick; East won with the Jack; Declarer discarded the 6 of Spades, and West the 6 of Hearts. East then led the 4 of Spades; Declarer played his Ace; West the 5, and Dummy the 8. Declarer then led his Queen of Diamonds, overtaking with Dummy's King, East and West both following suit. As Dummy's remaining Clubs and his own Ace of Diamonds were good for the four remaining tricks, Declarer placed his cards face up on the table and claimed them; which claim his adversaries conceded. Declarer scored 40 for a total of 10 tricks, having lost only two Clubs and one Spade, and 30 for honors. Had the game been Progressive or Duplicated, Declarer would have scored 125 additional points for game in one hand.

In his comments on the bidding and play of the hand, Mr. Work commended Mr. Wyman's original bid of one Spade as being sounder than No Trump on account of the singleton Club; and then his bid and rebid of the No Trump after his partner's Club bids had removed the danger of his singleton suit, even though Mrs. Davis' rebid of the Club suit showed him that she was not strong in top Clubs. Mr. Work also admired Mr. Wyman's handling of the Club suit, playing for certainties rather than trying to make game by taking the Spade finesse, which, as it happened, would have failed.

Quoting Mr. Work on another point in the play: "Mrs. Munce, when called upon to lead to trick 3, was placed in a somewhat embarrassing position. There used to be a saying in Whist that there were only two excuses for not returning partner's lead; viz., not having any more cards of his suit, and sudden death. But in our game today, while it generally is wise to return partner's lead, the conventions are not so arbitrary. Mrs. Munce knew that if Mr. Bruelheide's lead had been from Ace-Jack-Ten it was essential that she send the suit back through South's Queen, but South's insistent No Trump bidding and his fearless play marked him with the Ace of Hearts. There was a chance that shifting from Hearts to Spades might upset Declarer's plans and save game . . . it did save one trick."

Concerning the Contract bidding of this hand, Mr. Work advised an opening bid of two Spades by South, to show his partner that he had a much stronger hand than a one-bid would indicate. With a count of 21, Mr Wyman had strength enough for a Contract opening bid of three No Trumps, had all four suits been stopped; but the singleton Club made the Spade bid preferable. His two-Spade bid would justify his partner in jumping to three or even to four with less strength than would be needed to jump a one-bid to two. A partner with a bust should not jump a two-bid; but with moderate strength he should. An original two-bid, according to Mr. Work, shows a minimum of three high-card tricks and three other highly probable tricks. South had his three high-card tricks in his three Aces; his three other probable tricks consisted of the much better than even chance of winning a trick with one of the three Queens in his Ace suits; and two probable low-card Spade tricks. Two low-card tricks are conceded to a five-card trump suit in addition to its one, two or three high-card tricks.

West of course would pass, and North would bid three Clubs, as an original two-bid in a suit, just as is the case with a one-bid, calls for a denial from partner who has less than normal support but has other strength. South would then go to three No Trumps, arriving at the same bid as in Auction; and the play in the two games would be identical.

Programs on WRC Are Rearranged

Amos 'n' Andy Will Not Be Heard Tonight or on Saturdays When They Will Be Displaced by Puccini Operas.

A number of complications have arisen in the rearrangement of WRC's programs, due to the change of the "Amos 'n' Andy" period from 11 o'clock to 7 o'clock. This feature will not be heard locally tonight because of the two hours devoted to the northeastern finals of the Atwater Kent Foundation, scheduled from 6 to 8 o'clock, but may be heard from WJZ, New York, or WMAQ, Chicago.

For the next two Saturday evenings "The New World in Business," conducted by Merle Thorpe, will be broadcast by the WEAF network, and will not be heard locally. However, on December 7 the broadcasters hope to be able to move this feature to another hour so that WRC's audience will be included. "Amos 'n' Andy" will be omitted on the Saturday evenings the Puccini operas are broadcast. The LeParadis Band will be heard on Wednesday evenings hereafter, to make way for the National Grand Opera Co. presentations on Thursday evenings. "Roads of the Sky" will be lost to local listeners, as will part of the mid-week hymn sing.

Miss Florence Yocum and Gilbert Fraser, of Washington, will be heard in competition with the State finalists of fifteen New England and Middle Atlantic States through WRC during the Northeastern district finals of the third national radio audition. There are to be 30 young singers in the competition, and from that number the radio audience and a group of professional judges will select one young man and one young woman to represent the Northeastern district in the national finals to be held in New York December 15 and broadcast from coast to coast during the Atwater Kent radio hour.

The young people who will compete, all of whom are between the ages of 18 and 25, include:

Mary Ranson Kirkbride, soprano, of Hartford, Conn.; Herbert Roland Trolle, tenor, of Stamford, Conn.; Helen G. Knowles, dramatic soprano, of Seaford, Del.; Sanford La Mert Guyer, barytone, of Wilmington, Del.; Florence Marguerite Yocum, lyric soprano, of Washington, D. C.; Gilbert Fraser, lyric tenor, of Washington, D. C.; Agnes L. Skillin, lyric coloratura soprano, of Springvale, Me.; Alexandre Lemieux, lyric tenor, of Lewiston, Me.; Elizabeth Palmer, lyric soprano, of Baltimore, Md.; Joseph Borrows Waters, lyric barytone, of Riverdale, Md.; Mae Taylor, coloratura soprano, of Boston, Mass.; John Percival, baritone, of South Sudbury, Mass.; Vanda Sanguinetti, soprano, of Keene, N. H.; Richard Edward Bailey, barytone, of Concord, N. H.; Mrs. Paula Josephine Phoenix, mezzo soprano, of Oskhurst, N. J.; Alfredo Frederick Sorvillo, barytone, of Cliffside, N. J.; Michele Rucci, tenor, of New York, N. Y.; Mary Tippett, of New Rochelle, N. Y.; Homer Ackles, tenor, of Marietta, N. Y.; Florence Marie Vickland, lyric soprano, of Rochester, N. Y.; Edna Agnes Neeson, contralto, of Chester, Pa.; William E. Maier, barytone, of Reading, Pa.; Esther B. Edmundson, soprano, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Julius von Spindler Huehn, bass-barytone, of Reading, Pa.; Emma Florence Beldan, soprano, of Newport, R. I.; Charles E. Carlile, tenor, of Central Falls, R. I.; Frederick E. Blais, barytone, of Winooski, Vt.; Eleanor Jane Lewis, lyric soprano, of St. Albans, Vt.; Ethel Neubauer Check, lyric soprano, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Armistead M. Fredlock, barytone, of Elkins, W. Va.

Lois Bennett, soprano, will sing Franz Schubert's "Serenade" during the Mobiloil Hour at 8 o'clock tonight. Erno Rapee will conduct the orchestra during this Schubert program.

The Halsey, Stuart program, previously heard on Thursday nights, will be broadcast at 9 o'clock Wednesday evenings, beginning tonight. The musical portion of the program will remain under the direction of Andy Sanella.

"Grandfather's Clock" is offered by the Revelers' Quartet as a novelty in a program of popular and operatic selections during the Palmolive Hour at 9:30 o'clock. Oliver Palmer, soprano, will sing Mendelssohn's "Spring Song," while Paul Oliver will sing the well-known "Lassie o' Mine."

Highlights in the career of the frigate Old Ironsides, will be reenacted for radio listeners at 9:30 o'clock tonight from WJZ and a network of stations associated with the National Broadcasting Co. The program, lasting an hour, will be picked up from the gun deck of the Constitution, at present in dry dock in Charlestown Navy Yard. Rear Admiral Phillip Andrews, senior ranking admiral of the Navy, will hold an informal reception for New England notables before the microphone. Part of the broadcast will be devoted to reenactment of the frigate's activities during its Tripoli campaign against the Barbary Coast pirates.

Hal Reid's melodrama of the frontier will be presented as the next offering of Hank Simmons' Players aboard "The Good Ship Maybelle," when this feature is broadcast at 11 o'clock from WMAL. This melodrama is entitled "King of the Cattle Ring," and it tells the story of right and might in the days when every man was his own judge, jury and executioner.

A DX request program will be broadcast by Stanley Bell and Les Colvin between 12 o'clock and midnight. Earlier features include a grand opera concert, "Forty Fathom Trawlers" and "In a Russian Village."

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

NOVEMBER 20.

SELMA LAGERLOF, Swedish author, the first woman to win the Nobel prize in literature, was born this day, 1858. She was also the only woman ever to be elected to the Swedish Academy.

The author wrote her first book while she was a teacher at a girls' school. "Gasta Berling's Saga," with its refreshing breath of romance, was a pleasant change from the pessimistic realism which had been the vogue, and brought the author prompt and wide success. With "Nils Holgerson's Wonderful Trip Thru Sweden" she added a children's classic to literature. The Swedish Academy awarded her its gold medal in 1904. Many of her works have been translated into English and have given her a great vogue in America.

Flora Perini, prima donna, was born this day, 1887, in Rome.

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, Nov. 19.

IT is my anything-but-humble opinion that the incomparable Agnes has made the first, what is called in America "faux pas" of her career this season. (Yes, of course, in French faux pas actually means "a mistake," but it means only a certain kind of mistake, whereas it has come into general usage in the English language to mean any kind of error.)

Back to my anything-but-humble opinion: The incomparable Agnes is this season offering a hat silhouette that will not be accepted or sponsored by any one, not even, I fear, by the very, very few women who could wear it and who even would wear it.

I do not, of course, mean that her entire collection is bad or in any way inimitable genius. But I do mean that her outstanding trend, that of the very long drooping, almost nunlike backline, is at fault.

It is at fault because it is uncomfortable. Because it precludes the possibility of fur collars or any of the coat collars that will of necessity be worn for the winter. Possibly it is not such a bad summer hat line, but remember she is offering it for a winter model.

And it is in direct opposition to the skirt of the age—the upward and outward movement, not only of architecture and of aeronautics but of souls and bodies. You can not make women who have just learned the joys of holding up their heads hold them down simply because a new hat line in the back suggests the latter to them.

A new courier heard from—and not at all undecidedly. Maggy Rouff (as soon as we have time to call on them we will tell you how to pronounce that—because so much depends on whether the name is French, English or Russian, not to mention American) is one of the newer couturiers most emphatically heard from. This house seems to have an idea of elegance that is quite in keeping with the trend of the time. Note, as an example, the gray-blue velvet ensemble we illustrated for you today. If the dress were one single speck more or the coat one bit less elaborate, this ensemble would absolutely lose its smartness. As it is, it is very lovely and very elegant, and for the extremely dressy occasion as well as the type of the woman, quite, quite right.

Before you decide on his Christmas present, don't you honestly think that you had better treat yourself to our illustrated leaflet, which is simply full of very original and unusual gift ideas for men? I just wish I could tell you more about some of them—but if I did, then you wouldn't have to send for the leaflet, would you?

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m., and from 11 p. m., to midnight. The danger periods are from 10:45 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., and from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.

Rather unsettling influences will be in force for this date, and an effort will have to be made to make things go according to your desires and plans. Guard your tongue and keep out of quarrels!

The child born on this November 20 will have a fastidious nature, and nothing will be too good for it. It will have a methodical nature, and will be able in its executions. It will be inclined to be overly critical.

You have an abundance of energy, healthy ambitions and a go-after-it attitude toward life. You have not placed your name on the waiting list for any chance opportunities which may come your way. You step out of the queue of waiters looking for snap seats in life and pay your way to the front by honest effort. You try to make yourself efficient and invaluable through hard work and study. You deserve to win. Adverse circumstances, crippling environments and unkind cuts of Fortune may hold you back, but their bonds will not be lasting. You are sure of yourself, and because of this, you are reasonably sure of your future.

You are an independent thinker, and are able to form your own opinions. You are wise enough to gather your own flax, spin it, and to weave patterns for yourself. You love to do things entirely on your own. You are capable of fighting your own battles. You are not conventional in your tastes, and you take up with new ideas and thoughts.

You are very fond of outdoor life, of games and sports of all kinds, and are a great lover of nature. You are a true friend and are very fond of social life. You take the world as you find it, and are satisfied with what you are able to reap out of life.

Comfort so perfect

that you can forget you wear this sanitary pad

Today women prefer Kotex... the sanitary pad that gives comfort and freedom... in place of old handicaps and discomforts

HOW discomforting it is to be conscious of sanitary protection! And so unnecessary today, as millions of Kotex users can tell you.

These millions of women consider Kotex an absolute necessity. It gives you such wonderful comfort... permits such easy freedom of motion... that you can completely forget you wear it!

Why Kotex is comfortable

There are special reasons why this is possible in Kotex.

First of all, Kotex is wonderfully light and cool because it is made of that wonderful substance... Cellucotton absorbent wadding. It absorbs 5 times more than an equal weight of cotton!... thus giving protection without bulk.

And Kotex keeps its delicate softness. It simply cannot pack. Many air-cooled layers keep Kotex delicate though worn for hours.

Preferred by hospitals

A striking proof of Kotex superiority is the fact that 85% of the leading hospitals use Cellucotton for absorptive purposes. Doctors prefer it for its absorbency and vastly greater comfort.

KOTEX IS SOFT...

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Fastidious . . . the sign of true daintiness.

Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12.

Electric Locomotives.

If you were to see a street car being pulled along by horses, it would seem strange to you. Yet such street cars were common sights in cities 40 years ago.

A German inventor was the first to make an electric street car which was practical for people to use. This car was tried out in Berlin in 1879, and later in Paris. After 1890, electric cars began to come into use in London, New York and Chicago.

This electric locomotive pulls a long train through the Rockies.

Nowadays most cities have an electric street car system, although the motor bus and the family auto have to some extent taken away the street car trade.

Several large cities have elevated trains which are run by electric power supplied by the "third rail." Third-rail trains have their tracks where people will not be likely to touch them; for if a person touched the third-rail at the same time he was touching one of the other rails, he would be shocked to death.

Besides trains of that kind, there are regular railroad trains which are drawn by electric power. The electric locomotive is in front, and receives a current down a trolley from the wire above.

Trains of that kind go in and out of New York City along the New York, New Haven and Hartford Line. They are very smooth-riding; passengers are not jarred when the train starts up or stops.

In the Rocky Mountain region, the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Line has 437 miles of tracks on which trains are pulled by electric power. The electricity is produced chiefly by machines which take power from waterfalls. When the locomotives go downgrade they take power from the downward motion, and it is stored away for future use.

More than half of the railroad power used in Switzerland is electric.

During the next half century it is quite possible that electric trains will be the common type in Europe, Canada and the United States.

DISTRICT SURPLUS WAS ACCUMULATED BY BUDGET BUREAU

Sums Recommended by District Heads Are Always Cut.

FIGURES FOR THREE YEARS ARE RECITED

Amounts Sought Locally Would Have Wiped Excess Out.

By BERNARD McDONNELL.

A bald statistical compilation places the responsibility for the accumulation of the surplus millions in the Treasury to the credit of the District at the doors of the Bureau of the Budget and Congress.

The record shows that had the Bureau of the Budget in the secret meetings at which it passes on District estimates and decides what it will and will not approve approved the appropriations recommended by the District Commissioners for the last three years, the entire surplus would have been expended, including the amount needed as a cash operating balance.

The record shows, too, that had Congress acted independently of the Budget Bureau and appropriated for the public works recommended by the District Commissioners in the last three years, the surplus would have been wiped out and less than two-thirds of the minimum estimated as necessary for a cash operating fund would be in existence at the end of the current fiscal year.

By way of contrast, the surplus which will be in the Treasury to the credit of the District at the end of the current fiscal year, including the cash operating fund, will be $7,229,-66.75, it is estimated.

A comparison of the estimates submitted by the District Commissioners, the amount the Budget Bureau permitted to go to Congress and the total carried in the annual District appropriation act for the last three years follows:

For the fiscal year 1928 the Commissioners submitted to the Budget Bureau estimates totaling $39,500,-000. The Budget Bureau cut this figure down by $3,500,000 to $36,-000,000. Congress appropriated $36,-700,000, which was $2,800,000 less than the Commissioners' tentative estimates.

For the fiscal year 1929 the Commissioners submitted to the Budget Bureau estimates totaling $39,700,-000. The Budget Bureau cut this figure down by $2,000,000 to $37,-700,000 which was the amount it sent to Congress. Congress appropriated, in the 1929 District appropriation act, $37,600,000 or $2,100,000 less than the Commissioners asked for in their tentative estimates.

For the fiscal year 1930 the Commissioners submitted to the Budget Bureau estimates totaling $39,200,-000. The Budget Bureau cut this figure down to $36,900,000 or $2,300,-000 less than the total recommended by the Commissioners. Congress provided in the 1930 District appropriation act $38,770,000 which was only $430,000 less than asked for by the District Commissioners in their estimates.

These figures are, it should be pointed out, exclusive of trust funds carried in the annual District estimates and appropriations act, and do not take into account deficiency and supplemental appropriations subsequent to the enactment of the annual appropriations act. They do include such special funds as the revenues from the gasoline tax and water rents. They show that in the last three years the Budget Bureau cut the general estimates of the District down by a total of $7,000,000 and that Congress appropriated something like $5,-330,000 less than the amount recommended by the Commissioners. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, estimates that the total cash which will be left in the Treasury at the end of the current fiscal year will be $7,229,666.75.

Simmons Called a Halt.

But so far as Congress is concerned the foregoing figures do not tell the whole story nor paint a complete picture, for had it not been for Representative Simmons, of Nebraska, chairman of the House District subcommittee on appropriations, the cash balance in the Treasury at the end of this fiscal year would be, it is estimated, something like $12,000,-000.

It was Simmons who called a halt to the growing District surplus and had put the appropriation act for this year $1,674,000 more than the total recommended by the Budget Bureau.

It was Simmons, too, who was responsible for the later appropriation of $3,000,000 for the purchase of land for the Municipal Center. Authorization and appropriation for this was given early in the present extra session when Representative Simmons went to the White House and got the approval of the President for the legislation, although the Chief Executive had declared that no general legislation was to be considered at the session. Armed with the President's approval, Simmons took the Municipal Center resolution back to the House and won sufficient support for it there and in the Senate to get it adopted.

Surplus Not Unprecedented.

But that may be considered something of a personal achievement by Simmons rather than a characteristic action of Congress in dealing with District appropriations, for the accumulation is surplus District millions is not without precedent. A surplus almost as large as the present one—larger in proportion to total cumulated a few years ago because revenues and expenditures—was ac- of the annual habit of Congress of cutting down the estimates of the Commissioners. The fiscal year 1926 might be taken as an example. That year the Commissioners asked for $38,620,513. The Budget Bureau cut this figure down to $30,770,000 as the limit the Commissioners could ask Congress for. Congress appropriated $31,627,797. These figures, too, are exclusive of trust funds.

Prior to July 1, 1920, the expenses of the District were shared equally by the Federal Treasury under the provision of law enacted by Congress. The 50-50 fiscal relationship, however, was changed on that date and 60-40, with the District taxpayer carrying the heavier end of the upkeep of the National Capital, was substituted. Beginning with July 1, 1924, the lump-sum basis was substituted for the percentage division of expenses.

District's Right Recognized.

Under the old percentage arrangement, however, there accumulated in the Treasury a total of $5,257,528.75 between the years 1916 and 1922 belonging to the District. This surplus was claimed for the District by Simmons and the Commissioners, and, after much ado in the House, Congress finally recognized the District's right to the sum, and authorized its expenditure.

That District surplus which Congress piled up in the Treasury was between 1926 and 1928 spent, $4,656,-000 being appropriated for public school sites and buildings and $600,-000 being appropriated for purchase of land for connecting Rock Creek and Potomac Parks.

There were many elements which entered into the final determination of the annual appropriations total and many questions depend upon the answer to the question as to whose judgment was best. Unquestionably the District tax rate had much to do with the accumulation of the existing surplus. Unquestionably, too, the relationship between District officials and District people, on the one hand, and Congress, on the other, had everything to do with the tax rates. This will be discussed in a final article tomorrow.

HAND ESCAPE STORY DOUBTED BY POLICE

TALE'S DELAY EXPLAINED

A new story told by Medio Manazzo, erstwhile prisoner in the Fifth Police Precinct, which seemed for a time to hold an explanation of the escape of Wilbur William Hand, Ohio bank robber, from a precinct station cell, last night seemed likely to prove just another report.

Manazzo was a prisoner in a station cell at the time Hand escaped, apparently by means of a key with which he unlocked the door of the cell in which he had been placed and the outer iron-barred door of the cell room. Questioned about the escape at the time, Manazzo made no mention of having seen a "big-faced" policeman pass a cell door wey to Hand. That was the story he told Monday to a newspaper and which was being investigated yesterday by police officials.

Manazzo was taken to the precinct station Monday night by Inspector Louis J. Stoll and Capt. Walter Emerson, chief of the Detective Bureau, and was called on to pick out the policeman he saw pass the key to Hand. He said none of the men then on duty was the one. Further investigation yesterday failed to identify the policeman There remain some seven or eight policemen who are ill or on leave who have not been seen by Manazzo, and he will be shown these men within the next few days.

Police officials who had hoped that they might solve the mystery of the Hand escape when they first heard Manazzo's latest story yesterday were inclined to be dubious about the accuracy of his recollections. Manazzo explained that he did not tell about the policeman's giving Hand a key when he was first questioned immediately after the escape because he feared for his life.

Capt. Emerson yesterday declared that he believed it would have been impossible for Manazzo to have seen a key being passed to Hand because from the cell Manazzo occupied it was impossible to see what went on at Hand's cell.

Fete Idea Favored By District Heads

Columbia Heights Group to Decorate 14th Street for Christmas.

Fourteenth street northwest, from Fairmont to Monroe, will be transformed into a "Santa Claus Lane" next month under plans of the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association approved yesterday by the District Commissioners.

Plans outlined to the Commissioners by the association call for the stringing of colored electric lights from tree to tree along the curb, with festoons suspended from the branches, rows of evergreen trees set in barrels of sand and lighted at 50-foot intervals and a squad of men dressed in Santa Claus costumes.

The program will be launched December 1 and continued until December 31, H. C. Phillips, secretary of the association, said. The plan was the subject of a conference recently between District officials and B. A. Levitan, president, and H. F. Dismer, first vice president of the association.

CHARACTER COURSE LOOMS IN SCHOOLS

Education Board to Consider Curriculum Addition in Today's Meeting.

HEALTH PLANS FORMED

Instead of a rule authorizing withholding diplomas for uncleanliness, immorality and other character disqualifications, the Board of Education will have before it this afternoon a recommendation for the devising of courses in character education.

Meeting as a committee of the whole, last week, the board rejected the proposal for withholding diplomas and adopted the proposal of Mrs. Marion Wade Doyle, a board member, for character training in the schools. Although character training has always been considered a part of the public school education in the District, no special courses on the subject have ever been included in the curricula, and their introduction would be an innovation in the school system, not only of the District, but in the public school work of the Nation. Nebraska probably is the only State which has attempted to devise character education courses for public school work.

The board also will consider this afternoon $10,000,000 appropriation bill providing for continuation of the school building program in the District, and the Senate bill providing for the safeguarding of the life and health of children. The latter bill calls upon the Board of Education to submit estimates for appropriations for the maintenance in the public schools of proper provision for everything necessary for children's health which the parents are unable or unwilling to provide.

Warren Is Visited By Gen. Pershing

Veteran Senator's Condition Reported Improved After Call.

Senator Francis E. Warren, of Wyoming, was reported "very much improved" last night following a visit by his son-inlaw, Gen. John J. Pershing, who has just arrived in the Capital from France. The 85-year-old senator has been confined to his home for more than ten days by bronchitis.

Gen. Pershing went immediately to the bedside of the senator upon his arrival in Washington and afterward declared that his father-in-law "shows signs of being very much better after so severe a bronchial attack."

The rugged constitution of the veteran legislator was credited by his physician, Dr. John Minor, for his ability to overcome an illness which might have been more serious to many younger persons. He said that decided progress had been noted since Monday.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Louise Mattare.

Civic Association Denies Reports

Charges of Police Graft Were Never Made, President Says.

Charges of graft reported to have been made against police of the Eleventh Precinct by the Hillsdale Civic Association blew up yesterday when Allen F. Jackson, president of the association, told Inspector T. R. Bean, of the Police Department, that published reports of the charges were untrue.

Jackson declared that the association intends to send a committee to call on the newspaper in which was published the report of graft charges and seek to have a correction published.

This information was contained in a report filed with Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, by Inspector Bean. Pratt had instructed Bean to investigate the charges immediately after he saw the published news stories of the association meeting. Officers of the association said that in the course of its last meeting a member had declared there was bootlegging in the association's territory and a committee had been appointed to gather what evidence it could to present to the Police Department. There were no charges that speak-easies were protected by graft, Bean said he was told.

Bus Control Fight Heard in Virginia

District Commissioner Attends Hearing on Nevin Application.

The District Public Utilities Commission yesterday carried its fight to regulate interstate motor bus operations in and out of the District before the Virginia Utilities Commission. Vice Chairman Harleigh H. Hartman, of the District commission, went before a meeting of the Virginia commission in Richmond, Va., called to consider an application of the Nevin Bus Lines, Inc., to operate a bus service between Richmond and Washington.

The local commission is engaged in an attempt to regulate the routes of interstate buses about the streets of Washington and recently instructed Corporation Counsel William W. Bride to file suit against the Nevin Line to collect a penalty of $800 levied against the line for failure to adhere to the routes prescribed by the commission.

The application of the line to operate between Richmond and Washington was made some weeks ago, but the local commission informed the Virginia body that no similar application had been filed here and the Virginia hearing was postponed. District commission officials have been in conference on previous occasions with both the Virginia and the Maryland commissions.

Charles C. Glover, Jr., Put On Public Welfare Board

District Heads Appoint Banker to Succeed Dr. G. M. Kober.

Charles Carroll Glover, jr. vice president of Riggs National Bank, yesterday was named by the District Commissioners to fill the vacancy on the Board of Public Welfare caused by the resignation of Dr. George M. Kober. Glover was selected by Commissioner Sidney F. Taliaferro, who has immediate supervision over the welfare work of the District.

Dr. Kober was chairman of the medical service committee of the welfare board and was regarded as one of the outstanding men of the medical profession in Washington. He is widely known throughout the country. He had served as medical committee chairman of the welfare board since it was first organized, having occupied the same post as a member of the old board of public charities, which was abolished by Congress when it revamped the child welfare work of the District and substituted the public welfare board for the old charities board, the board of children's guardians and other individual governmental welfare agencies.

Kober resigned because of a sharp difference of opinion with members of the board and the Commissioners over the expenditures proposed for Gallinger Hospital in the next fiscal year. The medical committee chairman declared that the high cost of medical service was becoming an ever-increasing problem which demanded the serious consideration of public agencies.

The specific item which brought the dispute to a head was a proposed appropriation of $10,000 to provide for the employment of a full-time, full-salaried psychiatrist to take charge of the psychopathic division of Gallinger Hospital.

Dr. Kober contended that Dr. D. Percy Hickling, who organized the first psychopathic service at the hospital fifteen years ago ang since has been head of the department, is thoroughly equipped to carry on the work and should not be displaced. He declared Dr. Hickling, who stood high in the estimation of other psychiatrists, was performing satisfactory service, and economy demanded that he be not supplanted by a salaried psychiatrist. Dr. Hickling is District alienist but does not draw any pay from Gallinger Hospital.

Dr. Kober contrasted unfavorably the per diem per patient costs at Gallinger Hospital with the costs at the Tuberculosis and Freedmen's hospitals, but neither Commissioner Taliaferro nor any member of the welfare board would make any public comment, and the action of the Commissioners yesterday in appointing Glover to succeed Kober apparently puts a definite end to the entire matter so far as the District officials are concerned.

TWO ARE INDICTED ON MURDER COUNTS

Grand Jury Returns Total of 66 True Bills After Investigations.

TEN CHARGES IGNORED

Two persons were charged with second degree murder and five with manslaughter among the 66 indictments returned yesterday by the District of Columbia grand jury. Charges against 10 persons were ignored.

Julius Saunders was indicted for second degree murder in connection with the death of Harry R. Washington on September 28, last

John Daniel Four was indicted on a similar charge in connection with the death of George Nichols on June 26, last. Nichols is said to have died of gunshot wounds.

Henry Pratt was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Dorothy Kelly, who was killed with a pistol. Edward Johnson, colored, was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Dr. Harry C. Frankenfield, who died from injuries suffered when struck down by an automobile at Vermont avenue and H street northwest. William Walker, colored, is charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of James Makie, colored, who died from injuries said to have been inflicted with a weapon unknown to the jury. Michael Duffy is charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of James O. Smith, who was alleged to have been killed in a fight at Thirteenth and H streets northeast. Joseph Harrison, colored, was charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Robert Quinn, also colored, who was said to have been killed in an altercation in Patterson street northeast.

An unusual indictment was returned against Frank Shore, the charge being importing liquor without paying duty on it. A trunk said to have been consigned to Shore was found in the Union station last January. It contained twenty-nine bottles of liquor and fourteen bottles of gin, the indictment charges.

August J. Haag, who was indicted ten days ago on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon on his estranged wife, was indicted again yesterday, the charge being assault with a dangerous weapon on Thomas M. Taylor. Haag is reported to have called on his wife at her home on Thirteenth street northeast and to have shot both her and Taylor, who is said to have been a roomer.

Nonsupport of minor child or children is charged to John Silvos, Frederic Eugene Kerfoot, Stephen Braford Crowley, Leon Carl Brown, James Smith and William S. Hart.

Robbery is charged to William Jackson and Edgar Williams and Carl Rivers.

Street Car Line Is Sued For $25,000 by Couple

The Washington Railway & Electric Co. was named defendant in two suits for damages aggregating $25,000, filed yesterday in District Supreme Court. The plaintiffs are Anna Louise Durity, of 712 Eleventh street southeast, and her husband, George H. Durity, of the same address.

Mrs. Durity seeks to recover $20,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been suffered in an automobile-street car collision on February 16, on Eleventh street southeast, between I and G streets. The husband seeks to recover $5,000 damages for loss of his wife's services. Attorneys John Louis Smith and John Paul Jones appear for the plaintiffs.

MOFFATT INDICTED ON LARCENY CHARGE

ARRESTED BY ALLEN

William L. Moffatt, local investment broker, was indicted yesterday by the District of Columbia grand jury on a charge of larceny after trust in connection with funds alleged to have been intrusted to him by Harrison R. Orndorff.

The indictment, which contains one count, specifies that Moffatt was arrested on October 19. The alleged complaint is shown as dating back to September 10, the date when Orndorf is said to have turned over to the broker $5,023. The indictment alleges that Moffatt converted the money to his own use.

Charges in the indictment are the same as those on which the broker was arrested by Robert J. Allen, at that time a rivate in the Police Department stationed at the Eighth Precinct. Allen, at the time of the arrest, declared that he was going to investigate the United States attorney's office because of failure to bring Moffatt to trial on two similar charges, and this statement is the indirect cause of the policeman having been dismissed from the force. It also resulted in the trial before the Police Board of Capt. Emmett Doyle, head of the Eighth Precinct, who backed the policeman up in his statement, and who sent a letter supporting him to Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police. Doyle was acquitted, while Allen was convicted and recommended for dismissal.

The new indictment comes just at the time when Moffatt is momentarily scheduled to go on trial on the two other charges in connection with similar transactions. The trial was scheduled for Monday, but has been continued because of the illness of Justice Willliam Hitz.

District Inquiry Yields to Tariff

Postponement Announced by Sackett; Blease Grows Restive.

Nothing more will be done in the Senate's investigation of District affairs until after the tariff bill is out of the way, Chairman Sackett, of the investigating subcommittee, announced yesterday.

He and the other members, Sackett said, now are working twelve hours a day on the tariff, and there is no time left for the local investigation.

Although he is not saying anything, Senator Blease (Democrat), of South Carolina, who sponsored the investigation, is plainly losing patience with the subcommittee, and it would not be surprising if he arises in the Senate soon and says so.

BOOTH IS SELECTED TO BE MODERATOR OF CHURCH LEAGUE

Secretary and Treasurer of Congregationalist Group Are Reelected.

ADULT'S DEGENERACY IS DECRIED BY SPEAKER

Many Citizens Quit Thinking on Leaving High School, Minister Asserts.

The Rev. Kyle Booth, of Washington, was elected moderator of the Washington Association of Congregational Churches at the ninety-fourth meeting of the association yesterday at the Lincoln Memorial Temple.

The Rev. Harvey W. Goddard, of Washington, was reelected secretary and Mrs. Jessie E. Nell, also of Washington, was reelected treasurer. A fellowship committee, composed of the following, was chosen: The Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, Maj. W. O. Tufts and Charles W. Rohrer. They are all of Washington except Rohrer, who is from Franklin Park, Va.

Adult Degeneracy Discussed.

The principal speakers at the closing session last night were the Rev. Charles E. Shelton, of Portsmouth, Va., who spoke on "The Degeneracy of the Adult Mind," and the Rev. H. S. Hardcastle, of Suffolk, Va., whose topic was "The Function of the Church in the Modern Community." Dr. Hardcastle spoke in the place for the Rev. Leon E. Smith, of Norfolk, Va.

Dr. Shelton declared that the normal adult intelligence in this country is 15 years of age. He declared that a great many Americans cease thinking when they leave high school to go to work. Many of that class, known as the "tired business man," spend their spare time playing golf, seeing musical shows, indulging in golf and reading detective stories, he asserted. They never think of trying to improve their minds, the speaker added.

Gospel Preaching Urged.

Dr. Hardcastle declared that the real function of the church is not to adorn the houses of God with gymnasiums and other places of recreation, but to preach the gospel of God and interpret the lessons of the Bible in a more intelligent way. He declared that the tendency of youth toward agnosticism and atheism could be combatted more effectively by a more assiduous interpretation of the facts in the Bible.

The association is composed of churches in Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and the District. Recently the National Council of Congregational Churches was merged with the General Convention of the Christian Church. Christian churches were represented at the meeting by Dr. Hardcastle, the Rev. Joseph W. Fix, of Franklin, Va., and the Rev. C. C. Ryan, of Richmond, Va.

Airport Site Urged By Commerce Body

Chamber Plans Legislative Effort on Behalf of Gravelly Point.

Preliminary plans for the reintroduction of legislation for the purchase of Gravelly Point as a proposed site for a Washington airport were discussed yesterday at a meeting of the aviation committee of the Washington Chamber of Commerce. The group also decided to support the central of Atlanta transcontinental mail route at a hearing scheduled by the Postoffice Department for Monday.

Representatives of the chambers of commerce along the proposed route will meet with the Washington committee Sunday to prepare arguments to submit at the hearing. Two other routes, north and south, had been suggested. A subcommittee was named to promote interest in aviation among the youth of the Capital.

The first meeting of the police and fire protection and public safety committee was held yesterday afternoon. Organization plans were completed, and four subcommittees on traffic, police, fire protection, and public safety were named.
